VETS UNINJURED IN WAR GET HALF OF U. S. PENSIONS

League Assails Too Liberal Policy.

New York, July 26.—[Special.]—The appointment of Calvin Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith, Elihu Root, Newton D. Baker, Gen. John J. Pershing, and Admiral William Sims as a national advisory council of the National Economy league, which was organized today to work against government waste, was announced this afternoon.

All have accepted, according to the announcement. All will work in support of the league's program, which is aimed against extravagance of national, state, and municipal governments. The league plans specifically to combat the payment of federal funds to war veterans who suffered no disability in service.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 26.—[Special.]—Nearly half of the 1933 appropriation of $927,849,000 for veterans of wars is paid out in connection with disabilities not actually incurred in war service, according to the results of an investigation recently conducted by the National Economy league.

The league, which is composed largely of ex-service men and of which Archibald B. Roosevelt, son of the late President Roosevelt, is secretary, has memorialized congress to revise veterans' benefits downward to the extent of $452,154,554, as part of a program of radical retrenchment of the cost of the federal government.

Congress Wary of Question.

Congress has approached the matter with great wariness. At the last session it rejected a provision of the economy bill which would have eliminated 50 millions of benefits. In lieu of this provision a committee was created to investigate the "operation of the laws and regulations relating to the relief of veterans of all wars."

The league listed the following savings that could be effected by confining benefits strictly to disabilities actually incurred in war service:

Spanish-American war pensions [reduction]	$109,000,000
Disability allowances to world war veterans [elimination]	104,277,554
Disability compensation to world war veterans [reduction]	125,000,000
Retired pay of world war emergency officers [reduction]	7,000,000
Administrative cost [reduction]	30,000,000
Hospitalization of world war veterans and incidentals [reduction]	39,000,000
Construction of additional hospitals and domiciliary facilities [elimination]	12,877,000
Military and naval insurance reduction]	25,000,000
Total	$452,154,554

Need Economy for Confidence.

"The confidence of the people of our and other countries, upon which rests the stability of our national finances, cannot be secured merely by nominal 'balancing of the budget' based upon the imposition of new taxes," said the league.

"On analysis it is apparent that economies sufficient to afford such a demonstration are feasible only if major reductions are made in the expenditures for veterans which now constitute in the recent words of the secretary of the treasury 'about one-fourth of our total expenditures.'

"These major reductions in the appropriations for veterans—amounting to 450 million dollars in the next fiscal year—can be made with full justice to all veterans suffering in fact from war service disability.

Half Billion Untouched.

"The expenditures would still amount, after these reductions, to some 500 million dollars annually, which would leave the pensions of the civil war intact and would provide with liberality for the veterans of later wars and their dependents.

"This immediate and drastic reduction of the expenditures for veterans is required, both as the test of the willingness to effect real economy and as a condition of restoring the confidence of the people."

After the act of 1920 which let down the bars to pensions for nonservice connected disability the number of pensioners has risen to 235,463 who received pensions amounting to $112,010,112 in the last fiscal year, while all other countries are now reducing their pension costs for the world war the United States is apparently just getting a good start upward.

If the Spanish war pension system were applied to the 4,700,000 persons in service in the world war the cost would be 2½ billions of dollars a year, the league observes.

GERMAN NAVAL CADETS CAUGHT BETWEEN DECKS

Steamer Picks Up 37 from Waves.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

KIEL, Germany, July 27.—[Wednesday.]—Trapped at their desks in a classroom between the decks, a number of German naval cadets went to death in a twinkling yesterday afternoon when the training ship Niobe was struck by a gale and sank in the Baltic sea off the coast of Holstein. Sixty-nine lives were lost in the disaster.

Capt. Mueller of the rescue steamer Therese Russ put in here early today and told in terse but none the less graphic phraseology just how he had rescued 37 men left floundering in the water when the three masted sailing vessel keeled over.

Saw Vessel Turn Over.

"It was 2:30 p. m. and good weather after the DO-X [giant German flying boat] passed and we made the sailing vessel off the port side," he said. "Flag signals crept up her halyards asking, 'Who are you?' 'Where from?' 'Where going?'

"As we began signaling our reply I noticed a black cloud squall creeping down on the ship. At the same instant the wind whipped to the strength of 'nine' and the ship turned over.

"We put around and raced for the scene. During the dash to the spot, I ordered all hands to prepare the lifeboats for launching and as soon as the scene was reached all the crew save myself and the cook went over the side in the boat to aid in rescue work.

"At the same time boats were called from the Fehmarn lightship. I can't say how long it was between the time of the catastrophe and our arrival, but it wasn't long. All the Niobe's officers were lost save the captain and the first mate.

Pick Men from Water.

"Our boats kept plying back and forth, rescuing men from the water. Some of those men had to swim for an hour before we got them.

"Of the survivors, only six were from the group who had been attending class."

Capt. Mueller said one of the fast naval vessels summoned to the scene rescued the brother of its captain, Cadet Lohse. He said the scene of the disaster off Holstein, was marked by buoys and that the Niobe was lying in 11 fathoms of water. It was not ascertained whether salvage operations would begin immediately.

Besides the Therese Russ several naval vessels and airplanes soon were sent to the scene, but there was no evidence of any other survivors.

Crew Handling Ropes.

There was a slight glimmer of hope that Danish fishermen may have taken more survivors aboard and landed them at the isolated settlement of Rodby, on the Danish island, Laaland. Naval officers were inclined not to believe this, however.

The fact that most of the rescued were members of the experienced crew instead of the cadets who had just gone aboard for a sailing cruise scheduled to last until September led naval officers here to conjecture that the crew was handling the ropes when the vessel went over and sank in three or four minutes.

It was apparent to them that the Niobe was full rigged and was not using her 240 horse power motor. They thought perhaps the sudden blow came off land and bowled her over before the canvas could be reefed.

The total number aboard was tentatively placed at 106.

Needed Hospital Attention.

The Therese Russ transferred the survivors, many of whom were reported in need of hospital attention, to the naval cruiser Koeln.

A few minutes before the Niobe went down the flying ship DO-X passed overhead en route from Travemuende to Kiel. The DO-X swooped down and signaled a greeting to the young cadets and then proceeded on her way, alighting safely after a stormy flight.

ONCE LUCKNER'S SHIP.

Count Felix von Luckner, famous sea raider of the war, who reached Chicago yesterday after a cruise in northern waters with Commander Eugene MacDonald, was formerly owner and master of the Niobe.

"She was such a good ship, so strong, I did not think she could be sunk," he said last night at the Bendix galleries in the old Potter Palmer mansion on Lake Shore drive, where he was the guest of Vincent Bendix.

DOCTOR REDUCES AFTER EFFECTS FROM ANTITOXIN

Dr. William H. Welker of the University of Illinois college of medicine announced yesterday that after five years' of experimentation he has purified antitoxic serums so that the dreaded after effects are greatly reduced.

Dr. Welker, who is professor of physiological chemistry in the medical college, states that he treated more than 500 persons in his experiments, administering the serums for scarlet fever, diphtheria, streptococcus infections, and tetanus. Almost 30 per cent of those given the serum for tetanus formerly developed rashes, swelling of the face, body and joints, and other unfavorable reactions, he said, and this number was reduced to 6 or 7 per cent.

The serum is derived from the bloodstream of the horse. It is the almost colorless fluid that remains after the corpuscles are extracted. The problem confronting scientists was to remove the reactive principle without eliminating the antitoxin. Dr. Welker and his associates believe that further work will reduce the reactive danger still further.

PARK POLICEMAN SHOT IN BATTLE IN A BEER FLAT

West Park Policeman Walter A. Tyrcha, 27 years old, of 2205 Cortez street, was shot above the heart late last night in a gun battle with three hoodlums in a beer flat on the second floor at 1521 Thomas street. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where an operation was performed to save his life. Surgeons said they believed that he would recover.

Off duty and in civilian clothes, Policeman Tyrcha was sitting in the flat when three young men entered. They demanded free beer, and when Mrs. Anna Yankowski refused their request two of them drew guns and assumed the rôle of bandits. As they directed several patrons to a rear room Tyrcha opened fire on them. One of the gunmen fired back, hitting him. Then the trio fled through a back door. One of the patrons leaped out of a window in fright. Police questioned Mrs. Yankowski and her husband, Frank, operators of the flat.

A. A. Sprague Resigns City Cabinet Post

Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, has tendered his resignation to Mayor Cermak and will quit his office when the mayor returns to Chicago, probably about Labor day.

COL. A. A. SPRAGUE

The resignation was announced by the mayor last night on the train on which he is speeding to New York, where he will take ship for Europe in a quest for health. Col. Sprague's request to be allowed to retire was based on the plea that receiverships to which he has been appointed require all his time.

Receiver for Two Lines.

With Britton I. Budd, Col. Sprague has been placed in charge of the affairs of the Chicago Rapid Transit lines and the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad. He told the mayor that, in addition to the working requirements of these new positions, he felt it was improper to hold a public office where consideration of the affairs of the companies might frequently come to him as an official.

Mayor Cermak let it be known that he had personally insisted on his holding the commissionership until his own return. Col. Sprague is one of four men who will direct the city's affairs during the mayor's absence, the others being City Controller Szymczak, Ald. Henry Sonnenschein, and Corporation Counsel Sexton.

New Responsibilities.

"I realize that Col. Sprague's responsibilities, recently assumed, will need his undivided attention later on," the mayor said, "but at my urgent request he consented to continue a few months longer."

The mayor indicated that when he returns he will summon Col. Sprague, other members of his cabinet and members of the mayor's advisory commission, to consider the resignation and to decide on the colonel's successor. His post is looked on as possibly the most important the mayor has to fill."

Accompanied by his three daughters and their husbands and a granddaughter, the mayor boarded the Commodore Vanderbilt of the New York Central lines at 4 p. m. yesterday afternoon. Members of the city cabinet and a number of friends gathered at the La Salle street station to wish him good fortune on his journey.

Dr. Frank J. Jirka, the mayor's son-in-law and personal physician, Mrs. Jirka and Vivian Graham, granddaughter, will accompany the mayor to Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kenlay and State Senator and Mrs. Richey V. Graham will return after seeing their kinsfolk aboard the liner Bremen tonight.

The mayor's last day in Chicago was a busy one. He held a conference with department heads to determine what public projects should be included in a request for loans to be made from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Although it was not definitely announced, it was indicated the government would be asked for funds to build the new outer drive bridge at the mouth of the Chicago river.

Plan Further Discussion.

Further discussions on this subject, it was said, would be held by the four men who have assumed the reins of power for the next six weeks.

YACHT IN MACKINAC RACE IN DISTRESS; IS TOWED TO SAFETY

The fifty-five foot schooner Gaviota, owned by Arnold Kirkeby and piloted by W. S. Ahern, with a crew of seven Chicagoans aboard, was towed ashore by coast guardsmen early yesterday at Two Rivers, Wis., after the craft had been severely damaged by heavy winds.

Rescuers said that the boat's sails had been torn to ribbons and that she was in danger of sinking. The sails were repaired yesterday while the crew rested and a fresh start for Chicago was made.

Explosion Blows Two Men Out of Motorboat

An explosion, presumably of gasoline fumes which had collected about the motor, last evening blew two men out of a speedboat moored to a dock in Wilmette harbor. The men were A. F. Biser, 433 Greenleaf street, Wilmette, sales manager of a safety razor company and owner of the boat, and his cousin, Howard Barker, 431 8th street, Wilmette. They escaped injury, but the boat caught fire. The Wilmette fire department extinguished the flames.

Golden Gloves Bouts Put Off Until Tonight

Fair Tonight

Generally fair and cooler weather was forecast for tonight's international Golden Gloves boxing bouts at Soldiers' field by C. A. Donnel, official forecaster. In the event of threatening weather, however, WGN, the Tribune radio station, will broadcast reports to keep the public informed of any possibility of postponement.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

A big black storm hopped in off Lake Michigan last evening and slapped down THE TRIBUNE'S International Golden Gloves boxing show for a 24 hour count. After weeks of training, travel, planning, building, and management the fights between the German team of national amateur champions and the eight best fighters of the Chicagoland Golden Gloves squad missed fair weather by a few hours and the fights were postponed until 8 o'clock tonight at Soldiers' field.

If the storm had landed on Chicago at 3 o'clock or at midnight the program might have been run off as scheduled. But the blow came down the lake from Milwaukee, where it had played an engagement a few hours earlier, and, after an hour of growling among the eaves and trees along the lake front, came on to rain with great vigor at 6 p. m. The rainfall in the following two hours amounted to almost 2 inches.

Wind Precedes Rain.

The fighters were not even brought to the arena, but remained in their quarters gazing upon the weather—the Germans from the windows of the Ambassador hotel, the Americans from the Illinois Athletic club. They had weighed in earlier in the afternoon, all sixteen making their respective weights without special difficulty, the Germans, in most cases, well under the limits.

The boys will not be asked to weigh again and any advantage arising from this circumstance probably will favor a couple of the Americans who suffered from ounce trouble on the last day of their training. These athletes were now allowed to establish cordial relations with the club menu under no obligation to confront the scales again.

Colors Whipped About.

The attendance had not yet begun to arrive, either, when the wind began to bang things around in the arena preliminary to the rain. The sky came down black out of the north and the American and German colors flying from the steel structure supporting the ring lights, stood out as stiff as metal flags and uttered growly noises as the wind whipped them about. There was still some chance that the storm would glance off and move out to sea, and the ushers, ready in their blue uniforms, the hot dog stewards, the telegraph, radio and movie men, and the details of police and soldiers waited anxiously for the break.

It came with a splash about 6 o'clock and the ushers, who, being optimists, had taken their posts, ignoring the premonitory signs, picked up their feet and set them down with

FIVE TRUSTEES READY TO TRIM 1932 TAX LEVIES

High Court Upholds 'N. S. F.' Checks.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Two school trustees predicted yesterday that the board of education would slash $15,000,000 from its tax levies for 1932 at its session this afternoon. Five votes are said to be lined up for this plan and the necessary sixth vote, it was said, is to be obtained before the meeting.

If this forecast proves correct, the foundation will thereby be laid for the issuance of tax anticipation warrants with which to get cash for the operation of the school system. A saving of "at least $15,000,000" in school costs was the condition on which Mayor Cermak won on Monday the promise of a $2,245,000 loan from Chicago bankers to pay the salaries of teachers and other school employés for a two weeks' period.

Court Upholds "N. S. F." Checks.

A new difficulty appeared yesterday, however, in an opinion handed down by the Illinois Supreme court, which upheld the validity of "not sufficient funds" checks as a means of paying teachers' salaries and made them a valid medium for payment of 1932 taxes. The court issued a mandamus to compel the school board to issue the checks, which are also known as "teachers' orders."

Issuance of the "N. S. F." checks, in the previously expressed opinion of bankers, would make tax anticipation warrants unmarketable, because in the bankers' view it would weaken the security of the warrants as a prior lien on taxes.

Teachers' Groups Differ.

The Chicago Teachers' federation, which started the mandamus suit to compel the school board to issue "N. S. F." checks, was pleased with its victory.

On the other hand, Miss Agnes Clohesy, head of the Elementary Teachers' union, said that the Supreme court decision makes it impossible for the board to sell its tax anticipation warrants, even if it had a market. She said that an appeal may be made to Gov. Emmerson for a special session of the legislature to repeal the law permitting the payment of taxes with "N. S. F." checks. This law was passed at the last special session of the legislature.

Plan Cut of $15,000,000.

The school board was told last January by the D. F. Kelly committee that its $90,180,000 budget for 1932 could not be financed, but the budget was passed. The citizens' committee on public expenditures, headed by Fred W. Sargent, told the board on July 12 that if its expenses and its $75,000,000 tax levies were not reduced "by $15,000,000 at least" the board could not hope to sell any tax anticipation warrants.

That the matter was also discussed at Mayor Cermak's meeting with the bankers on Monday was indicated yesterday by School Trustee Orville Taylor. He said:

"It was brought home to me at that meeting that this cut must be made. We must trim $15,000,000 tomorrow, or we won't even get the $2,245,000 promised us this week by the bankers for the pay roll of the last half of March."

Two Trustees Talk Trims.

Yesterday's discussion took place at a meeting of the school board's committee to trim $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 from the appropriations for new buildings. Action was deferred until this morning to get exact figures.

"I suggest that we reduce the building tax levy by $13,000,000," said Trustee Taylor, "and the educational tax levy by $3,000,000."

"I shall recommend at the board meeting tomorrow that we recall our 1932 tax levy for $75,000,000 and trim it $15,000,000," said Trustee H. W. Caldwell. "Possibly we cannot get $13,000,000 out of the building tax levy. If not, we should take out what we can and the remainder from the educational fund. If we have to trim only $3,000,000 from the educational fund we can save $3,000,000 of that amount by closing the schools for two weeks."

Nine Months' School Required.

School Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan told the trustees that the law requires operation of the schools for at least nine months of a year. Two weeks have already been taken from the school year, and another two weeks would bring the term down to nine months.

Lewis E. Myers, president of the board, who voted against the $90,180,000 budget, also asserted that expenses must be trimmed. On an annual basis it is proposed to reduce the business department expenses $1,331,341, which would result in savings for this year of $854,812.

The educational superintendents have suggested savings of $800,000 to $900,000 and are expected to make other recommendations today which will save that portion of the $15,000,000 not obtainable in the building fund.

"N. S. F." CHECK CASE

The "N. S. F." check or "teachers' orders" mandamus suit, in which the state Supreme court handed down a decision yesterday upholding the validity of the checks, was brought by the Chicago Teachers' federation through one of its members, Winifred Mathews. It was filed in the Supreme court, as a court of nisi prius, on June 18.

The school board owed the complainant $693.75. She had made a formal demand on the board for an "N. S. F." check, which the board had refused to issue. These checks, or "teachers' orders," are regular salary checks. They are taken to the school treasurer who marks them "not paid for lack of sufficient funds." They then draw interest at 6 per cent and, under legislative enactment, may be used to pay taxes levied for the school educational fund.

The board declined to issue such a check to Miss Mathews chiefly on the ground that its issuance would "impair the source of payment of all outstanding tax anticipation warrants."

Follow Advice of Experts.

In its refusal the board was heeding the contention of the law firm of Chapman & Cutler, bond experts, without whose favorable opinion tax anticipation warrants are not salable to Chicago banks, investment houses, and insurance companies.

In addition, bankers had informed the school trustees that if teachers' orders were issued the purchasers of tax anticipation warrants would not know the amount of the claims on the taxes that had priority over their claims. This uncertainty, in the bankers' opinion, would make tax anticipation warrants unmarketable.

Under the law that was on the statute books before the "teachers' orders" measure was passed by the legislature school tax anticipation warrants were the first claim on taxes collected for the schools, and claims of the working cash fund of the school board were the second lien.

Priority Still in Doubt.

It was hoped that the Supreme court would decide whether "N. S. F." checks would be a lien after the working cash fund or before tax anticipation warrants, or between the two. Legal experts said last night that they would have to study the opinion before they could determine whether the court had passed upon the question of priority.

The court did say, however, that the view of the bankers on the marketability of "N. S. F." checks is wrong. On that point the opinion said:

"The use of city and county orders and jury certificates as a medium for the payment of city and county taxes under the statute before its amendment does not seem to have interferred at all with the sale of tax anticipation warrants by the city or county and we can see no valid reason why the school employés warrants ["N.S.F." checks] should do so."

Good for 1932 Taxes.

The decision said that the "N. S. F." checks can be used to pay taxes for 1932 and future years, but not for years before 1932.

The court held that the teacher complainant was employed at a fixed salary, had performed satisfactory service, and that that service was not remunerated. The opinion continued:

"The board of education had no funds with which to pay her. Respondents [the board] refused to issue her a warrant for her wages so that the same might be indorsed by the school treasurer over his signature, 'not paid for want of funds,' with the date of presentation. It was their duty to have done so."

Help or a Hindrance?

Whether the Supreme court decision has helped the situation or made it worse can probably be determined by the school lawyers after they have studied the text of the opinion.

If, as they have contended, the issuance of "N. S. F." checks will hinder if not prevent the sale of tax anticipation warrants, then the school board will be unable to raise sufficient cash to operate the schools.

School Attorney Sullivan said last night that the decision has clarified the situation and that the purchasers of tax anticipation warrants will be satisfied.

The school law department hopes that it will be able to work out a plan which will be satisfactory to investors in tax anticipation warrants. A conference is to be sought this morning with Chapman & Cutler. On the outcome of that will largely depend whether the financial outlook of the school board has been improved, as its lawyers believe.

View of Teachers' Leader.

Miss Clohesy of the Elementary Teachers' union said:

"The Supreme court decision injures us instead of helping us. We wanted this 'N. S. F.' law declared illegal. The decision only complicates the financial situation. It prevents the sale of tax warrants and thereby prevents the teachers from getting pay in cash. We prefer money to paper, and this decision gives us another kind of paper.

"I do not think that the teachers will take advantage of the decision. The teachers' organizations should warn their members not to complicate the situation further by asking for teachers' orders.

"If the banks continue to feel as they have and refuse to buy tax anticipation warrants, I believe that the teachers' unions will petition the governor to call a special session to repeal this law."

Complication for Tax Collector.

If the "N. S. F." checks are used extensively for the payment of taxes that practice will tend to complicate operations in the county tax collector's office, it was said. The collector thus would have taxes paid with cash, tax anticipation warrants, and "N. S. F." checks—and all on the installment plan.

State Supreme Court Orders $70,000,000 Tax Judgment

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The state Supreme court yesterday made public its opinion upholding the validity of the 1928 and the 1929 tax assessments of Cook county. The opinion was in the Lillian Cisar case, which was brought as a test and decided by the court on April 20 last. The opinion covering the decision was handed down yesterday.

After an elaborate presentation of evidence by Attorneys Roy D. Keehn and Morris Schaeffer for Mrs. Cisar, Judge Jarecki held the 1928 and 1929 assessments, involving $480,000,000 in taxes, invalid, and also, by inference, the 1930 assessment of $290,000,000.

$70,000,000 Tax Judgment.

In the opinion entered yesterday, which was written by Justice Heard, the County court is instructed to enter judgment against all of the tax delinquents, together with interest and costs for both 1928 and 1929. The total of the tax judgment is more than $70,000,000. County officials say this is the largest tax judgment in the history of Cook county.

The Supreme court opinion leaves the impression that there was no overvaluation of the real estate. The objectors contended that their real property was overassessed because billions of dollars worth of personal property had not been taxed.

It is contended by the court that the objectors paid no attention to the rules of the board of review, and in view of the violation of the rules were not entitled to consideration if the board of review did not desire to grant it. It was contended by the objectors that the assessing officials had denied a hearing to 87,855 complainants.

Court Points Out Defect.

One of the defects in the procedure of the objectors, in the opinion of the Supreme court, was their failure to file a mandamus to enforce a review.

"Neither did she [Mrs. Cisar] bring suit on any bond," continues the opinion, "and not having availed herself of any remedy prescribed by law for redress of her grievance, she must be held to have waived the same and cannot be heard to urge the same in this cause.

"While the law has provided penalties for the refusal or wilful neglect of any assessor or member of a board of review to perform his duty in the matter of making assessments of taxable property, the invalidity of the whole assessment has never been held to be one of the results of such refusal or neglect.

"Would Void Entire Tax."

"If the whole real estate assessment of Cook county were held invalid in this case for lack of uniformity it would necessarily follow as an inevitable conclusion that the entire personal property tax as well would be invalid and that the entire state tax for 1928 and 1929 in all of the other counties of the state would be invalid as well.

"Such a result would not only be a grave injustice to the many thousands of persons against whose property the same County court of Cook county had rendered judgment for the sale of delinquent taxes based upon the same assessments for 1928 and 1929. Such a holding would render it possible for an unscrupulous assessor to prevent government, both local and state, from functioning."

The attorneys for Mrs. Cisar have indicated they intend to appeal to the United States Supreme court.

County Attorney's Statement.

Hayden Bell, tax attorney for the county, whose contentions the state Supreme court upheld, made this statement last night:

"The decision is in line with the state Supreme court decisions in the Bistor case, and with the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Sol Kogen case, decided a few weeks ago, and earlier cases.

"All of these decisions in turn are in agreement with unbroken lines of decisions of the courts of this state, and of the United States for more than half a century.

"These later decisions are rapidly dispelling the fog which racketeers have raised in this community for their own profit. I understand appraisal companies have been organized to sell appraisals to taxpayers to be used in the trial of tax objections. Such appraisals are not even evidence in court in such trials, and it has been so held recently by the Supreme court of this state.

Violate Law, He Says.

"A person who obtains money from a taxpayer for such appraisals obtains money by false pretenses. Any person who solicits taxpayers as clients and receives money from them for legal services violates the law against barratry, and the ethics of the legal profession. Except where a mistake has been made in the taxpayer's valuation or a fraudulent excessive valuation can be shown, no service is possible to be rendered to the taxpayers in court.

"When the deluded taxpayers of this county realize the full truth of their situation, and the full extent of their deception by these so-called associations, such organizations will have to take to the tall timber to save themselves from the wrath of their disillusioned victims.

"The general principle decided in all these cases is that where property is fairly assessed in its own class the omission of other property or the undervaluation of other property of different classes constitutes no defense against the tax."

WIDOW AND HER BROTHER HELD IN SLAYING CASE

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Mrs. Vera Carl and her brother, Ivan Grilec, be held to the grand jury on a charge of slaying Mrs. Carl's husband, George, whose death was predicted by a neighborhood fortune teller three days before he was found shot to death in his grocery at 2611 South Crawford avenue on July 16.

The coroner's jury returned the verdict without hearing any testimony in addition to that introduced a week ago. Police investigators expressed a surprise at the finding, stating that they had expected the usual verdict of murder by persons unknown.

Investigators said the only clew pointing to a possible motive for the murder was police information that Grilec, an insurance salesman, had induced Carl to take out a $5,000 insurance policy, which carried a double indemnity clause in case of violent death. Grilec denied making the deal.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS TRANSIT UNITY ORDINANCE

Denies Two Suits Against Merger Plan.

In a recess opinion delivered at Springfield, the high court consolidated two attacks upon the constitutionality of the ordinance, and denied the pleas of both parties. One of the suits, filed by Elizabeth M. Bass and Augustus E. Olson, suing both as taxpayers and owners of transit securities, sought an injunction restraining the city from spending any money out of the traction fund or from other sources in carrying out subway building or other improvements.

The other suit was a quo warranto proceeding started by Attorney General Carlstrom, also attacking the constitutionality of the unification ordinance and of the state laws which authorized it. Attorney Stephen A. Foster, who prosecuted the Bass-Olson suit, charged that the attorney general's action, started at the instance of James Simpson, chairman of the citizens' committee, which arranged the transit settlement, was the result of collusion and sought to set up "a straw man" to be knocked down in the Supreme court.

One Dissenting Vote.

Justice Warren Orr wrote the opinion denying both pleas and upholding the ordinance. Justice Frank K. Dunn cast the only dissenting vote in the court.

"The ordinance is not invalid upon any of the grounds urged against it," the opinion states. "Nor is the use of the city traction fund to pay for the subway designated as State street subway loop No. 1 illegal.

"Further point is made that if the plan embodied in the ordinance be sustained it is of such an arbitrary and unreasonable character as to violate the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution. The argument under this point consists largely of a summary of various points urged against the validity of the legislation of 1929 and the ordinance of 1930, and no sufficient basis is presented to sustain the claims of a violation of the due process clause of the federal constitution.

"In our judgment, the four acts of 1929 and the ordinance of 1930 violate no provisions of the fundamental law of this state or the United States and are valid legislation."

The opinion in another place points out that the ordinance has yet to be accepted by the grantee, but when accepted will constitute a contract between the city and the grantee, which is the Chicago Local Transportation company.

"Where the grant of a franchise to a public utility corporation is susceptible of two constructions, that construction will be adopted which is most favorable to the people," the opinion continues.

The effect of the Supreme court ruling, attorneys said, is to place the stamp of approval upon the plan for unification of the elevated and surface lines of Chicago and eventually the bus lines into a one fare, centrally controlled local transportation system.

"These decisions are of almost incalculable value to the city," said Attorney Walter L. Fisher, who as special counsel for the city successfully defended the validity of the traction legislation. "They are essential preliminaries to vigorous constructive action to carry out the traction settlement ordinance and the building of the subway."

Need Security Holders' O. K.

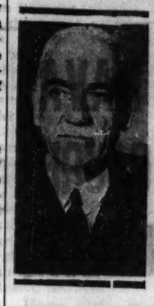
Holders of present securities of the elevated lines and the street railway companies comprising the Chicago Surface lines must consent to the exchanges provided in the financial setup for the unified transit corporation in order to make the plan operative. The depression has materially changed the relative value of these securities, especially those of the "L" lines, whose underlying security holders were given preferred consideration in the new setup since the plan was arranged. Doubt has been expressed as to whether consent of the security holders to the merger can ever be obtained without radical revision of the present plan.

All of the companies involved are now in receivership in the federal courts.

CONGRESS COSTS TILSON TOO MUCH, SO HE'LL RESIGN

G. O. P. Floor Leader Seeks Greater Salary.

Washington, D. C., July 26.—(AP)—After twenty-two years in the house—six as Republican floor leaders—Representative John Quillin Tilson of New Haven, Conn., is going to resign to seek a more lucrative job.



REPRESENTATIVE JOHN Q. TILSON.

The affable lawyer-politician today announced his decision not to run for reelection and to resign from the present congress as soon as it is practicable in perhaps his last "extension of remarks" in the Congressional Record.

Declaring "legitimate necessary expenses" of a member of congress require his entire salary and make it impracticable to lay aside anything for his family, Tilson at 66 says he will seek activity in other fields where he hopes the net financial return for his labors "will at least be on the right side of the ledger."

Tilson is now summering in New Hampshire. He did not say he intended to take up law again, but he indicated he might. He also left the way open for any future public service he may be able to render.

If the importance of the service demands it, he said, "no sacrifice" would be too great for him.

For the present at least Tilson will continue on with politics. He is head of the eastern Republican campaign speakers' bureau.

TWO INCH RAIN COOLS CITY AND TIES UP TRAFFIC

Many Basements Flooded —Lightning Hits Homes

A rainstorm of near cloudburst proportions, accompanied by high winds and a spectacular electrical display, last evening flooded thousands of basements in Chicago and the suburbs and caused serious delays to traffic. The downpour was followed by an immediate cooling off of the atmosphere. In the afternoon a mark of 91 was reached, but by 8 p. m. the mercury had dropped to 69 degrees.

Today, according to the official forecast, will be fair with mild temperatures. It is expected that breezes will blow in from the cool reaches of Lake Michigan.

Nearly 2 Inches of Rain.

Between 6 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. a total of 1.41 inches of rain fell at the federal building. There was an additional .43 inch up to 9 p. m. Less than 3 inches constitutes an average month's rain for the city.

There were numerous reports of trees and wires struck by lighting, and of others torn down by the wind. Police and fire alarm stations reported more than 2,000 calls from householders complaining that their basements were converted into ponds.

Every underpass on railroad lines in the city was filled with water and surface cars were delayed by this. Some passengers homeward bound to the northwest side were delayed for hours after leaving the loop.

On the north side two police stations, Summerdale and Sheffield avenue, were flooded. At the Barry apartment hotel, 635 Barry avenue, lightning tore off a piece of the cornice at the fifth floor level. It fell to the street. At 4925 Gladys avenue two large trees struck by a lightning bolt were snapped off short.

Many Park Trees Damaged.

Nearly a hundred trees in Lincoln park were said to have been damaged. On the south side 800 basements were reported flooded.

At 1237 South Avers avenue lightning struck a tree and hurled it across a small garage. A residence at 2971 Archer avenue was slightly damaged by another bolt.

Several small sailing craft whose owners were caught in the lake when the storm came were assisted to shelter by the coast guardsmen at Jackson park.

Close in suburbs on all sides of the city suffered damage. Trees were blown down at four points in Evanston and traffic was halted at Oakton and Lincoln streets in Niles Center. Three small fires in Cicero were attributed to lightning bolts. Basements and viaducts were flooded there and in Oak Park, River Forest, and Maywood. Melrose Park and other suburbs farther out had a much lighter rainfall and no reports of damage.

RUSSIAN GUARDS KILL FIVE FLEEING ACROSS FRONTIER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 26.—Soviet border guards last night killed five persons fleeing across the Dniester river into Bessarabia. Hungry because the soviets had seized their grain, three peasant women and two children tried to get across the border. At midnight they set out in a small boat opposite the Bessarabian village of Voloboda.

When they were half way across, bolshevik guards opened fire with machine guns, raking the tiny boat.

The boat with the five bodies drifted several hours and finally came ashore on the Rumanian side of the river. The victims will be buried with Greek orthodox rites.

Druggist Shot When He Resists Bandits in Store

Heman F. Oglesby, 7926 Evans avenue, was shot in the right wrist by one of two men who attempted to rob him in his drug store at 701 East 79th street last night. He hurled a glass at the men as they drew guns and was fired upon in retaliation. Not long ago Oglesby threw a bottle at two other bandits who had robbed him.

SUED AFTER GETTING DIVORCE

MRS. BENDIX WINS DIVORCE IN 15 MINUTES

Secret Hearing Is Held by Judge Lindsay.

Judge William J. Lindsay and attachés of the Superior court took speedy action yesterday to grant Mrs. Elizabeth Channon Bendix, 209 Lake Shore drive, a divorce from Vincent Bendix, wealthy manufacturer. Terms of a settlement in lieu of alimony, reputed to be for $2,000,000 or more, were withheld.

VINCENT BENDIX.

Although the rules of the Superior court provide that a divorce is never to be considered an emergency matter, Mrs. Bendix's divorce bill was placed in the hands of Judge Lindsay, sitting to hear emergency matters during the summer recess of the court, within two minutes after it was filed. The judge immediately held a secret session and the whole proceeding was finished within 15 minutes.

Lawyer Bars the Door.

Judge Lindsay left his courtroom vacant and retired to his chambers to hear the case. Orville Taylor, attorney for Mrs. Bendix, barred the door to newspaper reporters, stating, "You can't come in. This is a secret session. The press is excluded."

"You can't come in," confirmed Judge Lindsay when he was summoned to the door. Asked why it was necessary for him to hear the case in private, he replied: "You just can't come in, that's all."

After the hearing William L. James, veteran court reporter, made available his stenographic notes of the testimony taken. Mrs. Bendix stated that she was married on April 6, 1922; that Mr. Bendix left her on Oct. 30, 1930, "giving no reason," and that they have lived apart since.

Questioned About Agreement.

"Are you familiar with the contract entered into between yourself and Mr. Bendix?" she was asked.

"Very familiar," Mrs. Bendix replied.

"You realize that that is a final arrangement in lieu of all alimony or claims against his estate?"

"Yes," she replied.

"There has been no fraud or collusion in obtaining this divorce, has there?"

"No."

Mrs. Mathilde Aagar, 220 East Walton place, wife of Walter Aagar, an investment broker, and Mrs. Lucille Coleman Bistor, 219 Lake Shore drive, wife of James E. Bistor, real estate man, corroborated Mrs. Bendix's charges of desertion. Mr. Bendix is now living at 1360 Lake Shore drive, the old Potter Palmer mansion, which he bought some time ago. Attorney Ralph H. Potter represented him but did not contest the divorce.

Mrs. Bendix was asked after the hearing concerning the settlement given her.

"I've nothing to say," she replied. "As a matter of fact, I'm dumb. I don't know."

Attorney Taylor also refused to discuss the settlement. Some days ago, however, he stated that estimates of $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 which had been published were "low, if anything."

Within an hour after the secret hearing before Judge Lindsay Attorney Charles O. Rundall filed the praecipe of a suit for $40,000 against Mrs. Bendix in the Superior court on behalf of W. C. Dannenberg, private detective with offices at 111 West Monroe street. The suit, Mr. Rundall said, is for Dannenberg's services in investigating Mr. Bendix for Mrs. Bendix from Nov. 1, 1930, immediately following the separation, until very recently.

FINED ON WOMAN'S CHARGE.

Charles Harris, 60 years old, was fined $200 yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden on complaint of Mrs. Vida B. McNutt, 55 years old, 4640 Malden avenue. She testified that Harris tried to attack her in her home.

'MA' FERGUSON'S LEAD OVER GOV. STERLING INCREASED TO 93,000

Dallas, Tex., July 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Miriam A. [Ma] Ferguson continued to dominate the struggle for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination today as late returns from Saturday's primary increased her lead over Gov. R. S. Sterling, running for reelection, to 93,000 votes.

Gov. Sterling, however, expressed confidence he would win in the runoff primary next month, just as he did two years ago, when he ran behind in the first primary. The Democratic nomination is equivalent to election.

Today's figures showed Mrs. Ferguson had accumulated 346,658 votes, to 253,419 for Sterling. In third place was Tom F. Hunter, Wichita Falls lawyer and oil man, with 186,563.

Proposed submission to the states of the question of repeal or retention of the 18th amendment was approved 301,393 to 120,383.

CALEB POWERS, NOTED KENTUCKY FIGURE, IS DEAD

Convicted as Gov. Goebel Slayer; Pardoned.

Barbourville, Ky., July 26.—[Special.]—Caleb Powers, central figure thirty years ago in a drama of politics and murder which has often been compared to the Dreyfus case in France, is dead. Friends here in his home town were informed today that his death occurred last night in Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore. He was 64 years old.

Four times Powers was tried for the murder of a governor of Kentucky. Four times he was convicted. Eight years he served as a felon in the state penitentiary at Frankfort. Then came a governor of his own political faith and he was given a pardon and restored to all civil rights. The next step was his vindication—an election, then a reelection, to congress.

On the face of election returns Powers, a resident of the rugged eastern Kentucky mountain section, was chosen secretary of state of Kentucky in 1899. He assumed office on Jan. 1, 1900. He was a Republican, as was William S. Taylor, who was elected governor on the original count.

Election Outcome Contested.

The success of Taylor and his associates on the ticket was attacked by the Democratic nominees, headed by William Goebel for governor. The latter filed a contest before the state legislature in Frankfort. This body at the time was Democratic and there ensued a fight that for passion and violence has had scarcely a parallel in American political history.

Goebel's contest was filed on Jan. 2 and the legislators began to consider the matter. On Jan. 25 there emerged from the mountain sections of the state, always strongly Republican, somewhere between 500 and 1,000 armed men.

They had gone to the state capital to see that "justice was done," in their phrase. In other words, they had congregated about the old capitol to make certain that Taylor and not Goebel would be seated. Regardless of this menacing band of men trained from infancy to the use of arms, the legislature proceeded with its work.

Goebel Declared Elected.

On Jan. 30 there was a test vote. It was apparent then that Taylor was to be ousted and Goebel seated. That same day Goebel, walking on the grounds of the capitol was shot and fatally wounded. A bullet fired from the window of the office of Secretary of State Powers penetrated a coat of chain mail he was wearing.

Goebel died a few days later, with milling thousands still in the streets of Frankfort.

They had declared Goebel elected, the vote coming between his wounding and his death. He took the oath of office on his death bed. Gov. Taylor held the action illegal and ordered the legislature reconvened in London, a mountain town. This was refused. A few weeks later Taylor fled to Indiana, where a friendly governor refused to extradite him to Kentucky.

Powers had remained in his native state. He was seized and charged with complicity in the murder of Goebel. It was demonstrated at each of his trials that he had brought some of the mountain men to Frankfort, also that he had fled from the capital city disguised with a false beard and a soldier's uniform. It was never contended that he was present when the fatal shot was fired.

Convicted, Finally Pardoned.

Three of his trials resulting in convictions were overthrown by the State Court of Appeals on the ground of legal errors. The fourth, like the others, was a conviction with a life sentence. Powers remained in prison until Augustus E. Willson, a Republican, was elected governor in 1907. Then came the pardon.

In 1910 he campaigned for congress and carried sixteen of nineteen counties in his district. He was reelected in 1912. In late years he had been a legal adviser to the U. S. Shipping board and resided in Washington.

Powers is survived by his widow, two sisters and a brother. Funeral services will be held here Thursday.

Bankruptcy Proceedings Filed Against Alderman

Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings against Irving J. Schreiber, alderman from the 5th ward and operator of a real estate business at 1540 East 53d street, were instituted in the United States District court yesterday. The petition, filed by the law firm of Friedman, Schimberg and Alster, cites claims of $2,036. The petition alleges that Schrieber committed an act of bankruptcy when he made a payment of $995.74 to John Grubman as a preferred creditor.

HUSBAND SLAIN, HIS WIFE SHOT IN BANDIT FIGHT

Victim Killed as He Goes to Aid of Neighbor.

Fighting five bandits single handed, Anton Bakaitis, 47 years old, was shot and killed last night and his wife, Anna, 46, who was standing behind him, was wounded three times. One of the robbers was also hit, but escaped with his confederates. The shooting occurred at 29th street and Poplar avenue.

Bakaitis, who was employed as a pressman by THE TRIBUNE, gave up his life when he went to the aid of a neighbor, Mrs. Regina Salath, 30 years old, owner with her husband of a grocery at 930 West 29th street.

Mrs. Salath was behind the counter of her store when a car containing the five gunmen drew up in front. Her daughter, Tilly, 11 years old, was playing inside the door.

Hears Girl's Screams.

Four of the gunmen entered, the fifth remaining at the wheel of the car. As the four drew pistols Tilly fled screaming to the street. Her cries were heard by Bakaitis, who was sitting with his wife at the front window of their home at 2900 Poplar avenue. Bakaitis seized a revolver and hurried to the street, followed by his wife.

Meanwhile the bandits, frightened by Tilly's screams, darted from the store without completing the robbery, and started to clamber aboard their automobile. Bakaitis opened fire on them. One of the men staggered, and then returned the fire. Another man smashed the rear window of the car and also blazed away at Bakaitis.

Bakaitis and his wife fell to the street. He had been struck three times in the region of the heart, and his wife had been wounded as many times in the left leg. Dozens of men ran to the fall couple's aid, and several started after the gunmen, but the latter disappeared at high speed in Poplar avenue.

Dies on Way to Hospital.

Sergt. James Ivers and his Deering street squad took Bakaitis to the People's hospital. He died en route. Before dying he told Ivers that he was certain that he had wounded one of the robbers. Mrs. Bakaitis was taken to the Peoples hospital.

Mrs. Salath told police that she believed she could identify several of the gunmen. They were members of a gang that had held her up twice before, she said.

PAY $3,160,424 IN TAXES UNDER M'DONOUGH PLAN

Rush Drops Off on First Day of Extension.

Few property owners appeared at the county treasurer's office to pay their taxes yesterday, the first day of the extension granted by County Treasurer McDonough in connection with his installment payment plan. Payments will be accepted through Aug. 1.

After the record rush of Monday during which 9,070 taxpayers paid $640,712 on 11,607 items of real estate, less than 500 visited the cashier cages yesterday. Thus far $5,140,424 has been collected under the plan.

The subjoined list of properties on which, according to the records, less than half of the 1930 taxes have been paid is taken from volume No. 166 of the treasurer's office. It covers a portion of Oak Park. The names given are those to whom the tax bills are addressed, and these persons in many cases are merely the agents of or the lessors to the persons who are actually liable for the bills.

The records give merely the item number and the legal description of the property taxed and the address of the person to whom the bill is sent. The address does not purport to be that of the property taxed. The list follows:

The sale of property delinquent on 1930 taxes was held on the treasurer's schedule of an item a day to comply with the law. The schedule is to be followed for a month, after which sale will proceed at full schedule. The present system is being followed to give owners an opportunity to pay in full or by the installment plan and forestall sale.

MISSING

Miss Fannie Turnbull, 19 years old, Vassar college student, who disappeared from her home in King Muir road, Lake Forest, on Monday morning, was seen that afternoon westward bound from Woodstock in her mother's automobile, police learned last night. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Turnbull. Mr. Turnbull is a north shore real estate operator.

On Monday afternoon Miss Turnbull stopped at a farm near Woodstock and asked for lodging for the night, saying she was willing to do any kind of work in exchange. The farmer's wife, Mrs. Ernest Swanson, said the girl told her she planned to go west, where work might be easier to find. The license number of her car corresponded with that of the Turnbull auto.

Mr. Turnbull, when informed of his daughter's movements last night, said she had little money and probably would seek shelter with school friends, some of whom reside in Rockford and in Clinton, Ia. When Miss Turnbull left home she left a note saying she felt she was a burden on her family.

POMERENE ON FINANCE BOARD; SUCCEEDS DAWES

To Direct Biggest Banking Body in History.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 26.—[Special.]—Atlee Pomerene, former senator from Ohio, today was appointed a member of the board of the Reconstruction Finance corporation by President Hoover and will be elected its chairman, succeeding Charles G. Dawes, who resigned several months ago to resume active charge of his banking business in Chicago. Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board, will retire at once as an ex-official member of the board.

ATLEE POMERENE.
[Acme Photo.]

In a statement announcing Mr. Pomerene's appointment and the fact that he would be elected chairman, President Hoover said he had had a long service as a lawyer, business man and member of the banking and currency committee of the senate.

To Begin Immediately.

Mr. Pomerene will assume his duties immediately as head of the government's three billion 800 million finance corporation, which has before it vast numbers of applications for loans for state relief, road construction, construction of huge self liquidating projects such as toll bridges and tunnels, farm relief, and aid to banks and railroad companies.

In his new position he will direct what has been termed the most gigantic banking and financing institution in the history of the world.

Mr. Pomerene was defeated in the senatorial primaries in 1922 by Senator Simeon D. Fess. He served later as assistant counsel in prosecuting the famous Teapot Dome oil cases.

Democrats in Majority.

The appointment of Mr. Pomerene, a Democrat, gave the Democrats a majority on the board.

Besides Mr. Pomerene the members are: Jesse H. Jones, Wilson McCarthy, and Harvey Couch, Democrats; while Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, Gardner Cowles, and Paul Bestor are the Republicans.

It was learned that the application made by the state of Illinois for a $10,000,000 relief loan had been considered by the board today, although no action was taken. Indications were that the Illinois application would be acted upon in the next day or two.

LOS ANGELES' TOTAL 'GIMME' OF U. S. FUNDS IS NOW $262,000,000

Los Angeles, Cal., July 26.—[Special.]—The funds sought by the city and county of Los Angeles from the United States treasury through the Reconstruction Finance corporation have now reached $262,000,000. The latest request is by the municipal board of water and power for $32,000,000 for electrical transmission lines from Boulder dam to this area, and for improving and extending the municipal power system.

Other items for which Los Angeles is holding out its palm to the R. F. C. include the government assuming part or all of the $220,000,000 bond issue authorized by the legislature for the metropolitan water district of southern California. Dominated by Los Angeles, but embracing eleven othes communities, the bonds are authorized to pay for a 260 mile aqueduct bringing water from the Colorado river after Boulder dam brings it to the Los Angeles area; also a request for $10,000,000 for flood control dams and other projects in Los Angeles county.

INFURIATED BULL LEAPS FENCE TO CHASE MATADOR

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MADRID, July 26.—A bull chased a bull fighter right over the bull ring fence in the little town of Tomelloso today and the president of the bull fight killed the maddened animal with a revolver just as he rushed him.

Raimundo Tato, the cowardly matador, ran away seven times until the angry bull finally leaped high over the fence right after him, chasing him into stands full of people. Finally Tato, with the bull right after him, leaped into the president's box.

As the beast charged the president fired three times.

CHICAGO ENVOYS GO TO PLEAD FOR FEDERAL RELIEF

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and Charles B. Goodspeed, a member of the commission, boarded a Baltimore and Ohio train yesterday afternoon for Washington to appear before the board of directors of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to appeal for funds to continue unemployment relief in Illinois. Mr. Ryerson said he expects to meet with the board today. Gov. Emmerson already has formally applied for $10,000,000 to be allocated to Illinois.

King and Queen to Cowes; Chill Keeps Duchess Home

GIRL WHO FOUGHT BANDITS LEARNS OF LAW'S DELAYS

Made 24 Appearances Against Trio.

Miss Marie MacLaughlan, 17 years old, had her first encounter with lawlessness last May 2. She was waiting on the trade in a restaurant she and her mother conduct at 9187 South Western avenue when two robbers entered.

When one bandit drew a pistol and ordered the two women to hold up their hands, Marie seized a revolver from under the counter and fired. Charles Harrington, 16 years old, one of the robbers, fell to the floor with a bullet in his hip. His companion fired at Marie several times but missed.

Three Are Arrested.

Harrington and his companion, Alex Johnson, 18 years old, and a third youth, were arrested. Marie, who had been complimented by her father, J. D. MacLaughlan, head of the MacLaughlan Patrol Service, on her marksmanship, prepared to appear in court against the young robbers.

Yesterday, upon her 24th appearance in court against the robbers, Marie confessed that she was unable to understand the workings of the courts. She said she was tired of journeying from 91st street and Western avenue, her home, to the Juvenile and Criminal courts.

"Here's the history of this case," said her father. "The holdup occurred May 2. My daughter and I were at a detective bureau showup May 4, when she identified the robbers. Because of the varying ages of the three boys, two were under the jurisdiction of the Criminal court and one in the Juvenile court."

Witness' 24 Appearances.

Following are the twenty-four appearances of the complaining witnesses in the case as shown by the court records:

May 5—Boys' court.
May 11—Grand jury.
May 16—Boys' court.
May 18—Criminal court.
May 26—Grand jury.
May 27—Juvenile court.
June 1—Criminal court.
June 6—Criminal court.
June 7—Juvenile court.
June 13—Criminal court.
June 14—Criminal court.
June 16—Criminal court.
June 21—Juvenile court.
June 22—Criminal court.
June 27—Juvenile court.
July 1—Criminal court.
July 7—Juvenile court.
July 14—Juvenile court.
July 15—Criminal court.
July 18—Juvenile court.
July 20—Juvenile court.
July 21—Criminal court.
July 25—Juvenile court.
July 26—Juvenile court.

When the case was again continued last Monday MacLaughlan and his daughter decided something was wrong. They appealed to O. F. Profant, president of the Chicago West Towns Chamber of Commerce. Yesterday, when the case was called in the Juvenile court, several interested parties were present.

Alderman Present.

Young Harrington and his mother, together with Ald. Walter W. Morris of the 13th ward, who had been in court several times previously, were present, but this time there was no request for a continuance.

Frank Matousek, who acts as a referee in the Juvenile court, and who had presided at all previous hearings of the case affecting Harrington, recommended that the youth be committed to the reformatory at St. Charles, Ill.

Judge Mary Bartelme, the regular Juvenile court judge, is in Europe, it was explained. Judge Otto Kerner was assigned to hear her call during her absence and Referee Matousek has been acting for Judge Kerner.

Mr. Matousek said that technicalities of the law, Harrington's wound, the fact that his accomplices had been indicted in the Criminal court, the requests of police for investigation, and several other factors had delayed a final decision and caused the many continuances.

Holdup Leader.

"If Judge Kerner concurs in my recommendation, Harrington will be sent to the St. Charles reformatory next Friday," said Mr. Matousek. "He'll stay there a year and a half if he is on good behavior."

"He was the leader in the holdup, the fellow who pointed the gun at me and my mother," said Marie MacLaughlan.

The MacLaughlans, father and daughter, are scheduled for their 25th court appearance against Harrington's accomplices before Chief Justice Harry Fisher today.

FOUND SLAIN IN HOTEL.

A man about 50 years old, who registered on Saturday at the Michigan hotel, 1208 South Wabash avenue, as C. S. Wilson of Minneapolis, was found shot to death in his room yesterday, apparently a suicide.

MISSING WHEATON COAL MAN FOUND DEAD IN CREEK

The body of Arthur E. Northrup, 65 years old, 310 East Union avenue, Wheaton, who had been missing since Saturday, was found yesterday in a shallow stream in a Du Page county forest preserve near Mount View, four and one-half miles southwest of Wheaton.

A Du Page county coroner's jury returned a verdict last night that Northrup's death was due to accidental drowning.

Northrup left the office of L. C. Thompson & Co., coal and produce merchants in Wheaton, on Saturday morning to collect some bills. When he did not return at evening his employers asked police to look for him. Yesterday Morton Schneider, a conductor on the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin suburban line, told Police Chief Lyle N. Grange of Wheaton that Northrup took his train Saturday morning, asked the direction of the forest preserve, and got off at Mount View.

Chief Grange led a party to the forest preserve and found the body in the water. Friends said they believed he fainted while standing on the stream bank and fell in. No one knew why he had gone to the forest preserve.

LETTER IN BOOK NAMES SCOT AS WENDEL'S HEIR

Reveals Story of Secret Marriage in Court.

New York, July 26.—[Special.]—Thomas Patrick Morris, a thin, 52 year old Scotsman suffering from angina pectoris, told Surrogate James A. Foley today a story which, if accepted, will bring back to life the Wendel family of fabled wealth supposed to have become extinct with the death of Miss Ella Virginia Von E. Wendel on March 13, 1931.

Morris contends he is the son of John Gottlieb Wendel by a secret marriage in 1876 and has in his possession a will which left the entire fortune of John G. Wendel to him alone.

His story contained a scene in the Wendel mansion at 442 Fifth avenue, in which father and son were ordered out by Miss Ella with the cry "get you and your brat out of here."

Resembles Wendel Picture.

Morris, who bears a striking facial resemblance to photographs of John Wendel, began his story in 1885, when John Wendel began a series of yearly visits to the home of Peter and Margaret Morris, foster parents of Thomas Patrick, in Dundee, Scotland.

"He would pick me up and hug me and kiss me, and let me play on his knee. He told me to call him Papa Wendel, and I did."

These yearly visits continued until at the age of seventeen in 1897, Morris enlisted in the militia.

After demobilization, Thomas Patrick returned to live with the Morris family. In 1901 John Wendel paid his summer visit, and on a walk gave Thomas Patrick a watch and chain and a book.

"In the book you will find some writing," Morris quoted his claimed parent as saying, "read it and don't ever show it to anybody.

Letter Tells of Parentage.

Later Thomas Patrick found inscribed on the inside of the front cover and the flyleaf of the book the following letter:

March 1, 1901.

"My dear son:

"I am writing you this to clear up any doubt you might have in your mind as to your parentage.

"I, John G. Wendel, of 442 Fifth avenue, New York City, and Mary Ellen Divine of Edinburgh, Scotland, were married at Castle Garden June 11, 1876, promising to marry her later on in the church of her faith, Roman Catholic. My family being Methodist, I refused to carry it through. . . . In the latter part of May, 1879, your mother and I quarreled, and she being with child, fled to friends, a Mr. and Mrs. Morris living at 4 John street, Dundee, Scotland. I followed and tried to make a reconciliation, but allowed religious scruples to stand in the way.

"You were born the 3d of January, 1880. Your mother still refusing to be reconciled, about two weeks after your birth, disappeared, leaving you. Fear for the scandal and that the news might drift back to my family in the States, I failed to report it. I arranged with our friends to register you birth as their own and care for your birth as their own and care for would return. My hopes were in vain. . . .

"The foregoing statement is true, so help me God.

"Your loving father,

"JOHN G. WENDEL."

Morris produced other documents, including the will, making him sole heir of John G. Wendel.

Judge Foley remarked that Morris either had unfolded a true story, or was attempting to perpetrate a giant hoax to gain a $100,000,000 fortune. The hearings will continue.

STEAM SHOVELS TO EVICT BONUS ARMY CAMPERS

Treasury Orders Vets from Building Sites.

Washington, D. C., July 26.—[Special.]—Contractors' steam shovels loomed today as the weapons the federal government will wield in driving the bonus expeditionary force from its encampments on government property in the southwest section of the city.

Standing pat on its decision that the veterans must be cleared from the semi-demolished buildings and partially cleared sites so that the government construction program can go on, the treasury department today ordered its contractors to begin razing the buildings and clearing the sites at 7:30 tomorrow morning. A special detail of police will be in attendance on the work to prevent interference by the bonus army.

Vets Seek Compromise.

The treasury's order followed a conference this afternoon between treasury officials and representatives of the bonus army at which the veterans offered to evacuate the property in orderly manner if the government would coöperate in finding other quarters for the several thousand men affected by the eviction order. The bonus representatives likewise sought a further extension of the evacuation order which the treasury has already delayed for twenty-four hours.

Treasury officials declined to discuss the outcome of the conference. At bonus staff headquarters it was stated that the conferees had "reached no decision" as to a stay in the evacuation plans, but that the treasury had promised to ask the Red Cross for tents for the evicted veterans. Later it was reported unofficially that the Red Cross had denied the treasury's request.

A further indication that the treasury plans to stand pat on its eviction order was seen in a conference late today between department officials and municipal police, at which plans were laid for police supervision of the razing work which the treasury has ordered resumed tomorrow morning.

Demonstration Falls Through.

Meanwhile, a threatened demonstration by radical members of the so-called "left wing" of the bonus force at police headquarters, where nine of their leaders were to be tried today on charges growing out of yesterday's fracas with the police, failed to materialize.

Three of the radicals arrested yesterday were given sentences of $40 fine or 40 days in jail on charges of parading without a permit. They were John Pace of Detroit, leader of the left wing of the bonus army; Walter Eicher, and Beckworth Johnson.

The labor department is investigating two of the other five arrested during the communist demonstration. These are George Represas and Frank Thomas.

The veterans' administration today issued checks totaling more than $87,000 to about 175 veterans, representing loans up to half the face value of the adjusted service certificates authorized under the Bacharach bill enacted in the closing days of the last session and recently signed by the President.

DOUBLE INQUIRY IS STARTED INTO COLLISION ON "L"

Investigations of the crash of the two elevated trains on the Garfield park line just west of the Racine avenue station Monday evening, in which twenty-one persons were injured, were begun yesterday by the Illinois commerce commission and the city council committee on local transportation. Officials of the elevated lines denied charges that the cars used on the system are not safe. All the fourteen cars involved in the wreck were of composite steel and wood construction, they said.

Investigation by the commerce commission was undertaken as a matter of routine. However, Ald. James B. Bowler, chairman of the city council committee, in ordering the aldermanic investigation, said: "I want to find out how much of the injury to passengers might have been averted if the coaches had been all steel."

H. M. Lytle, vice president of the Rapid Transit company, said in response to inquiries on the safety factors of part steel and part wood cars that the injuries might have been more severe and the number of injured larger if the cars that collided had been of all steel construction. Because of their greater weight, steel cars would have had more momentum and the impact would have been heavier, he said.

1 KILLED, 4 HURT IN COLLISION ON RAIN SLICK ROAD

Mrs. William Scargle, 47 years old, of 1207 Cleveland street, Evanston, was killed and four other persons were injured last night when an automobile skidded into another car on the wet pavement in Northwest highway, one mile northwest of Barrington, in Lake county.

The injured, all taken to the Community hospital at Palatine, are Mrs. Scargle's husband, 45 years old, a pharmacist; their daughter, Ruth, 12, and W. P. Phillips, 50, and his son, Carl, 25, both of Barrington. The Scargles were in one car and the Phillipses in the other.

F. H. Shoemaker of East Lansdowne, Pa., and Roland Mooney of Philadelphia, with whom the Scargles were riding, escaped injury. Shoemaker, who was driving, blamed the accident on the slippery road following the rainstorm.

Three fatalities in Chicago yesterday increased the Cook county motor toll to 662 since Jan. 1. The victims:

Joseph Labuda, 19 years old, 1531 West 14th place. Died at the county hospital of injuries received on Monday when he and five other youths, playing cards in front of 1458 15th street, were struck by an automobile driven by Edward Bak, 21 years old, 2444 South Trumbull avenue.

Charles Terranova, 42 years old, 1129 Larrabee street. Injured yesterday at Elm and Moore streets. He died at Henrotin Memorial hospital.

Carl Adelman, 57 years old, 2132 South Harding avenue. Killed by a truck as he alighted from a Halsted street car at Willow street. The driver was Victor Langer, 1969 North Halsted street.

Five Highland Park youths and a Chicagoan were injured last night, one of the boys critically, in a collision of two automobiles at Crawford and Touhy avenues, Tessville. Both cars overturned. One car was driven by William Barker, 17 years old, of 308 Racine avenue, and contained his brother, Robert, 19; two other brothers, Lee Randall, 17, and Irving, 16, of Linden Park place, and Curtis A. Rodgers, 19, of 420 Oakwood drive.

Quiz Women in Vain Hunt for Werner Murder Clews

More than thirty persons, most of them women, were questioned yesterday in the investigation into the murder of Jack Werner, chief elevator operator in the Criminal Courts building, who was slain by machine gun bullets at 31st street and Calumet avenue last Friday night.

PEARL ENGEL.

The state's attorney and police appeared to have made no progress toward a discovery of the motive for the slaying. Numerous love affairs of the elevator starter were disclosed. However, the theory that Werner was killed over a love affair was not sustained and the investigators were inclined to return to the belief that the elevator starter was shot because he had tried to "muscle" into some racket, using a deputy sheriff's star.

Sheriff William D. Meyering, reported to have been a close friend of the murdered man, repeated his assertions that he had known Werner only as a political worker. He told State's Attorney Swanson that he knew of Werner's criminal record as a convict, but believed he had reformed.

Police found the names of a number of women in Werner's notebook. They questioned all of these women. One of them was Pearl Engel, 33 years old, 7905 Calumet avenue, who was believed to have been Werner's companion in his automobile when he was shot.

Miss Engel denied that she had witnessed the murder. With her lives Jackie Werner, 8 years old, whose mother, Betty Werner Durkin, became notorious through her attachment to Martin Durkin, bandit now serving a 35 year term in the penitentiary for murder. The boy was said by police to be Werner's son.

Among the other women questioned was Mrs. Tillie C. Bertocchi, 2611 South Tripp avenue, whose husband, an alcohol peddler, was slain some time ago. Mrs. Bertocchi said she had ceased her association with Werner four months ago. The other women questioned said they were "just friends" of Werner.

Others questioned were Louis Alterie and Charles "Buster" Brown, gangsters. They gave alibis, showing that they were out of the city at the time Werner was slain, and were not held.

Judge Joseph B. David ruled yesterday that Louis Alterie and Brown must stand trial in the September term of court on a charge of conspiracy to kidnap Edward Dobkin, alias Shamus O'Brien, loop gambler. Both defendants were acquitted recently on a charge of kidnaping Dobkin for ransom and Defense Attorney W. W. O'Brien argued that his clients had been placed in double jeopardy, but he was overruled.

WHEAT GROWERS REVOLT AGAINST U. S. FARM BOARD

Kansas Calls It 'Racketing,' Not Marketing, Act

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., July 26.—[Special.]—A farmers' revolt in the wheat belt against the operations of the federal farm board and what the professional farm relievers have done to the raiser of grain and live stock, was the tidings placed today before the Shannon congressional inquiry into the government's muscling into private business. A procession of dirt farmers, coöp managers, and commission men testified that rural sentiment is running strongly against the farm board.

Most of them came from Kansas, where two years ago, the advice of the board to reduce wheat acreage and let farm land lie idle was a large factor in the political upset this year, the witnesses in general declared. Canvasses of the wheat regions show 70 to 85 per cent of the farmers for abolition of the farm board.

"Farm Racketing Act."

From their narratives it would seem that the Kansas mind is pervaded with an idea that in three years the "farm marketing act" has become a "farm racketing act." Wheat is likely to cut a wider swath in politics than usual in November, it seems, and the farmer is expressing apprehension that instead of kicking the act out, congress may amend it, slipping in the equalization fee, the debenture plan or the crop allotment scheme, which many believe means more years of grief for agriculture. Such was the burden of the evidence from the prairies.

Dovetailing into the complaint of the dirt farmers was the low down on the controversy between the farm board and the Chicago Board of Trade, which led to the recent 60 day suspension order. The inside history of this was presented by C. D. Sturtevant, former president of the Omaha Grain exchange, as spokesman for the ten exchanges which have arraigned the farm board on 21 charges as "a tragic adventure" in food control.

Assail Hyde and Huff.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and C. E. Huff, the ex-minister of Onoroque, Kas., who heads the Farmers National Grain corporation, were made especial targets by Mr. Sturtevant. He charged them with reprisals against the grain trade by having the board's lobbyist at Washington, M. W. Thatcher, former associate of Arthur Townley in the days when the latter was supreme boss of the Nonpartisan league in North Dakota, to push a bill in congress quadrupling the tax on future trades.

Sturtevant blamed Secretary Hyde and the board for depressed crop prices by loose prophecies that prices would soar instead of tumble, urging the farmer to take a gamble and hold his wheat. The farm board was accused of riding rough shod over the protective rules of the grain exchanges, and with acts which would not be countenanced by private traders.

Bureaucracy Knows No Laws.

"It seems," commented Congressman Joseph B. Shannon, chairman, "that if dealers get together to fix a price it's a crime under the law, while if the government fixes a price and tries to peg it by methods in restraint of trade it's all right. Bureaucracy knows no law."

"Some two months ago," said Mr. Sturtevant, "the Chicago Board of Trade, because of persistent violations of its rules, found it necessary to deny its privileges further to the Updike Grain company, a trading unit of the Farmers National Grain corporation. The evidence was so strong that no other course was possible.

"C. E. Huff, president of Farmers National Grain, as a result of this action of the Chicago Board of Trade is said to have called into consultation his Washington lobbyist, M. W. Thatcher, and called for reprisals against the grain trade.

Quadruple Grain Tax.

"So late at night, when the senate was half empty, Senator Frazier of North Dakota slipped through an amendment to the general tax bill putting a 5 cent tax on every $100 value of future commodity trades. This was a 400 per cent increase and brought new disaster to the grain farmer.

"Here is the effect of the tax. Investment and speculative support so necessary at crop movement periods was driven from the markets—not just from the Chicago market but from all other markets—and wheat prices began sinking anew, until recently we have had the lowest wheat prices in the memory of living man, the lowest in Liverpool since the days of Queen Elizabeth."

Indications that the double cross was pinned by the farm board on leading agricultural groups were developed by Mr. Sturtevant. He continued:

Farmers' Pleas Discarded.

"In the last days of congress, at the request of farm organizations, a bill was introduced to lower this tax as an agricultural relief measure and it was supported by the National Grange, the Indiana farm bureau, the Farmers National Grain Dealers' association, and other groups. It looked as if it might go through when suddenly Huff sent word to Thatcher, who received his pay out of the federal treasury, to stop the bill by all means. And Huff's move, again against the farmers' interest, was a success.

"Now I ask whether recent references by farmers and independent coöperative officers to Huff, Hyde, Stone, Milnor, Thatcher as rural racketeers cannot be excused in a measure. I would not apply such a phrase, but I deeply regret that the men supposed to lead agriculture are regarded by millions of producers as enemies of agriculture."

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Then came the order to close the Chicago grain market.

"The anger of Huff and Secretary Hyde," said Mr. Sturtevant, "over the barring of the Updike unit brought still more trouble for the traders and for agriculture. Secretary Hyde, as ex-officio member of the farm board, was really a sort of defendant in the Updike case."

"But in the wonderland of bureaucracy Hyde found it possible to turn from defendant to prosecutor, judge, and jury. Huff asked that the Chicago Board of Trade be closed, charging it had refused the Farmers National Grain corporation admittance to the clearing house for failing to obey the rules.

"So, under the grain futures act, Secretary Hyde constituted himself a member of a commission of three and last Saturday ruled that, in effect, the central grain market of the world in Chicago should be closed for sixty days. He was no longer a party to the Updike defense, he was no longer Dr. Jekyll, but became Mr. Hyde, prosecutor, judge, and jury."

Fear Panic if Order Stands.

"Fortunately we still have courts, and the Chicago Board of Trade will not close. The order might just as well have included all other American grain markets, for the closing of the Chicago Board of Trade at this crop moving period would demoralize all other markets, break hundreds of banks in the grain belt, drive wheat prices to still more ruinous levels, and, it is conceivable, bring on a panic of good proportions."

Interlocking directors and dummy stockholders in the subsidiaries of the farm board were dwelt on by Mr. Sturtevant.

"I want to refer to the stabilization corporation," he said. "The agricultural marketing act provides that such corporations must be producer-owned and producer-controlled, and that the profits, if any, from their operations shall belong to their stockholder owners and that losses, if any, shall be met from the revolving fund of half a billion dollars, but must be repaid to that fund from future operations."

United States Pays the Bills.

"The Grain Stabilization corporation complies with this provision of the law in form only. The stockholder owners of the corporation are dummies. There is no producer-ownership or producer-control. These dummy stockholders have indorsed their stock back to the farm board.

"The losses of the stabilization corporation in their abortive, speculative attempt to corner the wheat market are therefore the losses of United States government and not the losses of the producer-owners as provided in the law.

"The Grain Stabilization corporation and the Farmers' National Grain corporation have interlocking officers and directors, George S. Milnor is, at the same time, president of the Stabilization corporation and vice president and general manager of the Farmers' National Grain corporation. The two corporations handle the same commodity and the same units of the same commodity. The profits of the Farmers National Grain corporation accrue to the stockholders and the losses of the Stabilization corporation to the United States government.

"Never before in the history of our country has the opportunity been given to any small group of men to intermingle half a billion dollars of government money with the funds of a private corporation and to have the further opportunity to unscramble such funds without check or hindrance."

The Kansas Grain Dealers' association, the largest state group of its kind in the U. S., through its secretary, E. J. Smiley of Topeka, declared that farmer-owner coöperatives had felt the discrimination of the farm board. He said in Kansas in 1929 there were 460 farmer owned, farmer controlled elevators. Now there are 305.

"I'm convinced," said Mr. Smiley, "that 95 per cent of the dirt farmers of Kansas are for the repeal of the grain marketing act and the winding up of its affairs. The entire elimination of the coöperative elevators in the wheat producing states is in prospect if the farm board and its subsidiaries are furnished money from the treasury. Unless congress takes steps, the Farmers National Grain corporation will come into possession of practically all the coöperative elevators west of the Mississippi and build up one of the greatest monopolies the world has seen."

Testimony Rates Up.

Leo Wilson of Leharpe, Kas., a dirt farmer, said in 13 counties he has toured in southeast Kansas in organizing for tax relief he has found only two farmers who are championing the farm board. "We can't get prices back until the farm board is abolished," he said, "and the government stops monkeying in our business."

J. E. Salley of Liberal, Kas., said 80 per cent of the farmers down his way are against the farm board. A string of other witnesses gauged it at 80 to 90 per cent in Kansas against the farm board.

One manager of a farmers' coöperative grain company, A. L. Greenwood of Ness City, Kas., said "general opinion of our farmers is the farm board has been a hindrance in that it has piled up large surpluses, depressing world markets and discouraging speculation. Not less than 80 per cent are against the farm board and its subsidiaries."

Parson Knows His Vegetables, Teaches Women How to Can

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A parson with a pipe in his mouth and a voluminous coverall apron over his clerical habit yesterday taught a group of Episcopal housewives the scientific way to can vegetables. Under his instructions the women at the canning bee put up string beans, carrots, and beets in the kitchen of the St. James community house, 664 Rush street, to be consumed by the poor next winter. Tomatoes, corn, and fruits will be canned later.

REV. JAMES G. JONES.

The instructor in canning was the Rev. James G. Jones, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, of Lombard. At 11 o'clock this morning he will teach another group of women how to can vegetables at the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest.

For Episcopal Institutions.

As 35 women washed the string beans and put them through a bean cutter, the Rev. Mr. Jones and Mrs. Charles S. Williamson, president of the Episcopal women's auxiliary in the diocese, explained the plan of Bishop George Craig Stewart to provide canned vegetables and fruits for Episcopal institutions of this diocese under a reduced budget next year. The institutions include Chase House, the Cathedral Shelter, and Women's Shelter, House of Happiness, St. Mary's home [for children], and the St. Lawrence Home for Boys.

The plan started this spring with "the bishop's garden" in Belvidere, which is a 50 by 100 foot plot of ground planted by the Belvidere parishioners. The crops will be given to the bishop for canning and distribution among the poor. Farm Ridge and other communities took up the plan with enthusiasm, and then, according to the Rev. Mr. Jones, the city parishes became interested.

The diocese hopes to provide 25,000 cans of vegetables, including pint and quart sizes, this summer. The vegetables will, they hope, be donated by farmers from their surpluses. The Young People's society of the diocese is arranging for trucking service to bring them into the city. A warehouse at 711 West Monroe street was donated by Dr. Frank Allen for storage purposes.

Canning Centers.

The St. James kitchen will be the scene of canning bees on Tuesdays and Fridays throughout the summer, and other churches, including the Immanuel church at La Grange and the Church of the Mediator in Morgan Park, also will act as canning centers.

The Rev. Mr. Jones majored in canning and dehydration at the Oregon Agricultural college, now the Oregon State college, and later worked in the research division of the American Can company before he studied for the ministry.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones have a garden out in Lombard and can quantities of stuff for their own use. Last year when his parish felt the pinch of hard times the parishioners were urged to get busy with Mother Earth. Later the church guild women met at the parish house and had canning bees.

Knows His Vegetables.

Mrs. Bertha M. Harris, 5125 West Division street, Oak Park, a lecturer on home economics, was on hand yesterday to assure the women that the Rev. Mr. Jones knew his way about a kitchen. When it came to fitting the tin cans in the pressure cooker, or to sealing them, the clergyman was the sole boss.

One of the canning pupils was Mrs. Anna K. Stuart, 81 years old, of 4517 Magnolia avenue, white haired grandmother who's been canning for "quite a while," as she said.

"I never thought I'd have any man teaching me how to can," she said. "I'll admit I never canned vegetables in the old days. We didn't know how to keep them."

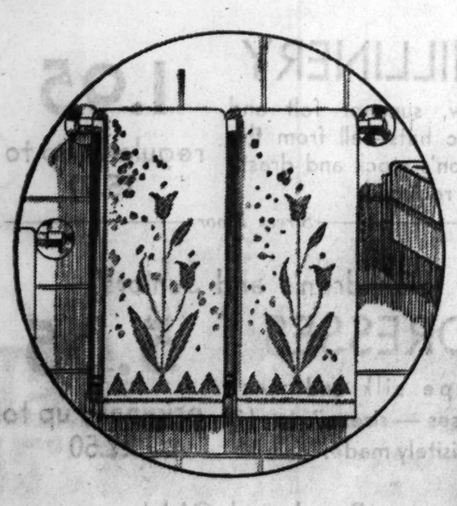
When economy is needed..you simply can't take chances with cheap strong soap flakes



Every day the super-sized packages of cheap, strong soap flakes are growing less and less alluring as women everywhere are discovering that they are not bargains after all . . but in reality, the most expensive soaps they can use. For the few pennies saved cannot begin to pay for the things that may be ruined.

That's why you'll find that 4 out of 5 Gold Coast women use only American Family. They have found it by far the most economical . . because of the way it saves clothes.

For American Family Flakes contains no free lye to eat into the weave of the fabric, and weaken the threads . . no harsh substances which make the soap appear to be cleaning when it simply is bleaching . . fading silks . . and matting woolens.

"No soap anywhere is as safe as American Family Flakes," declares Mrs. Sterling Morton, who selects her exquisite napery in famous little shops across the sea.

And Mrs. Paul Schulze, Jr. agrees. "Colors never fade or run when American Family Flakes is used in laundering," she tells you.

"Safe, mild American Family Flakes gives me much longer wear from my things . . especially silk stockings," adds Mrs. Harry K. Curtis.

Why take chances with the stingy froth of cheap, lye-laden flakes when Kirk's American Family is not only pure . . not only safe . . but so economical it will save you many extra dollars in longer wear from all things washable! American Family, you see, makes double the suds . . because it was created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region. And it's the double-suds that makes the difference . . keeps the hands always satin-smooth.

DICTATOR STICKS TO JOB; BERLIN ARMY RULE ENDS

Martial Law Lifted to Free Reichstag Election.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 26.—Six days of martial law for Berlin and Brandenburg province were ended at noon today with a proclamation by President Paul von Hindenburg. Chancellor Franz von Papen, however, retained his dictatorial post as federal commissioner for Prussia, Germany's biggest and most powerful state.

Franz Bracht remained, too, as Von Papen's right hand man in Prussia in the ministry of interior, with the coalition Prussian cabinet still ousted.

Von Hindenburg, as he lifted the army rule from Prussia, declared that the emergency which made it imperative has passed, and that order once again prevails.

Desires Free Election.

It was generally believed that the government wished also to demonstrate a desire that the reichstag elections next Sunday should be conducted with as much freedom as possible.

Meanwhile the campaign with four days to go continued to bring reports of disturbances. One death occurred today at Cologne in connection with the political campaign, while at Friedrichskoog Louise Schroeder, a reichstag Socialist deputy, was driven from her own campaign meeting by a group of Adolf Hitler's National Socialists. In the fight which ensued one man was killed and several were wounded.

All Trends Represented.

Twenty-one parties are bidding for power in the elections. They represent every conceivable trend and tendency in German life, but despite the enticing sound of the names of some of the smaller parties Germany's fate rests with six big parties—Socialists, Centrists, Bavarian People's party, National Socialists, Nationalists, and communists.

The three groups first named back the republic, the National Socialists and Nationalists fight the republic, and the communists fight all the other parties.

The German State party is also running, but it is a small group, the weak but well meaning descendant of the old Liberal party, the "Democrats." Another semi-Liberal party, the "German People's party," which helped shape the fate of Germany in the days of Gustav Stresemann, has disappeared completely.

21 Parties Listed.

The parties which fulfilled all legal obligations provided in Germany's electoral laws are as follows [the numbers are those allotted to them on the polling papers and are not listed consecutively]:

1. The Social-Democratic party.
2. National Socialist German Workers' party [Hitlerites].
3. Communist party.
4. German Centrist party [Bruening's party].
5. German Nationalist People's party [semi-monarchist].
8. German State party [former Democrats—last Liberals].
9. Bavarian People's party.
11. Christian Social Service [Evangelical movement].
12. Peasants' party.
14. Rural association [landbund-junkers].
15. German Hanoverian party.
18. Party for a limit of $1,200 salary for government officials.
19. German Unitarian party for true economics.
20. German Socialist battle movement.
21. National Minorities in Germany.
22. National middle, great German liberty movement, against Fascism and unsocial principles.
23. Fate community of German unemployed.
24. Fighting organization of workers and peasants.
25. Party for free economic system.
27. German people's community.
26. Movement of justice, for prohibition of cuts in wages, in favor of procuring work, for prohibition of political parties.

Von Schleicher Tells Aims.

Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, minister of war, who is a potent force in the present régime in Germany, tonight denied he has any dictatorial aspirations. All his efforts, he claimed, have been to secure protection for Germany's frontiers.

Von Schleicher termed the Geneva disarmament negotiations a catastrophal failure. After those experiences "there can be few people in the world who still believe that other nations will fulfill their obligations to reduce armaments to the German level," he said.

Von Schleicher ridiculed the idea that Adolf Hitler's "brown army" could be of any military value, but he defended and praised the youth of the nation for their desire for drill and voluntary discipline.

CUBA RESOUNDS TO BOMBS AND GUNS; 7 MORE DIE

Troops Wage War on Machado's Enemies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 26.—The series of assassinations, shootings, and bombings which has terrorized Cuba in the last three days continued unabated today. Seven more persons were killed.

Government forces battled enemies of President Machado's régime in the open and in ambush in an intensive drive to wipe out the opposition.

At Matanzas today army forces killed three brother, Narciso, José and Ramon Alvarez, and Pedro Garcia Vigoa, former chief of police of Matanzas, in a gun battle in the cane fields. The men were accused of conducting a campaign of incendiarism on sugar mills in the district.

Reds Demonstrate.

During a communist demonstration late last night police killed one and seriously wounded five of 400 agitators who were carrying red banners reading "Down with the Government." The mob had attacked with bricks and stones.

Early today a man was found mysteriously slain in Country Club park. It was reported that four men brought him to the spot in an automobile and shot four bullets into his head. Police asserted that the dead man was a leader of yesterday's communist demonstration.

Tonight a 10 year old boy was killed and three members of his family were injured when they opened a bomb package sent to them.

Twenty Women Arrested.

Police tonight arrested twenty young women, most of them teachers in Havana Normal school, when they went to visit Maria Luisa Porenza in Calixto Garcia hospital. She was injured Friday by the explosion of a bomb she had made.

Other arrests tonight included two physicians, a normal school professor, and a customs broker.

Jury Expected to Get Case of Miller Today

The case of William H. Miller, on trial on a conspiracy charge growing out of the closing of the Waukegan State bank, is expected to go to a jury in the Waukegan Circuit court of Judge Edward D. Shurtleff this afternoon. Defense attorneys completed their closing arguments yesterday and Assistant State's Attorney George McGaughey will conclude the state arguments this morning.

BRITAIN TO KEEP MARKETS OPEN TO U. S. WHEAT

Canada Drops Demand to Tax Foreign Grain

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 26.—Great Britain has saved her cheap loaf of bread. The great wheat growing dominions—Canada and Australia—today withdrew their demand for a tax on foreign wheat with a preference or quota for dominion grown grain at the imperial economic conference here.

As a result, British markets will be open to American wheat on equal terms with dominion wheat in the near future, as in the past.

The British distinctly realize that the United States is their best customer and is entitled to a treatment as good as that afforded to any other country. In a normal trading year the United States purchases about 400 million dollars' worth of goods from Britain and about one billion dollars from the British empire as a whole.

Realize It Would Hurt.

The abandonment of wheat as a bargaining point leaves only meat, dairy products, and fruit as articles of import on which Britain can offer a preference to the dominions.

The action of Canada in withdrawing her demand for a tax on foreign wheat is due to the realization by the Canadian growers that such a tax or preference would do the Canadian farmers no good. The realization dawned upon the Canadians after Stanley Bruce of Australia had pointed it out.

If Canada secured all of Britain's demand for wheat it would absorb only one-third of her crop, leaving Canada to sell the other two-thirds in the open market of the world. It was brought out that retaliatory tariffs might be slapped on Canada's wheat by other nations, which would cost her more than she gained by grabbing an additional share in the British market.

Today's agreement was reached between the two dominion governments and in due time the entire conference will be informed and the fact registered in some form of resolution.

Defeat for Bennett.

The cheap loaf of bread has always been a good election cry in England. The demand to tax foreign meat is another problem. The British working man is a great meat eater and will bitterly resent any government action which increases its price.

The "about face" on wheat is regarded as a defeat for Premier R. B. Bennett, who had hoped to use wheat as a bargaining point for a greater share of the dominion's markets for her manufacturers. With wheat gone, and meat going, there is very little left that the dominions can get from Britain.

A subcommittee of the committee on trade within the empire and which is dealing with meat products met today. An animated discussion on pork and its products was held. Bruce and other dominion politicians on the committee pressed for a flat tariff by Britain of eight cents a pound on all foreign meat, with dominion meat on the free list. Economic experts argued for a tax of four cents a pound on mutton and three cents on other meats, in addition to a quota arrangement. The discussion was then held up.

American Coal Preferred.

In the meanwhile a series of meetings is being held between Canadian and British commercial men in an effort to work out agreements which might then be passed on to the conference for adoption. Two meetings have been held by Canadian and British coal interests discussing the substitution of Welsh for American anthracite but no agreement has been reached.

The real trouble here is that Canadian users and dealers prefer American coal because of its proximity and the ease with which it can be obtained. Even if Welsh coal were cheaper, which it is not, there are several months of the year when the St. Lawrence is ice locked. The railway haul from Canada's ice free ports to Quebec and Montreal where the coal is chiefly used, would add a prohibitive figure to the price, dealers here insist.

AFTER TOBACCO TRADE

BY GEORGE SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 26.—America's 200 million pound tobacco market in the United Kingdom was demanded by Canadian tobacco growers today.

Speaking for the tobacco growers of western Ontario, Eccles J. Gott, conservative member of parliament, submitted formal brief to leading delegates to the imperial conference. He said America's 200 million and Canada's nine million pounds annual tobacco supply to United Kingdom markets should be reversed. He asked the United Kingdom to either eliminate or reduce existing duties on Canadian raw leaf.

He urged the present $1.96 a pound United Kingdom duty against foreign tobacco be maintained.

Gott persistently referred to the American tobacco supplied Britain as "Yankee" tobacco, Britons, he said, have become accustomed to "Yankee" tobacco, but the acceptance by Britons of Canadian tobacco for blending "specifically proves that the Britishers can dispense with Yankee tobacco."

An oddity is that Canada imports annually from the United States about 16,000,000 pounds, or more than three times the quantity of her tobacco exports of the United Kingdom.

EMPLOYE STEALS $650,000 FROM BROKERAGE FIRM

Covers Years; He Has Confessed.

New York, July 26.—[Special.]—A $650,000 defalcation by an employé of the brokerage house of J. S. Bache & Co., was made public by the firm this afternoon. It is one of the largest individual embezzlements in the brokerage field to come to light in years.

The name of the guilty employé was withheld by the firm for the time being as he is coöperating with auditors who are trying to straighten out the books which he manipulated for years to cover up his peculations.

J. S. Bache & Co. released the following statement:

"A defalcation has taken place in our cashier's department amounting to approximately $650,000 which is substantially all covered by insurance. The employé has made a full confession and says that he is the only one implicated and was successful in his manipulation without the aid or assistance of any one whatsoever. He is now coöperating with us and the insurance company in order to determine the details of the defalcation."

It was learned, in addition, that the man in question is unmarried and has admitted lavishing part of his ill-gotten funds on women friends. The rest of the money he had dissipated in market speculation and in other ways. As one of his superiors expressed it, he had not one vice but "a whole conglomeration" of vices.

The defalcation is understood to have taken place over a period of fourteen years, but members of the firm would only say it had been going on "for years." They intimated no one was more surprised than they when the trusted employé was found out. The department where he was employed permitted him to handle the firm's cash—millions—during his long service. He was under heavy bond and when a discrepancy in his books was uncovered the bonding company was notified and an audit was begun.

GERMAN LANDS IN MONTREAL; TELLS OF ARCTIC FLIGHT

Von Gronau Plans Hop to Chicago Soon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., July 26.—Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, veteran German aviator, landed his flying boat, the Groenland Wal, in Montreal tonight at 7:06 o'clock (Chicago daylight saving time).

CAPT. VON GRONAU
[Underwood & Underwood Photo.]

Capt. von Gronau and his three companions took off from Cartwright, Labrador, at 10 o'clock this morning on the fifth leg of the trans-Atlantic flight, which began at List, on the island of Sylt, off the coast of Germany, last Friday. The plane sped into Montreal at 110 miles an hour.

Upon his arrival the German, who had twice before flown from Europe to America over the arctic route, had covered 5,100 miles in four and one-half days.

To Visit Chicago Later.

He announced that his immediate plans are uncertain.

"I am going to stay in Montreal for a few days," the aviator said. "I must discuss the northern air route here. I will probably leave here on Thursday. Then I expect to make my way to Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee and then probably north again to Winnipeg and across to the Pacific coast."

Capt. von Gronau said that his flight would take about two weeks and that he and his companions would make a complete study of flying conditions over that route.

"I am sorry that I will be unable to attend the boxing bouts between the Golden Gloves and the German champions in Chicago tomorrow night," he added.

Escorted by Six Planes.

The aviator was escorted to Montreal by six planes of the Montreal Light Airplane club. Before alighting, he circled the city, dipping the wings of his ship in salute. It was drizzling as the plane drew up to the wharf.

Cigarets were thrown to the quartet aboard the flying boat. The flyers were greeted by Alfred Duranleau, Canadian minister of marine; Ludwig Kemff, German consul general; J. H. Rainville, chairman of the Montreal harbor commission, civic and aviation leaders. Von Gronau and his mates led an automobile procession into Montreal.

"The steamships are now so fast that we can offer little competition between Europe and New York," he said, "but a service direct from Europe via Iceland, Greenland, and across the continent to the Pacific coast, with intermediary stops, should offer many advantages and a great saving of time."

CURTIS VISITS CITY ON WAY TO OLYMPIC GAMES

Vice President Curtis stopped in Chicago last night on his way to Los Angeles, where he will open the Olympic games Saturday. Mr. Curtis had not a word to say about politics or the prospects of the Republican party.

"It's too early to talk about that," he said.

The Vice President was met at the Illinois Central station, where he arrived from Washington over the Chesapeake and Ohio line, by Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee; Frank L. Smith, national committeeman from Illinois; Mrs. Bertha Baur, Illinois committeewoman; Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, director of women's activities for the party; Senator Otis F. Glenn, and Ray Benjamin, Hoover adviser.

After a conference at the Republican headquarters in the Palmer house and dinner, Mr. Curtis departed over the Chicago and North Western for the west coast.

Mr. Sanders announced that Mr. Curtis would be notified of his renomination for Vice President at 3 o'clock, Aug. 18, on the state house grounds in Topeka, Kas. Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, keynoter of the Republican convention, is chairman of the notification committee.

G. B. S. IS 76 YEARS OLD; HIDES HIS AGE, BUT FEELS IT

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MALVERN, July 26.—When he was congratulated by a reporter on his 76th birthday, George Bernard Shaw today retorted, "How would you like people to ask how it feels to be 76?" The reporter answered, "I don't expect to live so long."

"That's all very well," replied Shaw, "but you never can tell; the worst may happen."

Shaw is spending his birthday here on a holiday. "I am concealing the fact I am 76 as much as possible. It is wrong to say I am thoroughly fit. I am not. I am very much overworked and have been all my life."

CONSIDER BAN ON PARKING IN OUTLYING AREAS

The question of banning auto parking in the outlying business centers as well as in the loop, for reasons of safety, will be taken up in the city council when it meets again in the fall, it was announced yesterday by Walter Gregory, chairman of the Property Owners' committee on loop parking.

Mr. Gregory, who is also president of the State Street council, recalled that Ald. John A. Massen declared last week, when the council voted to retain the loop parking ban, that the law had brought about a decrease in accidents.

"If it will work in the loop it should work in the outlying business centers, such as 63d and Cottage Grove, Wilson and Broadway, Washington and Ashland, and other busy intersections," said Mr. Gregory.

Body of Gun Victim Found in Canal Buried

The body of a man who was found shot to death on Monday in the Illinois and Michigan canal at Channahan, 12 miles south of Joliet, was buried yesterday without being identified. The man had been shot three times behind the right ear, tied to a concrete post, and thrown into the canal. The body had been in the water so long, officials said, that finger prints could not be taken.

Kill all Flies

and Mosquitoes Quickly by A Perfumed Mist Based on

Japanese Flowers

Madam, let us this season conduct an efficient war on these deadly pests. They enter your home germ-laden. They contaminate your food, they bite. Over 30 diseases are traced to them, and tens of thousands of children, every year, die from their infections.

There is a flower, grown in Japan, which these insects cannot tolerate. Modern research has discovered that its extract kills them at a touch.

That extract is the basis of Fly-Tox, developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. We have spent ten years and over $100,000 to perfect it.

This Fly-Tox, used in a new-type Fly-Tox sprayer, creates in a room a cloud of perfumed mist. It is harmless to people, stainless to anything. But it kills at once every fly or mosquito that it touches. It is so all-pervading, when used rightly, that no insect can escape.

Use Fly-Tox for your home's protection. Start when the first fly or mosquito appears. Keep up this war on these deadly pests. The way is easy, economical, pleasant, sure. To rid a room completely costs from 1 to 2 cents.

FLY-TOX ONLY

A Rex Research Product

This means too much to you and yours to use a lesser method. Fly-Tox is economical, for a little goes far. Its strength is guaranteed, for every lot is tested in our laboratory. It is based on flowers. The cloud it creates is agreeable, harmless and stainless. It is the latest, and best that science has produced. Don't trust your home protection to ways less efficient. Fly-Tox also kills Roaches, Ants, Bed Bugs, and Moths. Fly-Tox is sold everywhere. Go get it now. Made by the Makers of Moth-Tox.

HELLMANN'S DELICIOUS MAYONNAISE NOW SOLD IN CRYSTAL JARS

HEAR BILLY JONES AND ERNIE HARE every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday over a Coast to Coast N.B.C. hook-up. A sparkling new series of programs sponsored by The Best Foods, Inc., makers of Hellmann's Mayonnaise. Consult radio page of this paper for station and time.

LOVELY NEW CONTAINER NOW ON DISPLAY AT ALL LOCAL STORES! NO ADVANCE IN PRICES!

When you order your next jar of Hellmann's Mayonnaise you have a delightful surprise in store! For this world-famous product has just stepped out in a sparkling new crystal jar.

Look at the picture at the left. Notice its lovely, modern shape . . . and then instead of a grey, indistinct newspaper illustration, visualize a jar colored a golden yellow by the mayonnaise as it shines through the glistening glass. Then, the blue top, like that on the former jar. And a label, refined and simplified, with the familiar Hellmann blue ribbon.

Of course a crystal jar like this is expensive. And you might reasonably expect a slight increase in price. But no! Your Hellmann's Mayonnaise in its new container will cost you not one penny more than the Hellmann's you have known for years.

Certain mayonnaise makers have recently introduced inferior ingredients into their products in a frantic effort to lower prices. This we refuse to do. Hellmann's remains absolutely unchanged and uncheapened. Insist on it!

SOCIETY WOMEN PRAISE NEW JAR! Before the new jar was placed in the stores it was shown to many society women, artists and style authorities . . . people whose good taste is respected by millions. Their praise was overwhelming. "The loveliest container I have ever seen." "Now I put my Hellmann jar on the table." "It seems to make even the mayonnaise taste better." Such were the comments that came from all directions.

Lilyan Tashman's Perfect Figure
Height	5 ft., 4½ in.
Weight	108 lbs.
Neck	12½ in.
Bust	33 in.
Waist	25 in.
Hips	34 in.
Wrist	5¾ in.
Thighs	20 in.
Calf	12 in.
Ankle	8 in.

JEAN ARTHUR, TOO Another famous movie actress who trusts the Hellmann Slenderizing Plan to keep ravishingly slender is Jean Arthur. Two delicious inexpensive salads daily covered with Hellmann's Mayonnaise. That's the secret for slenderness and health!

TRUCKS LIKE THIS GUARANTEE FRESHNESS Every week your grocer gets a supply of Hellmann's Mayonnaise fresh from our spotless kitchens . . . twenty-four hours from the mayonnaise mixers. And that's one reason why Hellmann's is always so fresh, always so delicate in flavor. Mayonnaise that's been standing on a shelf for three or four weeks just can't taste as good as Hellmann's. And another thing. Don't be misled by all these bargain priced mayonnaises. Many of them have recently been cheapened by the addition of inferior ingredients . . . and thus allow a lower price. It's easy to make a cheaper mayonnaise. But we feel that most women would rather pay a cent or two more for the best. So we've flatly refused to cheapen Hellmann's.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

PAY CUTS FOR THE JOB HOLDERS.

Public employés seem to cherish the theory that their wage or salary scale is sacred, that it is above such considerations as the state of the public revenue or the conditions imposed upon taxpayers and those engaged in private enterprise in times of economic depression.

This theory seems to grow out of the assumption that public employés are normally underpaid for the work they do. The assumption has no basis of fact in most cases. It does not apply to the generality of municipal, state, or federal employés. Most government jobs are privileges sought and obtained through some form of political influence. Seldom is there any compulsion of necessity upon the persons seeking such places. On the contrary, they are political perquisites, distributed by politicians and party organizations as the profits of victory. Even where a rigid and impartial administration of civil service laws exists, and that is a rarity, individuals seek employment voluntarily and with full knowledge of the compensations and limitations of the service. The advantages are substantial. If pay is lower than in comparable work outside, which is not to be conceded, there are compensations in the way of security of tenure through law or official custom or political pull. There are compensations in conditions of work, easier hours and the absence of the competitive pressure and drive of private employment. In short, public employés in the main are where they want to be. The theory that they must be treated with special consideration at the expense, as it must be, of the taxpayer and those engaged in private occupations, is unfounded. The contrary is true. The waste in public expenditure includes a heavy loss from overstaffed public offices and through a low average of energy in public service generally. There is nothing in the theory of special desert and no reason why reductions in pay are not as justifiable for public as for private employment. On the contrary, there is plenty of reason to assert that public salaries and wages should be the first to be readjusted to lower living costs and lower revenues.

THE B. E. F. IN WASHINGTON.

The bonus expeditionary force in Washington gets on worse terms with the police the longer it remains. The congressmen whose encouragement invited the men to bum their way in from various parts of the country have absconded to their homes, having car fare to get there. November may not find them with car fare back, but if so there will be little repining. The situation as it developed in the capital under congressional thumping of the big drum required an appropriation for the delivery of the bonus boys to their homes, but many of them prefer the climate in Washington.

The B. E. F. as an exhibit of government policies is quite reasonably in Washington, even if the police there object to extra work in hot weather. The doctrine that the federal government owes every citizen a living can be tested in the capital better than anywhere else. The bonus boys have been led to believe that Washington is the place to get it and that, moreover, there are special reasons in their case for getting it While congress was in session on Capitol hill no one could say that arguments were not being made in their favor. The trouble is that the congressmen have run out on them.

DISCIPLINE OF BAD DRIVING.

The Indiana police who are trying to teach motorists in the popular dune regions a little regard for the laws and safe driving are performing a much needed public service which will have benefits outside of Indiana as well as within. Discipline for reckless and inconsiderate driving is badly needed in this region. Our traffic police are doing the best they can, we think, but outside the city there is little effective restraint. The village and road police seem divided between two extremes, either persecuting drivers for graft or ignoring their methods completely. Firm and just enforcement of decent conditions on the highways is generally lacking.

We have no illusions as to the difficulty of the job. Watch any corner in Chicago when a traffic policeman is not at his post. There will always be several motorists who will ignore the change of lights, driving through the red light. This is not only unfair to pedestrians but dangerous. It is bad driving and bad citizenship. Most of these motorists in all other activities are good citizens and reasonably considerate of others, but something happens to all of us, it seems, when we are in command of an automobile. The sense of power is a temptation of primitive human nature. So is [illegible] of speed. Bad driving is the result of an adult should be ashamed of and should try to guard against in himself. The police are maintained to protect us from deliberate criminality. Grown men and women should not require a policeman to compel them to obey regulations established for their own convenience and safety. Inconsiderate driving, beating the lights, reckless speeding, hogging the road, disregarding the rights or needs of others on the way, all this means lack of good sense and of fitness to belong to a civilized community. It creates a problem for the police, but primarily it is a problem of the individual. The discipline of punishment is necessary to reach the individual who respects nothing else, but beyond this there is need for the self-discipline of us all, an appeal of intelligence and right feeling to every driver.

THE CRIMINAL IN UNIONS.

The union officials who propose to expel gangsters from the ranks of organized labor ought to have the vigorous support and careful protection of the police, prosecutors, and courts. They will certainly have the moral support of the press and public.

The murder of the veteran union official, Patrick Berrell, has shocked not only all reputable labor but the whole community, and every effort should be made to punish the criminals concerned. But beyond that there should be a more determined and persistent effort to cut out the cancer of gangster rule and racketeering wherever it exists. The success of Fur Sammons in escaping the restraints of the law is a grim reminder of the influences which politics and organized crime and graft are able to exert upon the machinery of the law, and is only the latest conspicuous warning of the extent and gravity of the evil he represents. The reputable union men have a hard fight on their hands, but they must be assured of the community's support and that of all agencies of the law.

DR. BILLY SUNDAY IS AMONG US.

Billy Sunday is back chasing the old fashioned devil out of good company and committing persons of persistent and determined sin to the old fashioned hell. Dr. Sunday seems not to have lost much vigor with years in either language or bounces. He picks them up and slams them down. It used to be that when he slammed them they stayed slammed. Whether the world is the better or the worse for it it is hard to say.

Dr. Sunday observes that the noble experiment is not what it used to be. It has lost favor. The great cause is cracking up. When the plate is passed for it not much comes in. Its prosperous days began to pass when the Rockefellers lost confidence in the collectors and in their work. The political parties which had been meek have tired of being booted into line. The yes men of the parties stood for a glutton's share of such punishment, but it was easy to try to recover some self-respect when the election returns indicated that the public generally did not think the booting was an edifying spectacle. Bishop Cannon does not appear as a very good vote getter this year. Dr. Sunday may not be any better.

This muscle orator has always raised a point on which many people could not clear their minds. To some it appeared probable that he did more harm to the unemotional decencies of life and to the religious ethic than the high minded clergy could repair in a year after one of his visitations. There may have been others who thought the spirit was the better for energizing by vulgarity. Others have been puzzled.

Dr. John Alexander Dowie in his big day was a greater master of barely printable outpourings of wrath, but Dowie was a level headed promoter who knew that meekness wouldn't get him a line of print or a dime in the collections and that upon violence he could found a colony of simple people. Dowie just missed being another Brigham Young. What he lacked was Utah. It would be rash to say that the days of the Dowie and Sunday methods are over. Dr. Sunday still performs and minor prophets of his kind are thick in the hills.

STOCKHOLDERS AND EMPLOYES.

In a message from the president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, just made public, we note that there are 108,000 stockholders and 36,000 employés. In the popular idea of big corporations there is a picture of a handful of wealthy individuals as the stockholders and an army of employés. In this corporation there are three times as many stockholders as employés and a similar ratio exists in many other big corporations. The savings of millions of citizens of small means have gone into stock holdings, and when the slogan of the demagogue and the radical, "Soak the Rich," is analyzed it means soak these citizens. Crushing a big corporation with the taxes the Garners, La Guardias, Brookharts, La Follettes favor does not mean crushing a handful of the bloated capitalists of popular cartoons. It means confiscating the savings of hundreds of thousands of their stockholders as well as endangering the livelihood of thousands of employés.

Editorial of the Day

OUR VAST UNUSED BUYING POWER.

[Des Moines, Ia., Register.]

The Register yesterday commented on the resolutions of a farm group at Mitchellville—resolutions favoring a policy of buying needed things by people who can afford it.

As bearing upon the latent buying power in the country these brief points from Collier's magazine, current issue, may profitably be read:

"America's mutual savings bank deposits are one billion 233 million dollars higher than they were at the peak of the boom three years ago."

"Total bank savings today exceed 29 billion dollars, equal to more than $1,000 for every family in the land."

"Savings depositors number 52 million, nearly two per family."

"The number of Americans owning stock has increased almost 40 per cent since 1929."

"Our total national wealth, estimated at 329 billion 700 million dollars, is greater than that of a dozen continental European countries combined."

"The income of the American people comfortably exceeds one billion dollars a week."

"There are still six or seven persons gainfully employed for every person idle."

These facts are not quoted to convince anybody that we have no economic trouble in this country. That would be idiotic. But they are worth while getting into our minds in order to form a balanced judgment about our economic troubles.

And especially do they suggest that what the farmers at Mitchellville asserted is true—that if even a minor part of our available buying power were turned loose in the markets for the purchase of actually needed goods by people who can afford to buy them the stimulus to trade and industry would be tremendous and the downward trend of the price level could readily be checked.

Intelligent and justified buying of needed goods by people who can afford it—that, be it repeated, and [illegible]

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

INDIANA in modifying its bone dry law is considering the substitution of a bill to permit the transportation of likker for personal use if it is carried on the person but not by vehicle. Which is going to make it embarrassing for the autoist with a bottle on his hip. Every time he thinks a policeman is coming towards him he'll have to get out and walk.

AN AVIATOR has completed in a flight from dawn to dusk the 2,900 miles that it took George Washington a whole lifetime to travel. But George was slowed up now and then by Indians, French, and British. And while it took him a whole lifetime to cover the 2,900 miles he did a lot more on the trip than watch a barometer. And let that aviator try to chop down a cherry tree with his dinged old airplane. It would take him longer than from dawn to dusk. No, the aviators and everybody else have got to step some before they come anywhere near to catching up with George.

TO THE MOON.

Moon that watches everything,
Up and down the dark,
Did you hear two people quarrel,
Last night in a park?
Did you hear firecracker words
Sparkle, snap, and fence?
Moon, if you were in on this,
How did it commence?
Was it his fault? Was it mine?
Please don't be a clam.
Is he feeling half as sad,
Please, moon, as I am?

HASSAYAMPA COUNTRY CLUB.

(Prescott, Arizona.)

The golf course winds out thru a crystal valley to mauve and cobalt space where the swinging irons are cold, raw gold in the slanted morning sun . . . Pines crowd and clamber the whispering foothills and old Thumb Butte is a violet castle caught in the grape-blue air. . . . Granite mountain in amethyst gesso demands an artist to paint it, as it rivals the fabulous stars that are the snowy peaks of Francisco. . . . The clubhouse is a sepia etching set high on the ageless rocks—dwarfed by heroic pines and higher gray-green bowlders. . . . Within, it is the heart of a topaz . . . sunlight thru ancient windows . . . a melted rust-gold dream. . . . Thru star-spangled summer evenings great cars glide up to the clubhouse and smart groups ascend the steps . . . exquisite—the cut glass tinkle of women's delicate voices . . . music in distant fantasy . . . and the froth of night-pale colors. . . . But always I can sense shadows in the darkness of night-black shades—the shadows of horses and riders who lived and died in the past . . . they sit there with arms akimbo and their sombreros slightly atilt . . . ghost-gleam of silver conchas, and smoke-poles in tied-back holsters . . . presently, though, they grow restless, and you hear their rapid departure . . . phantom hoofs down the valley and out to the mesas beyond . . . somewhere they'll round up a ghost herd and stem a stampede by starlight before they go back to the range on the other side of the dawn. . . .

NOT FOR EXHIBIT!

If I were an artist,
With brushes and paints,
I would not picture
Tall trees and meek Saints.
For the tall trees have roots
Deep down in the sod,
And the meek, pale Saints
Belong to their God.

If I were an artist
I think I would dare
To run my hands deep
Through your crisp blond hair;
Then, with fingers tingling,
I'd paint line on line
A storm of gold clouds
To call mine, mine—mine!

CLIMATE AND HEALTH.

SOME say that the outbreak of disobedience of law and the general breakdown of government in some large cities is the result of prohibition, but C. A. Mills says it is the climate. There are those who try to explain racketeers and gunmen on the basis of racial groupings, countries of origin, bad immigration laws, and bootlegging of immigrants. Mills says it is the number of storms per year in those cities where gangsters flourish. He asserts that practically all the gang killings and racketeering are in northern cities because, in the prevailing climates in these cities, the people are overstimulated. The softer southern climate does not overstimulate and, therefore, does not cause men to kill and cheat.

The effects are by no means limited to considerations of conduct. Diabetes and exopthalmic goiter are twice as prevalent among persons living in the colder climate. There is more arteriosclerosis and high blood pressure, and the diseases related thereto, in the north. Suicide is more frequent. While young women have a high reproductivity rate in the north, the period of reproductivity is longer continued in the south. The total reproductivity for all periods of woman's childbearing life is higher in the south than in the north.

Certain diseases are much less prevalent in the south. For instance, scarlet fever is seldom encountered. There are some authorities who deny its existence in the near equatorial zone.

On the other hand, the northern climate has some advantages. Persons who live in it are more alert and energetic. They are quicker mentally and better fitted to excel in the competitions of modern life. They are generally more efficient.

Climate is largely responsible for our feverish attempts at the "bigger and better." Up to a certain point this urge is all to the good. But, carried beyond that limit, harmful effects follow. The laws of compensation provide bounds for all forms of excess, and there is evidence in the development of certain diseases and disorders that the automatic limiting forces are now in operation.

Mills does not advise the residents of northern regions to emigrate southward. His advice is that they stay where they are, but that they travel southward more frequently and, when they do, to fall into the soft, soothing ways of the people. This will supply the medicine they need.

These conclusions are based on scientific, careful studies of vital statistics made by a student. No association of commerce or greeters' organization or press agent of a railroad is to be charged with getting up this report as propaganda.

STAND MORE ERECT.

N. T. writes: I am a male, 20 years old, 5 feet 8 inches, and weigh 165 pounds. I am thick-set. What particular set of exercises should I concentrate on to grow taller?

REPLY.

Nothing you can do will increase your natural height. By standing straight you will appear a little taller; in fact, will stand taller. Carrying a bucket of water on the head is the best exercise for the purpose.

HEALTH SAFEGUARDS.

W. W. W. writes: Three couples of us wish to spend August and part of September in a village near the lake. There are two children, one of whom has been very ill and who needs the best conditions. One of the couples is in favor of a delightful place which I investigated recently. I found, however, that the reservoir for the village water supply has been cut off from access to the water commissioner for nearly nine months by a series of fences which have been illegally erected across the public road to the reservoir. This means that the reservoir has not been cleaned for nearly nine months and, probably, not for a year, as this work is usually done early in the spring. I learned that the village fathers have had legal advice to the effect that the road must be kept open and the fence is illegal, but the influence of the fence builder seems to have more weight with the village council than the health officer of the community.

1. Will you state how often a water reservoir should be cleaned, when it serves an entire community?

2. Would it not be wiser to play safe and go to some place where the village authorities place every safeguard around the health of the community and its visitors?

REPLY.

1. If a reservoir is properly protected it need not be cleaned at all or only at very long intervals. For the purposes of ordinary cleaning, storage and sun action is about all that is needed. I think you can get a report on this water supply by writing to the state health department.

2. No one should go for the summer into a community where the health is neglected. However, you have not made out a case against the community.

CROOKED TEETH.

R. R. writes: What is your advice concerning crooked teeth? I am over 17 years old and I am planning on having them taken care of in 1933. Do you think I can still have my teeth straightened, or am I too old? Is it necessary for me to wear a brace for several years?

REPLY.

The teeth can be straightened at 18 years of age. However, it is more difficult to do than when the person is younger. You probably will need to wear braces for several years. Those worn for a year or two after the straightening has been done are not so much in view.

TROUBLE WITH HEART.

Mrs. M. B. writes: What does the term hypertensive cardiac mean?

REPLY.

A combination of arteriosclerosis, commonly called high blood pressure, and organic heart disease.

DEPENDS ON LOCATION.

A. S. writes: Could a girl with a mild lateral curvature of the spine bear children safely. Would this cause the child to be misshaped in any way?

REPLY.

It depends on whether the deformity involves the pelvic bones, including the vertebral column in the pelvic region. Sometimes it does and sometimes it does not. X-rays might settle the question. In some cases measurements are required to settle it. There is no reason for anticipating congenital defects in the child.

PROBABLY OUTLAWED.

Chicago, July 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1923 a person became indebted to me for lodging. When leaving he agreed, verbally, to pay me as soon as he was able. Only a verbal acknowledgment exists of the indebtedness. He never received a receipt from me for the payments he made. 1. Is this debt now outlawed? 2. If the debt is not outlawed, can I now collect by law on the evidences of the indebtedness existing as given above? 3. If I can secure judgment for the debt, who must pay the [a] court costs and [b] attorney's fees? 4. What might these costs amount to? 5. Would it be necessary to secure a judgment before I could garnishee the person's wages? 6. What amount of the wages is exempt from garnishment?

J. F. A.

1. Yes, unless the period would be extended by special facts, as part payment, a new promise, or absence of the debtor from the state.
2. Yes, if it is not outlawed.
3. [a] The court costs are assessed against the losing party. [b] Each party would pay his own attorney.
4. Depends on facts that are not before us.
5. Yes.
6. $20 per week to the head of a family.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MORE FACTS NEEDED.

Ottawa, Ill., July 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can the receiver and attorney for the receiver of a closed bank charge an estate [for which the bank was administrator] a fee besides their salaries? 2. Also, do they have a right to take the estate out of the Probate court, where it had been started, and take it into the Circuit court? E. E. H.

1. In general they should not charge both.
2. Depends on facts that are not before us.

BONDHOLDERS.

Chicago, July 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a person holds bonds on a building and the building goes into the hands of a receiver and is sold, the new owner getting the deed in July, [1] what happens after the new owner gets the deed? 2. Does he make a new loan and start paying interest, or do they offer you so many cents on the dollar? E. S.

1. The net proceeds of the foreclosure sale should be distributed among the bondholders.
2. We assume that you mean this as a new sentence. The bondholders do not share in profits subsequent to the foreclosure sale unless the property has been bought in on their behalf.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MORTGAGES.

Chicago, July 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I hold a mortgage on a house and lot in a suburb. I purchased the mortgage from a bank now closed. It has about a year and three months to run before maturity. There are three more interest notes. So far the interest has been paid, though it has been very hard for the owner as he has been out of work. On looking the matter up I find that there are taxes and assessments due to date on this property of nearly $850. I hold, among other papers, a trust deed made out to the bank as trustee. 1. I am wondering how this indebtedness affects my security if it continues unpaid and so rapidly increases. 2. Is there anything I can do to protect my interests? 3. Does the mortgage take precedence of other claims against the property? The amount is $1,600. A. C.

1. If the taxes are not paid the property will be sold for taxes and your security will be clouded.
2. One course is to foreclose now.
3. It does not take priority over tax claims.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 27, 1916.

LONDON.—The allies are able to congratulate themselves on another good day's record with the capture of the important positions of Pozieres on the western front and Erzingan in Armenia, while the Russian general, Sakharoff, in the fighting on the Slonevka river, captured another 4,000 prisoners and five guns. Pozieres is the gateway to the Martinpuich ridge which in turn is the key to the Albert-Bapaume road along which Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig plans to carry the British drive against the Germans in the Somme region. Pozieres was won by the British after three days of the hardest kind of fighting in which giant guns of the allies hailed shells upon the fortifications which the Germans had erected against the British advance. Erzingan was the most important base and military position of the Turks in Asia. It was the headquarters of the Tenth Turkish army corps and contained large barracks and military factories.

ROME.—On the night of July 24 Italian troops repulsed two violent counterattacks against the summit of Monte Cimone which had been captured from the Austrians, the Italian official statement says.

WASHINGTON. — The board of mediation has received information, which is unofficial, that the vote of the railway men of the country is running 90 per [illegible] in favor of a nation-wide strike. The vote is not to be officially counted until Aug. 5. At that time union officials will confer with the railroad managers and under the law one side may then ask the board of mediation to enter the case.

LONDON.—Great Britain will consent to the admission of food in the areas occupied by the armies of the central powers under the supervision of a neutral commission appointed by President Wilson. This will cause surprise in relief circles which have been working hard to procure some form of relief for Poland, as the belief had become general that the negotiations between the entente powers and Germany had reached an impasse which offered no hopes of agreement.

CHICAGO.—John McLaren died at his residence, 751 Gordon terrace, at the age of 79. He was long an active figure in lumber and banking circles of Chicago. He was elected president of the Hide and Leather National bank in 1894 and became vice president of the Union National bank in 1897 when the two banks were merged. He was a former president of the Citizens' association and treasurer of the Bankers' and Union League clubs.

CHICAGO. — Four persons were drowned, thirteen persons were overcome by the heat, and ten were bitten by dogs as a result of the heat wave which kept up its stride yesterday, with a maximum of 88 at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. A NONPOLITICAL SCHOOL BOARD.

Chicago, July 25.—Your splendid editorial in this morning's TRIBUNE entitled, "City Funds and the Teachers," deserves especial praise. We need a better, a different type of person to serve as a school board member than those we have had in the past and some of those on the present board. We should force our mayors to appoint persons to the board who understand our public schools and who regard them in their true light, the one of educating our children, rather than as institutions supplying jobs. No one would think of asking a miner to run a typewriter, or of asking a cook to trim hats, and yet we allow our mayors to appoint persons to our board of education who have never attended the schools and who do not send their children to them. How can such persons serve our children as they have a right to be served in an educational way? The sooner we who believe in the public schools divorce them from politics the better they will be conducted for the purpose for which they were intended.

I trust THE TRIBUNE will be the first paper to take up this fight to get the schools out of politics and to force our mayors to appoint competent members to our board of education.

GRETA S. DEFFENBAUGH.

TSK.

Chicago, July 23.—May I inquire, in a somewhat plaintive tone of voice, just what it is we are coming to? Even our good old standbys such as "Tsk Tsk" are coming under the blinding light of public attention, not, it might be added, to their best advantage. But as long as the question has come up, let's settle it. Abide with me while I give my interpretation of "Tsk" as grandmother used to say it. Place the tongue flat against the roof of the mouth and, with a sudden movement, pull it away, at the same time drawing in the breath. There you have it. But a word of caution—when practicing this interesting vocalization remain behind closed doors, for to venture out would rapidly bring every squirrel within hearing distance to the vicinity. And squirrels, they tell me, are still fond of nuts. Tsk, tsk.

CASUIST.

Riverside, Ill., July 23.—It must have been all of 96 degrees when "Purist" explained how Emmy Schmaltz emitted the words "Tsk, Tsk" in Saturday's column. As for me, the first three letters of the word "stipple" are made by an outrush of air from the mouth with the end of the tongue in the position stated by "Purist." In saying "Tsk, Tsk" I place my tongue in the same position, but draw in the air at the same time, dropping the tongue slightly. With a little practice "Purist" should be able to become quite proficient at it, with plenty of time left before November to select her presidential candidate. In case any one happens to ask you, I was for Hoover eight years ago and I do not see any reason for changing my mind now. I say this with the thermometer way down to 79 degrees at 1:30 p. m.

PURIST II.

THE GREAT REGULATOR.

Chicago, July 21.—As universally acknowledged, the law of supply and demand is still the great regulator of business. Permitted to operate freely, it brings into balance production and consumption, values and prices. Most of the delay in returning to the much heralded prosperity is due to the many attempts to secure governmental [not mental] interference with that law and the consequent fear on the part of business that other like attempts will be made. The disastrous results of the government's interference in the agricultural field is only one typical instance.

All advances which were made in American industry and the economic well-being of our people have come from unregulated individual initiative. Our future well-being in turn depends upon the extent to which we are permitted to continue in that course.

MILTON ROSENBLUM.

TUITION AT ILLINOIS.

Chicago, July 22.—In this morning's TRIBUNE a gentleman who calls himself "A Dad" makes a complaint about the tuition fees of the University of Illinois.

Why should he complain when such private institutions as Chicago, Northwestern, De Paul, and Loyola charge anywhere from $220 to $350 per year? The education received at the above institutions does not surpass that of the University of Illinois.

I, for one, will choose the University of Illinois when ready to go to college.

May I congratulate THE TRIBUNE for its fine editorial which paid tribute to Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase and his co-workers? E. GRACE SHERIDAN.

THE PERSONAL PROPERTY SCHEDULE.

Chicago, July 21.—We have heard a great deal lately about simplification of the personal property tax situation, but so far as I am able to observe there is just as much complexity as there ever was and more burdensome and annoying red tape and formality than there was before the new system went into effect.

For example, I have just finished filling out and filing for a small corporation client its third personal property tax return for the year 1931, based upon its property as of April 1, 1931. The first one was filed April 21, 1931, in the office of the board of assessors. The second one was filed Jan. 9, 1932, in the office of the board of assessors, and the third one is being filed today. Just why the taxpayer should be put to the annoyance and expense of filing three separate returns for the same taxes for the same year is more than I am able to comprehend.

Coming now to the personal property tax schedule itself, there is no simplification apparent so far as it is concerned. For example, item 28, bonds and stocks; item 29, shares of capital stock of companies not incorporated by the laws of this state; item 37, shares of stock of state and national banks, and item 38, capital stock of corporations, all refer to substantially the same thing; and who knows or who can tell the taxpayer which stocks should be listed under which item.

The revenue act permits the deduction of debts from accounts receivable other than for money loaned, but does not permit the deduction of debts from money in the bank. The why and wherefore of this arbitrary distinction is not apparent to any one of average intelligence. The ordinary business man knows, without stopping to figure it out on any kind of a tax schedule, that if his debts were paid he would have less money in the bank than he has when he has a lot of unpaid debts. Of course, we have been told by the new assessor that he will be "reasonable" when it comes to assessing bonds and stocks and mortgages and money in the bank, but the vagueness of this word "reasonable" only adds to the complexity of the tax muddle and the perplexity of the taxpayer.

As I see it, no new constitution or even an amendment to the present constitution would be necessary to clear up the existing senseless muddle. All that would be necessary is a little ordinary common business sense and "simplification" on the part of the legislature and its honorable members. H. E. BAKER.

THE REPUBLICAN CAUSE.

Chicago, July 23.—The noise you hear is not a discussion of political issues. It is the rush of Republicans back to their party. They talked too much; now they are explaining.

This is the formula:

1. Never mention Hoover. Mercy, no; there is too much to be taken back.
2. Profess sympathy for Smith. But where were those fellows in 1928? Where would they be now? Going home just the same, with the 1928 reasons.
3. Abuse McAdoo. Why? They should read their histories. He openly withdrew a candidate to nominate Roosevelt. The Cameron vote was delivered to nominate Lincoln and Cameron went into Lincoln's cabinet.
4. Haunt the Garner bugaboo. Shudder at the thought of "that terrible Garner" in the White House. Again why? His friend Longworth would not have shuddered. Garner's relief plan was identical in principle with a Hoover suggestion. His adversary—O, well—they ingenuously explain that the adversary is a harmless nonentity. Hurrah for the nonentities!
5. Insinuate that Mrs. Roosevelt is a strong minded meddler. In answer to a proper inquiry she expressed her views on prohibition. Awful! But do they mention her fine services for humanity?
6. Whisper that Mr. Roosevelt is a hopeless invalid. Of course it is no secret that his legs are partially crippled. But we are choosing a President and not a second baseman. Was Snowden a less able chancelor because he was physically infirm? If nothing more were known of Roosevelt, his resolute, victorious battle with a dead disease should vouch undeniably for his vigorous manhood.

But the Republicans are rushing back to the party they were born in, and the familiar innuendo is still a good excuse. Don't reason. Abuse. And the country will be saved. FRANCES B. KING.

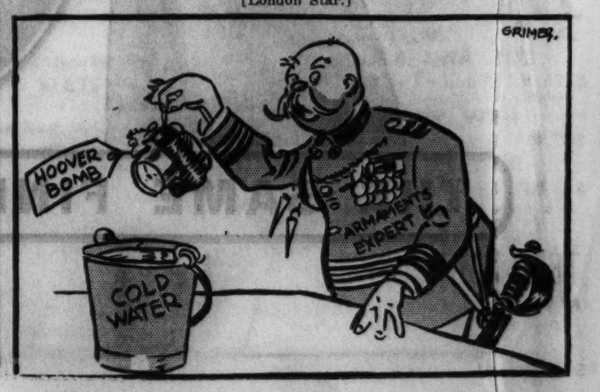
[London Star.]



ROOSEVELT WILL START CAMPAIGN AFTER AUGUST 11

Hoover Notification to Signal Opening.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 26.—[Special.]—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, will make his first major address of the campaign immediately following the Republican notification day exercises in Washington on Aug. 11, when President Hoover is scheduled to deliver his speech of acceptance.

JAMES A. FARLEY.

The Roosevelt address, which is to be delivered in a midwest city, possibly Chicago, will be a direct answer to the issues and statements made by President Hoover in his first address in his fight for reëlection.

This, together with the disclosure that Mr. Roosevelt may emulate former President Harding by staging a front porch campaign, were the major developments of a day during which Democratic members of the senate and house conferred at length with "Big Jim" Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee on campaign plans. Twenty-five senators and representatives including some of the major leaders of the party attended the conferences.

Will Make Few Speeches.

Following the parleys it was said that the consensus among the congressional leaders was that Gov. Roosevelt should not barnstorm the country during the campaign but should confine himself to a few speeches in the large cities of the country. The twenty-five senators and representatives also took the position that the Democratic party should stress economic issues. It was argued also that President Hoover's record in administering national affairs during the depression represented the most vulnerable point of attack in the Republican armor.

Democratic leaders who attended the conference said there was general agreement that the Hoover administration should be held responsible for present conditions and for failure to provide a legislative program adequate to solve the economic problems that have arisen during the last three years. There was apparently a disposition on the part of some of the Democratic leaders to soft pedal the prohibition issue in the dry sections of the country.

Frank Discussion Held.

Chairman Farley conferred with the party leaders in the office of Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], and for two hours there was a free and frank exchange of views upon the general aspects of the campaign as well as conditions existing in the different states. Reports made to him were to the effect that the Democratic party had gained in strength since the national convention, that its platform declarations had been favorably received, not only in the south and west but in the east, which the Democrats believe will be the battleground in this election.

The opinion was also expressed in the conference that the party had made no mistake in its prohibition plank inasmuch as Texas and North Carolina had already approved submission of the 18th amendment in primaries held subsequent to the Chicago convention.

State Plan Approved.

The tentative plan of allowing the states to wage the campaign along lines most acceptable to them and to stress the issues that appeal to the state electorate, Farley said, met with the approval of the conference. Generally speaking he said, the national committee will expect the state chairmen to operate independently.

Former Gov. Smith, William G. McAdoo and Gov. Ely of Massachusetts would enter actively into the campaign, Chairman Farley believed. Mr. Farley said that Mr. Smith was a stalwart Democrat and would do his full part in the campaign. "There will be no scars in the Democratic party," he said.

Mr. Farley said prohibition had been discussed at the morning conference and that the majority agreed that the party should follow the platform plank.

Senator Lewis was tentatively selected along with Mayor Cermak as two of the members of the board of strategy who will handle the speaking end of the campaign in that area.

FRANK DE LUGACH.

Wife Sues De Lugach for Divorce.

Frank De Lugach has gambled away a large part of his fortune, Mrs. Ruth De Lugach, 9811 South Damen avenue, charged yesterday in a bill for divorce filed in the Superior court.

Mrs. De Lugach asserted that he was just a shipping clerk when she met him in 1919 and that she aroused his ambition and enabled him to make more than $1,000,000 in the real estate field after their marriage in 1920. Of that sum he has gambled away more than $750,000 since 1922, she charged.

Discovers Gambling Urge.

After their marriage, Mrs. De Lugach states, she worked and earned $1,200 to buy furniture. At her urging, her husband quit his job as a shipping clerk and entered the real estate business. He was not successful at first and it was necessary for them to sell their furniture and move into a single room. Mrs. De Lugach states that she first became aware of her husband's passion for gambling when he took $200, half of what she got for the furniture, and lost it in a crap game.

Times became better, her bill says, and in 1922 De Lugach put over his first subdivision. Mrs. De Lugach states that she worked with him in promoting it, carrying prospects about in the family automobile and caring for the advertising.

Then, Mrs. De Lugach charges, she found that her husband suffered from "a pathological craving for games of chance." He frequently bet $2,000 on a ball game and once lost $2,200 which she had saved on her household expenses, she charges. In 1927 he went to the Kentucky Derby, taking only $150 with him, she says, lost $100 of that on a prize fight the night before and then wired to Chicago for $16,000, which he lost at the race track.

Told to Economize, She Says.

Mrs. De Lugach also charges that her husband was "egotistical and self-centered and wanted her to wait on him and praise his generosity." Recently, she charges, he told her that he was unable to pay bookmakers with whom he had made bets and that they would have to economize. He said he was shaving himself and traveling on trains instead of in his automobile.

She suggested that she should dismiss Elna Berg, the higher paid of their two maids. De Lugach objected, and when Mrs. De Lugach persisted in her intention he called Miss Berg on July 15, told her to pack his clothes and her own, and took the maid to the Shoreland hotel with him, the bill states.

De Lugach has offices at 10 South La Salle street. He said yesterday, when apprised of his wife's divorce action, that he doubted whether she would carry the suit through, but that if she did he would not contest it.

DID WALKER SEE SMITH OR WAS IT 2 OTHER GUYS?

Jimmy Says "Yes," but Al Says "No."

New York, July 26.—[Special.]—Eminent gentlemen sometimes disagree.

James Walker, the mayor, insists, for example, that he saw Alfred E. Smith in the flesh and talked to him for five minutes last night in the hallway of the house at 51 Fifth avenue, where the former governor lives.

On the other hand, Mr. Smith, who has not been able to "see" James John Walker for several years, some say, categorically denies that he saw or talked to the mayor last night. You pays your money and you takes your choice.

This disagreement in terms arose over the fact that passersby in lower Fifth avenue late last night saw the mayor's rakish black Rolls-Royce, bearing the swanky "W-1" license number, draw up in front of 51 Fifth avenue and beheld an individual who certainly resembled the mayor step therefrom into the house.

Emerges at 3 A. M.

Some people were enough interested in the phenomenon to keep vigil and to report that it was not until 3 o'clock this morning that the mayor, looking a bit fagged, emerged from the house carrying a brief case.

The whole circumstance led hasty persons to take a wild leap at the conclusion that the mayor had gone to Mr. Smith for help in putting the polish on his answer to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the matter of the Seabury charges.

This was supported by word from Albany that the mayor had notified Gov. Roosevelt that he was revising his reply to the ouster charges and would forward it "promptly." The governor was given to understand that the document would be in his hands by next Friday.

Persons who were aware of the true nature of the relations between Mr. Smith and Mr. Walker for the last few years rather doubted the yarn, so they put it up to Mr. Smith.

"Bunk" Says Smith.

"Bunk!" said Alfred E. in characteristic style. "I haven't seen the mayor for three weeks and I certainly didn't see him or talk to him last night or early this morning."

Which was sufficiently direct, even for the very direct Al Smith.

But down at city hall, Mayor Walker, asked about his car having been seen [and he also] outside of the Fifth avenue house upon which ex-Gov. Smith perches in a penthouse, promptly replied:

"Oh, yes. I went up there last night to see a friend—Dan Riordan, who lives in that house. As I was going in I met Gov. Smith in the hallway and we talked for five minutes on purely personal matters—just personal."

Somebody may have been walking in his sleep.

BUTLER HOME; G. O. P. RUM PLANK A JOKE TO EUROPE, HE SAYS

New York, July 26.—[Special.]—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler returned from Europe today with the news that the Republican party prohibition plank "is the subject of no inconsiderable merriment and sarcasm" abroad, and the declaration that any attempt to subordinate the repeal issue to the issue of economic problems would be politically futile.

DR. NICOLAS MURRAY BUTLER.

The Columbia university president, whose visit in Europe was in the interests of the Carnegie endowment for international peace, returned on the Majestic with Mrs. Butler and their daughter, Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler.

The repeal issue and solution of economic problems are "inextricably intertwined," Dr. Butler said. "What possible meaning could prosperity have if we are to continue to undermine the constitution of the United States, to weaken the foundations of public and private morality?

"Should not more than 15 states adopt an effective system of state liquor control, such as prevails in the province of Quebec or in Sweden, and should a rate of taxation be established not greater than that which now prevails in Great Britain, the lowest estimate is that $1,500,000 would be available for the public treasury."

U. S. PAY ROLLER SINGS PRAISE OF RUBBING ALKY

Addresses Dry Meeting at Des Plaines.

Capt. John C. Wallace of the United States treasury department, referee on industrial alcohol permits in Chicago, sang the praises of alcohol as a commercial product in a prohibiton lecture yesterday before the Chicagoland dry assembly at the Des Plaines camp ground. The captain was against its use for beverage purposes, however.

"Alcohol used externally has proved one of man's greatest blessings, adding to the health and comfort of every household and giving employment to thousands," he said. "It was never intended to be used inside of a man to rot his stomach and fire his brain."

Having attended every session of the dry assembly, Capt. Wallace's local chief, E. C. Yellowley, is said to have feared that the participation of a federal civil service employé in a political discussion might arouse criticism. The captain said he had the approval of his Washington chief, Dr. James M. Doran, however, and explained that he had taken leave of absence to deliver his speech, thus going off the federal pay roll for a day.

Capt. Wallace presided at the meeting last night addressed by Prof. Paul H. Douglas, University of Chicago economist, and Bishop E. G. Richardson of the Methodist Episcopal church in Philadelphia, new national president of the Anti-Saloon league.

"The liquor question was a red herring drawn across the path of the American people at the Democratic and Republican conventions," Prof. Douglas declared.

Bishop Richardson bade the drys to keep courage in the face of recent wet gains. The wets are exaggerating their victories to plant a defeatist complex in the minds of the drys, he said.

"The eighteenth amendment is perfectly secure if we can get temperate thinking citizens to vote," he said.

Doumer's Assassin Fights Weird Battle for Sanity

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 26.—The second day of the trial of Paul Gorguloff closed with a battle between the state and defense alienists over the sanity of the Russian assassin of President Paul Doumer of France.

A weird note was struck by Gorguloff in commenting in a professional capacity as a doctor on the testimony of three alienists who found him sane. Gorguloff declared that he had never been given any serious examination. He explained in medical terms just what tests should have been given him. Findings of the prosecution alienists were attributed by Gorguloff [who has long presented himself as a doctor] to "professional jealousy."

He also disagreed with the findings of two of his medical colleagues who were employed by the defense to prove that he is insane.

"They are trying to save my life by killing my idea," he said.

One of the state alienists, however, who testified that Gorguloff is neither wholly insane nor entirely responsible, met with his hearty approval.

"There you are: he is the first man in France to understand my soul," cried Gorguloff, flinging out his arms in a dramatic gesture.

"You can take my life now. I will die calm like an apostle, like a good soldier," he sobbed.

It was the second time during the day that Gorguloff broke down. The first time was when the cossack, Ivan Lazareff, trying clumsily to convince the jury, recognized in Gorguloff a cheka agent who had tortured him.

"That is a lie," Gorguloff sobbed hysterically. "My soul is sad unto death to think that a degenerate compatriot should be allowed to dishonor me like this when I am about to die."

Lazareff's testimony apparently made little impression on the jury.

A comic note was struck during the medical discussions when the attorney general declared that it was not necessary to give Gorguloff the Wasserman [blood] test since it is a German test and besides, he pointed out, the prisoner was given the French test, which is just as good.

SETTLE DAMAGES IN THIS CLINIC FIRE FOR $167,000

Cleveland, O., July 16.—(AP)—Damage suits in the Cleveland clinic disaster—one of the worst in this country's peace time history—were settled today for $167,000. The clinic was struck by fire May 15, 1929, and 125 persons were stricken fatally by deadly poisonous gases, or by burns.

In addition to the loss the clinic sustained from the fire itself and from the interruption of business while it moved to a new building, it was made defendant in more than $1,500,000 in damage suits filed by victims who survived and by relatives of those who died.

Sixty-nine victims or their heirs will participate in the $167,000 settlement.

2,200 ATTEND FORT SHERIDAN TRAINING CAMP

Mobilize Next Friday for Month's Instruction.

Twenty-two hundred young men living in Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin will be mobilized at Fort Sheridan next Friday for one month of training in a citizens' military training camp. Brig. Gen. F. C. Bolles, commander of the post, will command the camp.

The young men will compose seven companies of infantry, two troops of cavalry, a battery of field artillery, and a band of ninety pieces. These units will be commanded by regular army officers from the fort, assisted by sixty reserve officers, similar to the manner in which the training program has been carried on in previous years.

Applications for attendance at the citizens' military training camp this year so far exceeded the 2,200 that can be accommodated that the lists were closed several months ago, according to post headquarters. The young men who attend the camp are not paid, but receive the training, meals, lodging, uniforms and transportation.

They range in age from 16 to 24 years and average about 19. The training does not commit them to future military duty, but if they complete the course of four camps and pass the required examination they may receive reserve officers' commissions. Their experience with the military life is complete—they take turns at kitchen police, make their own cots, police the camp area, which is a small city of tents in the south end of the reservation, and keep their personal equipment in condition.

The training program fills the morning hours and the afternoons are devoted to athletics. The units stand retreat before the evening mess and then are relieved from further duties until dawn and next morning.

Parades are held every Saturday morning, reviewed by the commanding general, and during the period of the camp, which closes on Aug. 27, a number of dances are arranged by Red Cross officials. A number of athletic competitions are arranged.

Brig. Gen. Bolles announced a number of special visitors' days, as follows: Aug. 6, Governor's day; Aug. 11, American Legion day; Aug. 16, Patten day; Aug. 18, D. A. R. day; Aug. 20, official visitors' day, and Aug. 22, Neenah-Menasha day.

FRED DUESENBERG, RACING CAR BUILDER, DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Indianapolis, Ind., July 26.—[Special.]—Fred Duesenberg, pioneer automobile manufacturer and famed builder of racing motor cars, died today at Johnstown, Pa., from pneumonia which developed from injuries in an automobile accident. He was 55 years old.

Duesenberg received two broken ribs, a partial fracture of the spine, and a dislocation of the shoulder on July 2 at Ligonier Mountain, Pa., when he swerved his car to avoid another car, skidded into a bank and rolled over twice. He was en route home to Indianapolis from a business trip in the east when the accident occurred.

Duesenberg had seemed on the road to recovery when pleural pneumonia developed. He suffered a relapse last night, and was unconscious three hours before his death. Mrs. Duesenberg and their son, Donny, have been at his bedside since July 5.

Duesenberg was born in Germany, but came to the United States when he was 8 years old. He was a pioneer in the development of the straight eight cylinder motor and, with Harry Miller of Los Angeles, Duesenberg and his brother August for many years dominated the automobile racing in the United States. His cars were prominent in the 500 mile Memorial day race at the Indianapolis speedway for 20 years.

For the last several years Duesenberg had been consulting engineer for the Cord company, which several years ago took over his plant and continued to manufacture the Duesenberg car.

After 37 years of collecting dust and grime from the soot laden Chicago atmosphere, the exterior of the federal building is being cleaned. A Rochester, N. Y., concern has the contract and 22 men are doing the job. Acid is applied with a brush to the stone of the building. Steam under high pressure is then shot against the walls from hose nozzles. This method, it is claimed, does not cause inconvenience to pedestrians and has the added advantage of not eating away the mortar or marring the surface of the stone.

The 157th birthday of the United States postal service was celebrated yesterday in Chicago with the federal building, all substations, mail trucks, and other equipment decorated with flags and bunting. The rotunda of the federal building bore posters commemorating the event and also pictures of George Washington.

The history of the postal service and its service problems were outlined in talks by Mr. Lueder and William H. Canavan, assistant superintendent of mails. Mr. Lueder made a radio address. Mr. Canavan addressed a Kiwanis luncheon at the Medinah Athletic club.

O'SHAUGHNESSY, U. S. DIPLOMATIC VETERAN, IS DEAD

VIENNA, Austria, July 26.—(AP)—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, who served the United States in diplomatic posts at Mexico City, Copenhagen, Berlin, Bucharest, Vienna, and St. Petersburg, was found dead in bed yesterday. He was 56.

Mrs. O'Shaughnessy, the former Edith Louise Coues of Washington, an authoress, is in Rome. She is an invalid. A family friend is en route from Italy to take charge of the body.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy had been suffering for some time from heart trouble. He had lived here since 1923. Perhaps the incident best known about his diplomatic career concerns the dispute between the United States and Mexico in 1912 and 1913 when he was secretary to the American embassy. President Huerta refused President Wilson's demand that Mexico salute the American flag, and Mr. O'Shaughnessy was handed his passport.

Hammerschmidt, Head of Saengerbund, Drops Dead

MUNICH, Germany, July 26.—(AP)—Carl Hammerschmidt, 70 year old president of the German Saengerbund, dropped dead of a heart attack today while he was on the way home from Frankfort, where he attended the song festival last week.

OKLAHOMA GIVES WILL ROGERS 2-1 LEAD IN PRIMARY

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 26.—(AP)—Will Rogers, young schoolmaster, took a 2 to 1 lead tonight over Mable Bassett, charities commissioner, for the Democratic nomination as congressman at large on returns from 2,447 out of 3,311 precincts in Oklahoma's run-off primary. The vote:

Rogers, 228,588; Bassett, 120,181.

Rogers' foes had waged a vigorous campaign to bar him from the ballot on the grounds he had used the name "Will Rogers" to deceive the voters, but the Supreme court refused to take jurisdiction. Gov. W. H. Murray gave Rogers his indorsement.

Elmer Thomas, seeking reelection to the United States senate, led Gomer Smith, Oklahoma City lawyer, for the Democratic nomination. Returns from 2,229 precincts gave: Thomas, 186,596; Smith, 125,774.

J. C. (Jack) Walton, deposed governor, and A. S. J. Shaw, former state auditor and treasurer, waged a close battle for Democratic nomination for corporation commissioner. In 2,436 precincts the ousted governor had 173,124 votes, against 173,867 for Shaw.

Republican returns were:

For United States senator, 1,197 precincts:

Wirt Franklin, 20,019; James A. Harris, 14,172.

R. A. Howard, 3,042; George R. Taylor, 2,370.

For corporation commissioner, 202 precincts:

J. H. Johnston, 2,904; D. W. Walker, 2,688.

BANK ROBBERS USE WOMEN AS GUNFIRE SHIELD

Concordia, Kas., July 26.—(AP)—Four men robbed the Cloud County bank today of a sum officials estimated at $14,000 and escaped with women as hostages to shield their motor car from gunfire.

Compelling three young women to ride on the running boards until the city limits were reached, the robbers fled north toward Nebraska. The car was traced as far as Belleville, Kas., where the trail was lost.

About thirty customers, as well as the bank employés, were forced to lie on the floor while the robbery was in progress. M. L. Wentz, a farmer, and J. C. Peck, vice president of the bank, were struck on the head with a revolver butt by one of the robbers, but neither was injured severely.

The three young women were released unharmed.

'Very Private Sin' Pleasing Bit of Nothing

Two Other Tales Recommended for Hot Days.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Very Private Sin," by Laurence Oliver [Minton Balch].

"Nothing But Wodehouse," edited by Ogden Nash [Doubleday Doran].

IF books only were printed on rubber I would recommend the three listed at the top of this column for ideal accompaniments to an afternoon in the sea or the lake [up to one's neck in coolth], or an evening in the family bath with the cold water tap turned on full. What could be nicer than a complete immersion in eau froide and a gay tale to ward off the scorcher blues?

P. G. WODEHOUSE.

As a starter on the gay tales there is "Very Private Sin," which is frivolously about nothing at all more important than the opposition of a pompous family to the true course of young love. The heir to a title [impecunious in his own right] falls in love with a young lady of the theater and presents her to his family as the girl he intends to marry, come what may.

The ancient incumbent of the title objects with vehemence and zest to the misalliance, and threatens to disown the young blatherskite, which would be a calamity since a title isn't much good on 500 pounds a year. Then the boy's mother conceives the brilliant idea of letting propinquity get in its deadly work.

She invites the girl to the country, throws the lad and his fiancée together constantly and natural erosion of temperament is supposed to take its course. The girl's mother, a former bar maid, is imported to aid in the eroding process. But the former bar maid proves to be . . . what, you will have to read the book to find out, for in that proving lies much of the amusing outcome of the book. You see, there is little unusual about the plot [except the mother's part in it], but the usual tale is told with unusual gayety, and "Very Private Sin" is a top-hole hot weather yarn.

"Top-hole" is really the only adjective that seems exactly decent after reading "The Tennessee Poppy." That book makes you so terribly English—RAA-ther. In it Frances Crane has spoofed AND spoofed the upper clawsses of the tight little isle. Its heroine is a simple young gal of the Tennessee Dugannes, who has inherited a fortune and has gone to London to see life, since "a girl who cared too much for pleasure might have taken passage for Paris."

Poppy is a cross between the blond whom gentlemen preferred and the blond who preferred gentlemen. She is pounced upon by assorted ladies and lords and sold practically the entire British isles—an experience not unheard of in traveling American circles.

It is not a unique experience for the charming hostess who plies you with "Indya or Ceylon" with "milk and sugar" to suggest that perhaps you might care to purchase the rare old Queen Anne tea table upon which the rare old Georgian service is reposing [also for sale]. American travelers of known wealth have been known to come home with such tales and even indigent Americans who LOOK wealthy sometimes have weekend invitations to strange ancestral baronial houses which take in an occasional paying guest.

Frances Crane has made a whooping laugh out of the exploitation of the wealthy American traveler. And she has satirized the British conversation to a rich golden lingo, the reading of which would be a side splitting occasion to anyone.

We are used to the spoofings of the English about the ways of Americans. Novels, volumes of travel, and lectures have been full of them in the not too distant past. But an American returning the compliment is something new. New and warranted to supply a good clean laugh to anyone.

Even P. G. Wodehouse has not written funnier conversation than some that Frances Crane gives the readers of "The Tennessee Poppy." And there is no greater compliment than that. P. G. Wodehouse is the world's funniest English writer. And I don't mean maybe. "Nothing But Wodehouse," is labeled a "bargain book." And it is well labeled. For it contains over a thousand pages of the cream of the jests of Mr. Wodehouse.

There are six episodes from the incomparable "Jeeves," and five from the equally incomparable "Very Good Jeeves." "He Rather Enjoyed It," yields six tales to tickle the funny bone, and "Meet Mr. Mulliner," and "Mr. Mulliner Speaking," seven between them. And at the end there is the complete novel "Leave It to Psmith" which is one of the funniest known fictional records.

Illinois 'Lotus' Is Found to Be American Lily

Grass Lake Beds Interest Wild Plant Students.

BY PAUL POTTER.

There seems to be some question in the minds of local students of wild plant life as to the claims being made for the lotus flowers now growing and blooming so profusely at Grass lake, northwest of Chicago.

One of those to raise the issue is C. M. Schantz, 3219 Maple avenue in Berwyn, who points out that THE TRIBUNE and other Chicago newspapers have been overstating the importance of the Grass lake lotus beds in referring to these beds as the "only spot in the Chicago area where the lotus, which is indigenous to Egypt, grows on an extensive scale."

Botanists list several types of lotus plants, some of them leguminous plants which grow in dry meadows of the eastern and northern states and in parts of Canada. The lotus at Grass lake, however, is not the Egyptian lotus, but is called by botanists Nelumbo Lutea, a native American water lily. Students of plant life have found this lotus in Ontario, Canada; in Minnesota, Iowa, Tennessee, and as far south as Texas.

The wide distribution of this lotus, whose tubers and seed both are edible, is supposed to have been brought about by Indians.

This particular nelumbo is also known as yellow nelumbo and water chinquapin. Early settlers called it the sacred bean. It is not the same as the Oriental lotus, whose technical name is listed in the new Gray's Manual of Botany as nelumbo nucifera, a water plant with pink flowers which has been artificially introduced in eastern states.

It is true that the Grass lake beds are the only large and wild lotus beds within short distance of Chicago. But from the bluffs of the Mississippi at McGregor, Ia., 300 feet above the water, one may see an island in whose middle is a lake whose shores are lined in mid-August with gorgeous flowers and leaves of the lotus. Mr. Schantz says he has found the flowers to measure from 7 to 10 inches across.

The American lotus is sometimes grown in parks or home garden water pools, although the rank growth of the plants has led most gardeners to a preference for the favorite water lilies.

Viola Cole-Audet in Piano Recital of New Compositions

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Viola Cole-Audet's piano recital at the Punch & Judy theater yesterday morning featured a number of new compositions by Th. Otterstrom and herself. Two of Mr. Otterstrom's works, "Indian Love Song," and "The Dance of the Dog Feast," would seem to have been based upon Indian themes, in which field he has done considerable research work. Mme. Cole-Audet, who composes as fluently as she plays, is fond of going to foreign countries for her inspiration. Thus in yesterday's program two of her compositions had to do with Spain and one with Mexico.

Elsewhere on her program there was a stormy performance of Beethoven's rondo, "Rage Over a Lost Coin," and a spacious one of Cesar Franck's Prelude, Aria, and Finale.

Coming between Mme. Cole-Audet's appearance yesterday and that of G. Magnus Schutz's song recital tomorrow morning, there will be another of the Chicago Musical college summer artist series this morning at 11 o'clock and hitherto unannounced. It will be a piano recital by Grace Nelson.

Among the other musical events of the week is to be cited a song recital by Lolita Bertling, soprano, at Kimball hall. Miss Bertling, a former prize winner in a radio contest, is possessed of a voice of much clarity and beauty, but even more important than her vocal endowment is the fact that she is well versed in the art of interpretation. In her performances the words of the song-poem rank as importantly as the notes of the melody, and this is one of the great points of good singing.

Shrine Convention in California Opens Ceremonies to Public

San Francisco, Cal., July 26.—(AP)—Shriners opened their 58th annual convention here today and then settled down to a little serious funmaking.

Thousands of brightly uniformed nobles from all over the continent mobilized into bands, drill teams, drum and bugle corps and other units to march through streets already made Arabesque by an army of decorators.

The ceremonies, for the first in the order's history, were open to the public. Imperial Potentate Thomas J. Houston of Chicago presided.

Quaint Quilts of Old South Back in Favor

1932 Models Colorful and Gay as Originals.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

When certain shopkeepers decide to be patriotic, unquestionably they should be encouraged by every shopper. So the shopper in search of stuff to perk up her home should see and buy inexpensively and generously some of these new American spreads for beds.

They include bed spreads made in America, made by nimble and cunning fingers of American women, way down south in Georgia. And there also are candlewick bedspreads, replicas of quaint old fashioned originals, all in white or the same candlewick spreads, definitely dated as new and 1932; and made in the same manner, but colorfully gay and brilliant for this year's new mode of interior decoration.

The very brightest idea is a black and bright red plaid candlewick spread designed by some genius for a sturdy masculine room. Your masculine offspring with a well fostered antipathy of anything sissy will sigh with blissful content when such a spread covers his couch, while your decorative sense of color and fitness will be appeased with a practical as well as good looking bed cover. These spreads have a double row of candlewicking tufts around the edge as a border.

Other spreads bloom in soft pastel tints, a very unusual combination being a pale peach and rust, another of blue and rose. The sunshiny yellow spreads look as cheerfully gay as a bowl of spicy nasturtians. Unbelievably cool green spreads look as refreshing as a dew drenched summer garden at sunrise. Gingery brown and tan tufted spreads must have been especially designed to contrast all the new honey brown shades of maple bedroom furniture.

A lot of sticky sleepers have complained because no one has thought of supplying thin blankets. But this summer their desires can be satisfied. Now you can buy thin wool blankets that are as soft and light as a vagrant breeze. Soft blues, creamy yellows, old pinks and misty mauves, all bound with harmonizing silk ribbon, are awaiting housewife shoppers who will gladly replenish their cupboard shelves with such practical and modestly priced covers.

There isn't anyone that won't thrill to the piquant charms of a grandmother style of patched quilts. You probably have two or three of these treasures that are too precious to use . . . old lavender scented, sentimental, lovely heirlooms made by those incredibly active fingers of the grand old ladies that sewed them years ago. Some understanding soul has copied them faithfully and you can buy copies that will make you rub your eyes before you realize they are made of printed muslins with exact patterns that were old time favorites. These copied patch quilts are cool, light and the most peaceful things you have ever seen. Even the most exhausted financier could fall asleep, lulled with the memories of a lost childhood with one of these "crazy quilts" tucked under the chin.

Scalloped chintz summer quilts are something to really get excited about, especially when you see the red and yellow model made of figured chintz with turkey red bound scallops. A soft dusty pink and blue chintz with wee little patterns in a shade darker color also seem to be made for snug cottage bedrooms and wood fires and old polished mahogany and sun warmed maple furniture!

'The Texas Bad Man' Proves a 'Real' Picture for Tom Mix

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Tom Mix has a real picture this time.

"The Texas Bad Man" is an interesting and suspenseful "western," far superior to many of the classifications that gallop into oblivion. Also, be it said that Mr. Mix's handling of the title rôle is to be commended.

Wait a minute. Perhaps the title doesn't refer to Tom. Perhaps it designates that strange, two faced prairie Napoleon, Milton Keefe, who meets his Waterloo through Tom's astuteness and ingenuity. But I'm inclined to think otherwise.

The story is laid in Texas away back when bandits earned their living by robbing stage coaches. Dan Bishop, a hard riding, swift thinking, quick shooting member of the Texas Rangers, becomes one of them [with a price on his head] that he may, ultimately, turn over to justice an outlaw band that has been terrorizing the countryside.

He beats his prey at their own game of robbing a certain coach, and the tough hombres he has outwitted hail him before their chief.

The last is a fearsome appearing yahoo, albeit of no large build. He is a worshiper of Napoleon, busts and pictures of whom occupy honored positions in his hideout. He believes that he, like the general, is "a man of destiny."

A hard and ruthless chap. You can feature our hero's astonishment when, some days after his first encounter with the former, he meets him as a respected citizen of San Luis, and the brother of an adorable blonde sister.

As you have guessed by now, developments develop at top speed.

"THE TEXAS BAD MAN."

Directed by Edward Laemmle.

I was much impressed with Willard Robertson's work as the Jekyll-Hyde Keefe. He plays the dual rôle in direct, believable and intuitive fashion.

Fred Kohler does well with his rôle of ruffian in chief. Joe Girard is effective as the soft spoken, white goateed captain of the Rangers, and Lucille Powers plays the heroine with considerable charm. And then, as always, there's good old Tony, giving all that he has to the master he's been so true to for twenty years.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

Two Chicago Airmen Seek Fish in Canada

Young Flyers May Go on to Alaska.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO young Chicagoans have started off on what sounds like a most thrilling vacation, flying to Canada to fish, and then, perhaps, if their wings hold out, going clear to Alaska!

I wasn't able to verify the latter part of the plan by any one yesterday, but it sounds quite possible that those intrepid young men, Ralph N. Isham and John P. Porter, might be planning such a trip, doesn't it?

The first part already is started, for the two young men started off last Friday in Mr. Isham's airplane to meet "Mike" Thorne [George A. Thorne] in Ontario and to continue the trip in his plane, which has pontoons and so is more suitable for flying over northeast Canada than a land plane, which is what Mr. Isham's is.

Although Mr. Thorne lives in New York now with his wife, the former Elinor Gates Toerge, he was born and reared here, and so perhaps this story should have started with the words, "Three young Chicagoans." He is a brother of Bruce Thorne and of Mrs. William Dodge Horne Jr., both of Chicago; Mrs. Guthrie Shaw of Rye, N. Y.; Mrs. Frances Thorne Bovingdon of Clermont, Fla., and Mrs. Robb H. Sagendorph of Dublin, N. H. Their mother, Mrs. George A. Thorne, resides in Brookline, Mass., now.

Mr. Thorne accompanied Byrd's Antarctic expedition to the south pole a few years ago and has been an aviation enthusiast ever since he was a young boy, as have Mr. Isham and Mr. Porter also. Mr. Isham is a son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Snow Isham, and Mr. Porter is a son of Henry H. Porter and Mrs. Prentice Porter.

James Simpson Off for New Hunting Trip Today.

James Simpson, who rushed home from India where he was hunting big game with his youngest son, "Jack" Simpson, and young "Wat" Armour, to assume the chairmanship of the board of the three Insull utilities corporations, is to start off on another hunting trip today, although the game he is after this time is much smaller than that he shot in India and Africa, for this trip is to the Scottish moors for a month's shooting of grouse and pheasant, while in those other far off countries he bagged a wild buffalo, a gazelle, a rhinoceros, a tiger, a wild mountain goat, in addition to much small game.

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson and "Larry" Callahan are leaving today to sail tomorrow on the Majestic to join Mr. Simpson's companions on the big game hunt, who have preceded leisurely to Scotland while Mr. Simpson has been busy with "big business" here. Also in the party will be the middle Simpson son, "Bill," and a friend of his from Philadelphia, William Watts, who went over last week.

Miss Edith Cummings is another Chicagoan who will enjoy the grouse and pheasant shooting in Scotland next month, for she left yesterday to sail tonight on the Bremen to spend a month in Scotland with the Wolcott Blairs, who went over the last of June and have taken a place on the moors for the hunting season. Also among their guests will be the "Jack" Kelloggs of Lake Forest, who went over early this month with the Clarence B. Mitchells of Santa Barbara.

Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson Jr. are to be at Saratoga, N. Y., for the racing season there instead of in Scotland with the rest of the Simpsons, and already they are at Cedar Lodge, Mrs. Joseph Leiter's house at Saratoga, which they have taken for the season. Mr. Simpson has taken a number of horses east with him and probably some of them will be entered in the races at that famous old resort next month.

Frederick L. Spencers Move to Barringtown Farmhouse

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Spencer moved yesterday from their Pearson street apartment to the attractive little farmhouse on the Barrington estate of Mr. Spencer's brother, Egbert H. Spencer. It probably will be some weeks before the Spencers are settled enough to have a house warming, but they've already made considerable headway toward redecorating the house and just as soon as they're through with the interior they'll get to work on the garden.

Miss Sarah L. T. Walker of 70 Cedar street, was a recent guest at Mrs. W. Ernest Walker's estate at Geneva, N. Y., and has now gone on to make some visits in Maine and then to be Mrs. John A. Spoor's guest at Wianno, Mass.

Mrs. Henry Chapman Olcott of 325 Fullerton parkway, had thought of remaining in town all this summer, but Chicago's heat must have had something to do with changing her mind, for she has left for her usual summer visit at her family's estate at East Haddam, Conn. She will return early in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Blunt of Evanston and Mr. and Mrs. Lansing B. Warner of Hubbard Woods, are at Lawsonia on Green lake in Wisconsin for this week.

Season Under Way at Cherlevoix Chicago Club.

A letter from Charlevoix brings word that the season slowly but surely is getting under way at the fashionable Chicago club there and that the first of the ten sailboat races comprising the annual regatta will be run on Wednesday, Aug. 3, and subsequent races on each succeeding Saturday and Wednesday.

Miss Jane Macdonald and her brother, Robert, of Peterborough, Canada, grandchildren of Mrs. Robert Stuart of Chicago, are with Mrs. Stuart at the club for the rest of the season, and the R. Douglas Stuarts of Lake Forest and their son, Robert, spent last week-end with Mrs. Stuart. Mrs. F. Langdon Hubbard [Emily Scott of Hubbard Woods] of Grosse Pointe, Mich., is at the cottage of her

U. of C. Scientists Start 5 Year Study of Public Administration

Practical problems faced by administrative officers of state and local governments will be investigated by University of Chicago political scientists during the next five years in a research and student training project announced yesterday by Leonard D. White, professor of public administration. The Rockefeller foundation has made an appropriation of $125,000 to support the project.

Among the problems to be studied is an analysis of crisis situations under the city manager plan of government. Observers will visit Cleveland, Pasadena, Flint, Mich., and Beloit, Wis. A second problem on which work will begin shortly is the study of the machinery of fiscal control, particularly in state governments.

"A new pattern of fiscal management has been developed in the last 10 years," Dr. White said. "The tendency has been to centralize control of budgets, allotments, daily vouchers, and other financial functions in the hands of a few officers. Recent necessities for retrenchment have aroused complaints. Budget cutting has been accompanied by protests from department heads who felt the importance of their work has not been recognized. An impartial study should have permanent value in this connection."

Dedicate Mission Ship for South Seas in London Downpour

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, England, July 26.—Standing bareheaded in a downpour, the archbishop of Canterbury dedicated the Melanesian mission ship, Southern Cross VI., off the Greenwich pier today.

Undeterred by the sudden torrent, Doctor Lang continued his address under an umbrella but his robes were quickly drenched. Old salts, however, held that the weather has a lucky omen for the trim little vessel, sailing Friday never to return.

The bishop of Melanesia will use the ship in the inland diocese 2,000 miles in the South Pacific. For seventy years a mission ship named the Southern Cross has sailed among forty scattered islands, although this is the first motorship in service, its predecessors all being windjammers.

I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent, dependent, young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, a well to do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty creature who summoned the doctor. Both men determine to help the plucky young orphan girl. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doria Hathaway, a widow friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. The doctor sends Gold to see Mrs. Hathaway and she gets the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralizing influence of Doria. He decides to sail himself. On the boat Doria meets David Dorrance, who wants to interest Pierce in a business deal. Doria asks Gold to dine with her. They are joined by Pierce and Dorrance. Gold is angered by Pierce's cynicism and distrust of women. Gip Alen, Gold's half brother, stows away on the boat and threatens to disclose his identity unless Gold does as he bids. Pierce, who overhears Gip's threats, unknown to Gold, arranges to get him third class passage on condition he doesn't bother Gold. Dorrance offers Gold a position as his secretary on the Havana trip, which she gladly accepts. Doria invites a good looking youth from steerage to dine with her and give an exhibition tango. The youth is Gip Alen.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

THE PRICE OF FOLLY.

Gold hummed a little tune, walking buoyantly along.

A streak of silver came out on the deck, followed by a slim shadow; Doria and Gip. "Here they are," said Barney, nonchalantly, walking her right off to the other end of the promenade.

But when they turned, they neared Dora and Gip again.

Doria and Gip were at the side, looking out seaward, very close together. Their shoulders touched snugly. In spite of her enjoyment of the sensation she had made, and the whole heart which she gave to the matter of that tango, Doria had not been blind to the fact that Barney and Gold had left the palm lounge as soon as it started. All over her again had come that itch to "show" Barney. If he could walk a girl about in the moonlight, why, she herself could make just such a romantic looking promenade under his very eyes. As soon as the last bars had died down, before the applause had ceased, she had slipped out, laughing, with her picturesque partner.

Not that there was much real laughter at this moment on her lips or in her heart.

As the two figures, the black and white of Pierce, the gold and scarlet of the girl clear under the few overhead lights, approached again, Doria looked at them over her shoulder. "I'm not going to speak to them," she said to Gip. "We'll soon go in and dance again."

"I'm so sick of you and your interference in my life anyway. I cut you out."

But she did not move. She remained for a moment as if petrified, where she stood. For she had seen a spare uniformed figure come out on deck, motion to Pierce. It was Elverton.

Pierce drew aside for a moment with the doctor, leaving Gold Franklyn to lean alone against the side, looking seaward.

She had suddenly abandoned herself to endure whatever might happen. She couldn't talk; she couldn't sing any more. There must be trouble now. Let it come!

"I'm sure I don't want to talk to any of them," Gip answered Doria in a high voice of defiance; "but I'd like to walk right past them all."

"Lets."

A woman of thirty-two, a woman of the world, and she could feel so childishly, so spitefully, so nervously! Doria slid her arm closely through Gip's, and stepping as if to fox trot music, they went by the doctor, the purser, and Pierce. Doria's silver tail literally swept the deck; she looked more than ever the "very pretty creature," and Elverton's eyes could not help glancing aside. He was angry—even his usually sufficient philosophy failing; yet he must look after her, and look longingly.

For years he had accepted, in the light of his medical experience, the charitable wisdom of the hackneyed French saw: Tout comprendre, c'est tout pardonner. It failed to night, because to understand this did not mean forgiveness. It meant. . . . and the scientist gave place to the man.

Then Doria's silver tail swished past Gold, standing looking out to sea, her back to them. "Enjoying yourself, I hope, my dear," called Doria in a high gracious voice and swept on without pausing. Gip dropped his silk handkerchief almost at Gold's feet.

Some thirty yards on he fished causually in his cuff. "Where's by handkerchief? O, excuse me. I've dropped it." He was back in a flash, retrieving it. And as he bent to retrieve it, lingering for a few seconds for the farce of looking for identifying initials on the handkerchief, he spoke rapidly. He spoke with a vindictiveness that, familiar as it was, yet struck with a new note of callousness on her overstrung senses.

"Now you damn well see, my girl, what I'm doing for myself. I'm with the richest, prettiest woman on this ship. I'll bet she's the richest. I can pick 'em. And don't you dare come up and own me. I'm so sick of you and your interference in my life anyway. I cut you out. See? I cut you out."

With hardly a movement of the lips, in a voice not above a whisper this was said, while she stood close to him, not moving. Then he had rejoined Doria. Again, arm in arm, they continued their promenade.

"Let's go round the other side," he suggested to Doria then, for he wanted to avoid those three men. The other side—and then slip in, down perhaps to the suite that no doubt she had; there to continue the fairy tale of the life of Gip. But he was frustrated here, by a very small, yet a very important, thing; a woman's vanity.

"Too windy," said Doria. "It will spoil my hair. Turn back here, and then we'll go in and dance again."

So they must turn, and Gip saw immediately that those three men were watching and awaiting them. He felt his lips go dry.

"All right," he tried to say gallantly, "with you I'd face any music."

But he looked for an entrance all the same. There was one, close at hand. Only, as he ushered Doria urgently towards it, the doctor and the purser met them there.

Barney Pierce had left them, was returning to his partner, who leaned her elbows on the bulwarks, and her head in her hands.

"Mrs. Hathaway," said the purser, "I must trouble you and Mr. Alen to come at once to the captain."

"O! how nice! I love the captain!" said Doria audaciously.

But when she met Elverton's eyes she quailed, surprising herself.

"I will bring Mrs. Hathaway," said the doctor very quietly.

And she was going obediently, and quite silently, beside him, while, obedient and silent, Gip Alen followed with the purser.

"Are we prisoners?" said Doris artlessly.

But she thought: "I've made a fool of myself! A fool!" The capricious childish joy at causing a minor sensation died in her.

"This way, Mrs. Hathaway," said Elverton still in that very noncommittal voice.

It was not "nice" at all, this pilgrimage, and when she saw the captain again, she did not "love" him. She did not meet him now, in those remote quarters of his, as a favored lady passenger asked in to tea. He was a keen and contemptuous officer who, with an iron hand, controlled this ship; who controlled—if necessary with an iron hand—herself. She curved in, chin up in spite of that foolish feeling, asking, "Have I done anything wrong, captain?" and receiving a direct answer, "I fear so, my dear lady," that, with the look in his eyes, abashed her.

"I wanted a dancing partner," she faltered.

"I am sure you don't lack them, Mrs. Hathaway," said the captain. "You are not allowed to bring them out of the third class."

He looked with grim disfavor, upon the beautiful young man. His look took in sharply and derisively the velvet jacket, the flowing tie, and the shoddy gray trousers beneath.

He addressed himself to Doria: "This fellow is a stowaway for whom a compassionate passenger had paid third class fare."

The wave of red that flushed Gip's face was reflected by the wave of red in Doria's. She crimsoned to her ears.

"A stowaway!"

"A stowaway," the captain repeated. "Dr. Elverton here, as a pure matter of coincidence, knows something of his origin, and his reasons for coming aboard. His reasons are discreditable to any man, and he, of all passengers, is to stay where we put him. This fellow is a workshy; be silent!" he ordered as Gip began to protest. "He looks upon impressionable ladies like yourself —"

Doria began, and dropped, an indignant refutation.

"Impressionable ladies like yourself," the captain repeated, "as a specially happy hunting ground. He knows he can tell you any story about himself and you will believe it."

"Do you take me for a fool?" cried Doria, flushed and breathless.

"Yes," the captain replied candidly, "but not for so big a fool as he takes you."

Charity Trust Funds Big Aid in Depression

Annual Community Report Made Public.

Enthusiastic commendation of the service rendered Chicago by its social service institutions during the three years of business depression is contained in the annual report of the Chicago Community Trust, made public yesterday by Frank D. Loomis, secretary.

The Chicago Community Trust was established in 1915 to accumulate and conserve trust funds for charitable purposes, using the incomes in any way designated by the donors or determined by the directors. Clifford W. Barnes is president of the organization, which has offices at 10 South La Salle.

"Charitable endownments, whether held by the Community Trust or by charitable institutions themselves," the report states, "are proving a source of great stability and service in the present emergency. The endownment funds of well managed institutions, both as to principal and income, have held up thus far with remarkable success. Most of the investments are in high grade bonds, with relatively low income but excellent promise of regularity.

"Not all endowment funds are well managed and not all are serving equally important or useful purposes. The waste of ill conceived and unrestricted philanthropy is still apparent in many instances, the more pity in such times as these when funds are so sorely needed.

"In 1931 the Community Trust distributed income from its trust funds to the amount of $134,600 among 84 religious, educational, and charitable institutions. The largest amount for any single purpose was $26,384 for family and emergency relief, $11,000 of this being given to the Joint Emergency Relief Fund. These amounts represent an increase of about $35,000 more than was available and distributed in 1930.

"The need for further joint or coordinated financing of social agencies in the present emergency is apparent.

"Charity alone, however, can not heal our present ills. We need the surgery of stern economics. Charity can only help to hold the situation until other forces come to the rescue."

Contributions for current general charitable purposes have been maintained with gratifying regularity, the report asserts, despite the large contributions for emergency relief. Interim reports from institutions since the close of the fiscal year, however, indicate that many will suffer heavily in this respect in the present year.

Kay Francis as Lovely Off the Screen as On It

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Kay Francis is one of the brightest rewards of being an interviewer. She is all you expect her to be, hope she'll be and find "she be." About some of your pet screen beauties, when you meet 'em you're forced to say: "There are a hundred girls quite as good looking!" or, maybe you'll slip into the common vernacular and emit a "Not so hot, dearie!"

No fault of the girl, understand We've just built up that picture for ourselves from what the screen has done to our eyes and imagination And, besides, the girls must have something else or they wouldn't be box office draws. But we're just talking about stunners from the pulchritude angle.

I had been reading in an English paper not so long ago a noted artist's tribute to Miss Francis' beauty. He had her down as one modern whose beauty made the women of historical fame look like the proverbial fi: cakes. Only, being a noted artist, he didn't use such a lowdown phrase as that. He did vote her a high place in artistic beauty regard, however.

After seeing the girl we'll grant her the right to the highest pedestal perch. She is stunning. She flashed into our ken recently wearing a navy blue chiffon two piece ensemble, a blue hat and shoes of the same dark shade. A very long V of white organdy, ending in a dapper bow, was the only color relief. Her dark brown hair 's luxuriously lovely, her eyes unusually fine. But that tall, slender, vibrant body of hers is just enough to drive the reducing-crazy femme to distraction.

We asked about earrings, somehow associating them with Miss Francis' chic sophistication. We missed them on her. We were told she never wears them except on the screen—and then only for sophisticated parts or for luck. [She claims one pair are her luck pieces.]

She recalled the advice Sam Goldwyn gave her at one time: "Frances, he said, "if a girl has natural beauty she should not distract from its appeal with artificial glitter, like the addition of earrings." And that, we think, an excellent sermon on earring wearing.

Calles' Daughter Divorces American and Weds Merchant

MEXICO CITY, July 26.—(AP)—Today's newspapers said Mrs. Thomas Arnold Robinson, the former Ernestina Calles, daughter of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, was married yesterday at Cuernavaca to Jorge Pasquel, a commission merchant of Vera Cruz.

The wedding took place, the report said, soon after Mrs. Robinson had obtained a divorce from her husband, a former resident of Detroit who now lives in Mexico City.

An application for divorce by mutual consent was filed at Cuernavaca some time ago. The Robinsons have two children. The custody of the children was awarded to their mother.

parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Scott, for the summer.

Solomon A. Smith, who, according to our correspondent, looks splendidly after his recent operation for appendicitis, has arrived with Mrs. Smith to be at the club until late in September. Mrs. John P. Wilson has opened her cottage for the season, also her "house in the woods" with its large pavilion and swimming pool. With her is Miss Cynthia Wilson, who occasionally engages in making portrait sketches for which she has quite a flair. Joseph H. King spent last week-end with Mrs. King and their son, Jack, at Charlevoix. Mrs. Francis Stanley Rickcords again has rented the W. R. Dickinson cottage, which is one of the most beautiful of the many cottages within the club grounds. With her is her daughter, Anne, who is busy playing tennis with a view to participating in the several tournaments held at the club each season. Mrs. Earl L. Hambleton, Mrs. Rickcords' mother, and Miss Peggy Hambleton also are at the Rickcords cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Johnson have returned to their cottage after a ten days' cruise on their boat. That Miss Molly Hill is the guest of Miss Elinor Estey Talbot just now, and that the two young girls are having a beautiful time is the concluding bit of news in the letter.

Jack and Jill Players Present Lake Forest Show.

Everybody agreed that the famous gardens on Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw's Lake Forest estate never looked more brilliant than they did yesterday afternoon, when they formed a background for several scores of children and mothers who came to see the Jack and Jill players present "The Magic Whistle" in the outdoor theater for the benefit of Druce Lake camp. Borders of candytuft, zinnias, veronica, snapdragons, verbena, and cosmos bloomed in the gardens surrounding the theater, where the young actors performed on a circular stage against a background of pines.

Jackie McCutcheon, the John T. McCutcheons' young son, acted as a sort of master of ceremonies and greeted all of his young friends as they approached the stage. Among those in the audience were Mrs. Edward D. Shumway, with her youngsters, Grace and Eddie; Mrs. Hempstead Washburne and her son, Teddy; Mrs. Keith Carpenter with little Anita; Mrs. Frank A. Priebe with Barbara and Helen; Mrs. Donald P. Welles and her children; Mrs. Alan Harris of Garden City, N. Y., who is spending the summer in Lake Forest with her sister, Mrs. Roger Bronson, and who brought along her children, Alan and Louis Harris, and little Barbara Bronson. Johnny Curtis, the John G. Curtises' son, and Patsy Hopkins, daughter of the junior James M. Hopkinses, came with Johnny's nurse.

The performance will be repeated today.

The following pairs of women golfers made the grade in the qualifying rounds for the Onwentsia women's golf championship yesterday: Mrs. Kent Chandler and Mrs. James A. Cathcart, Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams and Mrs. George F. McLaughlin, Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr. and Mrs. Burford Porter, Mrs. John S. Broeksmit, and Mrs. Mason Phelps. They will play off for the championship cup within the next few weeks.

Wellesley Club Holds Its Annual Picnic Today.

The Chicago Wellesley club and North Shore Wellesley circle will have their annual picnic today on the lovely grounds of Mrs. Bruce MacLeish's estate at 85 Wentworth avenue, Hubbard Woods. All of the Wellesley alumnae members, young and old, always attend this annual party and have a grand time.

Every one brings her own box lunch and cup and a bathing suit. Miss Shirley Smith of Berkeley, Cal., who finished at Wellesley in 1930, is now visiting Miss Jean Markley of Hubbard Woods and will be one of the out of town girls at the picnic.

All of this information comes from the Chicago Wellesley scribe, Mrs. Horton Conrad [Betty Knode]. She and her new husband have just returned from their honeymoon and are settled in the cottage on the Oliver M. Knode estate in Hubbard Woods.

The Geneva Garden club will be hostess to members of nearby garden clubs next Wednesday. Visitors will be taken on a tour of Geneva gardens and then to tea at the Little Traveler. On the same afternoon the Riverside Garden club will meet in the gardens of Mrs. Schuyler Coe. Mrs. Joseph Harrington will talk on "Plants in the Home," and there will be a "botanical names" test.

Garden Club to Meet.

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Louise Farson Clabaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Graves Clabaugh of Winnetka, to Milton Stewart Emrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Emrich of Glencoe, was announced last Saturday at a luncheon at the Clabaugh residence.

Many Things to Distract Child from His Study

Radio Programs Prove Very Tempting.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"And then," he said, "there's the radio, when they want to listen to" [a certain popular broadcast] "instead of doing their homework."

I smiled with a sort of satisfaction, because the speaker was a well known judge who not only has children of his own, but is renowned for certain work he has done with boys and girls.

"Is that all you have to cope with —while history and math and special reports stand waiting?" I asked. "Just that one radio program?"

He looked at me a bit grimly. "No," he said, "the children are now following or trying to . . ." and then he named three or four other radio features, "and the home work has somehow to get done."

That is a little comfort, isn't it, if you belong in the category of parents who have misgivings about their system of managing? Or if you wonder why your children are so easily distracted, and imagine that So and So's children just buckle down like nice little models and submit to homework and practicing and chores in general.

There's a certain kind of rueful satisfaction in knowing that you're not a total loss and that parents you might consider better fitted to put things across with ease and dispatch don't always do it.

There have always been things to distract children's attention from their studies. But now I do believe we have actually more than we've ever had before. Radio, which for a mere turn of the wrist puts on a show, is an ever present distraction. We mustn't blame the children. We've simply got to accept and manage these things, as much with the children's cooperation as possible.

One family I know, with two children, won't have a radio. They think the children's music, reading, studying and manual expression suffer too much. Others limit the radio time to one half hour on school evenings. Others let the children have a couple of favorite programs, and if necessary dovetail their homework to fit the radio schedule. How to do it is an individual problem, but with a firm but intelligent hand it can be done.

Last Call Issued for Boys', Girls' Baseball Letters

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Last call for baseball letters, boys and girls! You know, tomorrow is the day on which I read them and select the winners for our party at Comiskey park Aug. 4, a week from tomorrow.

Isn't it thrilling to know that we're going to see two major league teams play and that one of them, the Yankees, is actually leading in the race for the American league pennant. One boy, in his letter, said he's always wanted a closeup view of the players. He'd like to really see their faces as they play. Well, Mr. Comiskey has promised us box seats for our party, and this boy, if he wins an invitation, will realize his ambition.

We won't miss a thing from where we'll be located. We can watch every move, every play, and we will even see the expressions of the players' faces as they fight with all they've got for victory. Perhaps Babe Ruth will be there, trying to hit one of the home runs for which he's famous. And we'll see Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman . . . Bob Fothergill, who makes a good many of the runs that appear on the White Sox score board . . . Faber or Jones on the pitchers' mound. And it will be interesting to see what Mr. Fonseca's new boys, Charley English and Archie Weis, can do—if they are in the game that day.

You'll see all of this if you write a winning letter, which shouldn't be such a difficult thing to do if you are a real baseball fan. Remember, the letters must be in my office by tomorrow morning at the latest, and I shall select as my guests the hundred boys and girls who write the best ones. They should include your name and address, written plainly, and your age. Just address them to Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

August seems to be the month to "do" the mountains. Families—crowds of them—are leaving town this week and next to take to the high places for a few weeks of intoxicating breathing, glad scrambles above the timber line, and sturdy fights with plucky fish.

Such hilarious retreats into nature mean gigantic appetites. And the job of filling up these astounding vacuums of hunger is no little trick, especially when cook and manager are one and the same with mother and general good fellow, who is more than anxious to climb mountains, bait hooks, and get sunburned with the rest of the family.

Simple, quickly prepared meals, with plenty of each dish served, are the smart solution for a family of climbers. Service of a little more of the energy foods than we would be feeding folks in the lazy heat of the city is the second point. And the third—a bit of knowledge sleuthed from here and there concerning the best methods of cookery to adopt at our new elevation. For the cook in the mountain cuisine—especially in the rather ticklish preparation of cakes and candies, where both cooking temperature and sugar proportions are important—finds that the tried and true recipes brought along from home have a way of disappointing one when baked or boiled above the clouds.

Cakes in particular give trouble. Since recipes differ, it is impossible to give any set formula for changing sea level recipes to use at high altitudes, but certain general rules may be given.

Sugar, first of all, is the most noticeable variant. As the altitude increases, the amount of sugar needed decreases. Experiments show that this change makes ideal cakes without changing the desirable sweet flavor.

Of course, if your vacation spot is only a few hundred feet above sea level, the basic recipe will hold. In fact, until we reach the 3,000 foot level we may continue using the old faithfuls unchanged. But from 3,000 feet above sea level on up, changes must be made. Tests show that for every 1,000 feet we rise above sea level, the sugar should be decreased about 3 1-3 per cent. That is, if the recipe calls for one cup of sugar, which is 16 level tablespoons, 3 1-3 per cent of that would be about half a tablespoon reduction for every 1,000 feet increase in altitude above sea level. Of course, if the basic recipe called for a different proportion of sugar, the amount of reduction would vary accordingly.

Dry and quickly staling cakes have puzzled many high altitude housewives. This is due simply to the fact that evaporation takes place more rapidly the higher we go, drying out our baked stuffs if we have not taken the danger into consideration in the making. Three different things may help—the use of sour milk, the use of cream, and the use of boiling water for part or all of the liquid. If boiling water is used, add it last to the other ingredients, mix in quickly, and turn at once into the pans.

The change in baking temperatures is minor, though still to be considered. Above 3,000 feet, temperatures should be increased slightly [about 2 degrees for every 1,000 foot rise], resulting in slightly shorter baking periods.

A particularly delicious chocolate cake which makes enough for the family and company for several days, and which keeps excellenly, is given below. This recipe may be used successfully at any altitude up to 3,000 feet. Between 3,000 and 5,000 feet, decrease the sugar one tablespoon for each 1,000 foot increase. At 7,500 feet only one and two-thirds cups will be required.

SOUR MILK CHOCOLATE CAKE
[3,000 FEET ALTITUDE.]

2 cups sugar.
1 cup fat.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup sour milk.
4 eggs, separated.
3 cups cake flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon vanilla extract.
½ teaspoon soda.
4 squares unsweetened chocolate.

Cream the sugar and fat. Stir in the well beaten egg yolks and the melted chocolate. Add the milk alternately with the sifted dry ingredients. Stir in the flavoring and beat till smooth. Pour into a buttered pan and bake in a moderately hot [350 degrees] oven about forty-five minutes. The batter will be quite thin.

Augustabernard Designs Novel Jacket Ensemble for Fastidious Clientele

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Women who are dressed by Augustabernard are among the smartest in Europe. Her clients are those ladies who like to be exquisitely dressed, but they don't care to look conspicuous, and the clothes they choose are always on the elegant but quiet order.

One of the most-worn ensembles of this house is the one sketched today. It has a novel kind of jacket, but one that doesn't, for all its unusual cut, look in any way bizarre or conspicuous. The puff-topped sleeves, the fitted back with its sawed-off coat tails, and the drape front of this little summer wrap required the services of a genius to make a successful ensemble. The combination of these features in one jacket might look extraordinary, but as the thing is done in dark blue crêpe marocain the result is smart and sweet.

The puffs on the sleeves are tucked at the top and set into the jacket à la raglan, as shown in the small upper sketch. The fitted back of the wrap has a diagonal seam from the right shoulder to the center of the lower edge, so it looks surpliced, and the shawl collar is tucked across the back of the neck.

Under this jacket is a simple dark blue marocain dress, with revers that cross and become ties around the waistline. In the front is a draped jabot-dickey that is made of white crêpe.

Why Do Fellows Shy Away from Girl's Family?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Why do so many of you young men choose to evade any and all contact with your best girl's family? I wish you'd tell your reasons. The girls mind a good deal that you never accept an invitation that means meeting the family at home. When the girls are willing to exhibit you proudly to Mom, Dad, and whatever other members of the family there are, why do you want to back out?

Afraid a friendship will be construed as something more serious? Afraid of the verdict that will be passed on you by the girl's people? Or what?

Mayba if you expressed yourself openly the girls might get around your objections in a way wholly pleasing to you. Maybe you could make them understand that every boy who spends an evening at their home is not a potential suitor for the girl's hand.

One can understand how an older man might want to keep out of the family ken until he was sure the girl was the one he wanted. How, perhaps, he might have reasons for believing that the girl's people might sway judgment against him. How, indeed, friendly calls from these older men might be seriously construed.

But it isn't of this group complaints are most frequently made by girls. It's boys of 18, 20, and around those ages, the years at which you'd think invitations from a girl to spend an evening at her home would be welcome.

There must be something that scares you young men off. And we'd all like to know what it is!

There's no doubt that the modern necking and petting "entertainment" feature influences the desire to be out and away from prying eyes. But this can't hold good with so large a group of you young people. Some of you have other interests. Some of you have rather old fashioned principles about the sort of thing just named.

Why, then, do you avoid the domestic scene? Too much family around? Too crowded quarters, or what? Tell us—please!

Woman's Club Picnic.

Circus Comes to Park Ridge; Aids Ice Fund

Performance Earns $11.26 for Needy Children.

A circus came to Park Ridge the other day with but one purpose in mind—to raise money for THE TRIBUNE's free ice fund. At the end of a successful performance cheered by grownups as well as children, the promoters found they had $11.26 with which to buy ice for needy tenement youngsters.

The fame of this particular circus has spread throughout the environs of Park Ridge because it has become an annual event. This was the third circus to be presented by a group of the village's youthful citizens each one netting about ten dollars for the ice fund.

In addition to the usual circus antics, there was a program directed by Mrs. E. Stewart that featured song hits by the smaller children, a George Washington play in celebration of the bicentennial, and some Mother Goose stories in pantomime. Rain prevented the usual afternoon parade, but sandwich board signs posted up and down the avenue, brought a crowd to the evening's performance. Lemonade and fudge were served before and after the circus.

The children taking part were Elmer Olson, Dorothy Lyon, Ernest Malkewitz, Lilly Olson, Edward Lyon, Agnes O'Rourke, Bob Lyon, Peggy Thomas, Johnny Thomas, Jane Dragstedt, Brahm Malkewitz, Mary Kay Sweeney, Bob Stewart, Kathleen O'Rourke, Howard Andersen, Helen Stewart, Bill O'Rourke, Ted Clark, and Rita and David O'Rourke.

Another bunch of youngsters braved the hot weather and set up a lemonade stand in River Forest. The stand conducted by Florence Hurley, Catherine Mills and Mary Jane Henriksen, netted the ice fund $3. The youngest contributor was "a baby on his first birthday," whose father sent a dollar and added that he hoped it might help some baby less fortunate.

The ice fund received an encouraging boost, the number of contributors increasing to fourteen for the day. Acknowledgement is made of the following gifts:

$6.60—Mrs. Betty Irvine.
$5—Mrs. Julia A. Ward Clingen, H. G. S., M. L. R., C. Henta.
$2—E. L. Fedensen, Christine A. Guffenhagen.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 26.—[Special.]—The secretary of state, Henry L. Stimson, has returned from a short visit with Mrs. Stimson in their country home on Long Island. The secretary of the treasury, Mr. Mills, and the secretary of the navy, Mr. Adams, also are again in Washington after spending the week-end with their families.

Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director of the Pan-American union, gave a luncheon today in honor of Dr. Spencer Vanpre of the law faculty of the University of San Paulo, Brazil, and Horacio de Mello, director of the San Paulo Association of Commerce, who are in Washington en route from Seattle, where they attended the Rotary club convention, to New York to sail for Brazil next month. The luncheon was served in the Pan-American building annex and in the large company was Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, formerly of Chicago, now president of the George Washington university.

The secretary of war, Patrick J. Hurley, was the guest of honor at luncheon given today by Dr. Fenton Bradford at the Mayflower.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The defeat of the Germans is postponed one day. This was the consensus of the Chicagoland Golden Gloves team last night at the Illinois Athletic club as the boys watched the rainstorm which swept away the international bouts.

"The postponement will help us," Leo Rodak, captain of the United States team, said. "Except for the first three of us, and Duffy Dvonch, our heavyweight, the delay will permit the boys to come into the ring with a maximum of strength. We aren't worrying over the delay and we're just as anxious to step into the ring at Soldiers' field and prove we still are the best boxers in the world."

Meet Germans.

After the bouts were definitely postponed, Coach Johnny Behr billeted his lads at the Illinois Athletic club. Two of them, George Goodman and Johnny Phagan, were granted permission to spend the night at home. All, however, will report at the club in the morning. The others visited the Germania club to meet their opponents from the fatherland. This social call originally had been scheduled after the fights, but since the German boys expected to leave Chicago tonight before midnight, the dinner was held last night.

The Golden Gloves team, which includes the entire squad of 18 which broke camp yesterday morning at Lake Wawasee, Ind., still believes it is superior to the German champions. From Johnny Baltzer, the flyweight, to Dvonch, the heavyweight, the boys are counting on at least five victories, enough to insure the international title.

Favor to Rothier.

Henry Rothier, the lightweight, who has been in America only four years, and who has been dreaming of fighting a German lad as his own bit of retaliation for the invasion of Belgium, his native land, by the Germans, was outspoken in his belief that the Golden Gloves team would conquer. Incidentally, Henry weighed in two pounds under the weight limit of 135 pounds, and this represents his lowest in months. For the New York fights Henry weighed 136 pounds. Personally he looked on the postponement as a special favor since he will not be forced to weigh again today.

The program originally planned for last night remains the same for tonight. The same preliminary bouts will be held and several of these boxers, in addition to the boys of the Golden Gloves squad, also were quartered last night at the I. A. C. Among them was Billy Miller of the Milwaukee Eagles club, who will meet Laddie Tonelli, a 135 pounder.

May Is Cheer Leader.

Frankie May and George Haberski, featherweights, who were displaced on the American team when Rodak was moved up to the 126 pound class, were the cheer leaders last night. Frankie May, one of Chicago's best boxers, was rooting wholeheartedly for Rodak to win his bout.

"If Leo can't lick a German for us," Frankie said, "I'll jump into the ring myself." Frankie and Haberski are matched in one of the preliminary fights and this, judging by the workouts at Wawasee, will be one of the best attractions tonight.

W-G-N Will Give Radio Audience Ringside Report

The radio broadcast of the international Golden Gloves bouts by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station, W-G-N, will start tonight at 9:30 o'clock. Quin Ryan, chief announcer, will be at the ringside and will give a description of the ceremonies before the international fights.

Referees Dave Barry and Phil Collins, and Fred Gardner, member of the Illinois athletic commission, will assist in broadcasting the program. They will give a blow by blow account of the title fights, which will start immediately after the six preliminaries.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS STATE PARI-MUTUEL LAW

Senator Monroe's Jail Sentence Affirmed.

Springfield, Ill., July 26.—[Special.]—The Illinois law authorizing pari-mutuel betting at horse racing is constitutional, the state Supreme court held today in a recess opinion.

In its finding the court affirms the punishment imposed upon State Senator James O. Monroe of Collinsville, who openly violated the law by conducting a race without license to get a test case. Monroe was sentenced to jail for four days by the trial court.

Not All Gambling.

In its finding the Supreme court held that the pari-mutuel system does not come within the constitutional inhibition as to lotteries.

"While the amount of money to be divided is indefinite as to dollars and cents," the court says, "it is definite in the amount of money to be divided on stakes to the winning horses, less a given percentage to the manager. The persons among whom the money is to be divided are not uncertain, as they are those who bet on the winning horse. The winning horse is not determined by chance alone, but the condition, speed, and endurance of the horse, aided by the skill and management of the rider or driver."

Dog Racing Different.

The court also holds that the act is not contrary to the public policy of the state of Illinois.

The Lager law provides pari-mutuel betting is legal only until sundown, prohibiting pari-mutuel betting on dog races, which generally are held at night. In holding that alleged discrimination against dog races does not invalidate the act, the Supreme court said: "There is a great deal of difference between dog racing and horse racing. In dog racing the dogs are turned loose on the race track, without human management or guidance."

INDIANA LEGALIZES BETS

Indianapolis, Ind., July 26.—[Special.]—Legalization of betting in Indiana on all kinds of racing, including the annual 500-mile automobile classic, was voted today by the house of representatives when it passed the Kenney pari-mutuel machine bill, 54 to 32.

The bill provides pari-mutuel betting for a fee of $5,000 on all types of racing within 25 miles of a city having a population of 100,000. If the race is held near cities having less than 100,000 population, the license fee shall be $1,500 a day.

It also imposes a 10 per cent tax on admissions and permits the racing association or corporation to retain 8 per cent of the total receipts from the betting. If there is no gambling, the license fee will not be imposed.

Boston Lambs Become Raging Wolves; Gobble Up Sox, 6-1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The large feast the White Sox had hoped to enjoy yesterday didn't materialize. Instead they did the serving and the eighth place Boston Hose gobbled up everything in sight. They took choice bites out of Vic Frazier as well as youthful Paul Gregory and in that way promoted themselves to a soft 6 to 1 victory in the opener of a four game series.

One of the ringleaders in the suffering inflicted on the Pale Hose was Johnny Welch, who will be remembered as the tall right hander who for several years endeavored to make himself useful to the Cubs. The Boston chiefs recently salvaged Welch from the International league, where the Cubs had deposited him a couple of months ago, and he marked his debut as an American leaguer with a fairly swell variety of pitching as well as some base hits that started his new found mates on two of their three scoring sprees.

Remember Mr. Jolley?

Another who overexerted himself in the anti-Chicago movement was Smead Jolley, a Pale Hose alumnus. Jolley, before being retired as a reward for his day's services, reeled off two doubles and a single in four attempts. The single came first and did no harm, so that's probably what made him decide to get on a two base basis. He doubled to drive in the last of two runs which inaugurated the scoring in the third. He doubled again in the fifth to send one man home and put himself in position to score. This wallop knocked Frasier right out of his job.

Gregory then appeared for a spell, two runs being the outcome, and for the last couple of innings Archie Wise, fresh from Hutchinson, Kas., was permitted to show himself. He was at least good enough to prevent any scoring.

Welch singled to right to open the third and Frasier encountered nothing but trouble from this point until he was removed. Welch hustled down to second on Olson's sacrifice and home on a single past Hayes by Oliver. The latter died stealing, which was a good thing in view of subsequent happenings. Johnson followed with a triple to center. Jolley, who had singled to no avail in the second, then bumped a two bagger to right to score Johnson. A pass to Alexander was next, but English came up with Pickering's grounder and relieved Frasier's distress for the time being.

Appling Kicks One Away.

Appling booted Oliver's roller to open the fifth and that was all that was needed to put Frasier completely on the bum. Johnson laced a single to right and Oliver tore for third. Jolley let go with another two bagger to right, Oliver scoring. Frasier departed and Gregory assumed the burden. Alexander was purposely walked. Pickering banged a line drive that Gregory had to catch in self-defense. He whipped it to third and Umpire Hildebrand was kind enough to call Johnson out. Warstler's single

In the Wake of the News

RANDOM THOUGHTS.

WHEN one has been assigned to one sport or one subject for two weeks he is likely to become self-centered on that particular phase of athletic activity. It is especially acute when one comes into personal contact and acquaintanceship with the participants. Such was the position of The Wake during preparation of Chicagoland Golden Gloves boxers for their international bouts against the German champions.

So we tried to analyze the effect—whether it was advantageous or disadvantageous to a column intended to present contributions of Helpers and reflect the thought of its conductor. As a change of environment often is beneficial, we now find keen desire for closer scrutiny of things we have missed or minimized during the period.

For instance, there are the Cubs still fighting for the National league pennant against the pacemaking Pirates with second place position of Hornsby's men threatened by Braves, Phils and Cardinals. We observe with satisfaction the Yankee tennis triumph over the Germans and wonder how they will fare against the Davis cup defending French with Shields evidently off form. We sorrow in the defeat of the great Equipoise at Arlington Park while looking forward to running of the Matron stakes this afternoon and the Futurity Saturday.

So, Helpers and readers, here's back to normal with your quips and our chips.

HEMSLEY'S BAT LEADS MALONE TO 10TH VICTORY

Cuyler Shakes Off Batting Slump.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 26.—Pat Malone, aided nobly by a coterie of the younger Cubs, licked the Boston Braves this afternoon, 7 to 2, and enabled the Chicago outfit to gain half a game on the Pirates.

The black knight pitched a calm and steady masterpiece consisting of five hits—a homer by Berger in the fourth, an infield single by Hargrave in the fifth, singles by Leach and Berger in the sixth and a single by Shires in the ninth. It was Pat's tenth victory of the year and kept clean the Cub slate in Boston, the Chicagoans having won three games to no defeats in this cool and affable port so far this season.

Rolly Hemsley, who crashed back into baseball Sunday with a homer and a double carried on today by rapping out three singles and a double in four times at bat. The young man led off innings with the three singles and scored after each. He drove in the Cubs' sixth run with his fourth hit, the double. Rolly also stole a base.

Mr. Demaree in Debut.

Another youngster, Billy Herman, was runnerup to Hemsley in the cheering offensive. Bill made two singles and a double. His double and his second single both drove in Hemsley after two were out.

Woody English, until this morning billed as an invalid, who would be out for a week, was back at his old station at third, while Jurges continued at short, the position to which he was shifted Sunday when English was withdrawn. Frank Demaree, young reputed slugger from Sacramento, made his first start. He seemed a little nervous at bat, but handled his one chance in right field, a hard one, with great dexterity.

Herman led off the first inning with a single and Stephenson led off the second with a smack of the same caliber, but both efforts were nullified by double plays.

Berger Hits a Homer.

The third likewise started with a single, this one by Hemsley. There was no double play on this occasion. Instead there was a double along the left field foul line by Jurges on which Hemsley stopped at third. The situation became rather discouraging when Brandt threw out Malone and Herman fouled to Shires, but at this juncture Brandt was kind enough to let loose a wild pitch, Hemsley scoring and Jurges taking third.

English walked, then went down to second. Hargrave held the ball and had Jurges picked off third, but his throw to Moore hit Jurges, a target of parts. Before the bounding baseball could be reclaimed, both Jurges and English were across the plate. Cuyler then flied to Berger.

The first hit off Malone was Berger's homer, an immense affair which went clear over the left field bleachers in the fourth. The next two batters popped to Herman.

Hemsley Again.

A single, a sacrifice, a double and another single netted the Cubs only one run in the fifth. Hemsley pushed off with the second of his series of inning starting singles and took second on Jurges' sacrifice. Rolly went to third on Malone's long fly and trotted home on Herman's double to center. English scratched a single off Shires' glove and Herman stopped at third. Cuyler flied to Worthington.

The Braves stirred up a little excitement in the sixth when Leach and Berger knocked successive singles with one out. But Worthington fanned and Shires flied to Stevie.

The Hemsley-Herman combination functioned again in the seventh. For the third time in the game Hemsley led off with a single to center. He went to second on Jurges' sacrifice and stole third while Malone was striking out. Herman singled to center, scoring Hemsley; then Bill stole second, but died there when English was called out on strikes.

Cuyler got the eighth inning under

Thereby Ruining Backers of Chicago Horse.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Dark Hope, a 3 year old from Maryland, came along at Arlington Park yesterday and made things most unhappy for a lot of Chicago racegoers.

The Chicagoans had journeyed to the scene of the turf activities to wager with great confidence on Evergold from Dick and Pat Nash's Shandon Farm stable in the $2,500 added Glencoe sweepstakes. Evergold in recent races seemed to have graduated from a selling plater into one of the great 3 year olds of the year.

How can money be made any faster or any easier than to wager on Evergold? Chicagoans asked themselves.

Count Chicks Too Early.

They were a happy lot as they awaited the trip to the payoff windows. They worried a little when Springsteel took an early lead and continued to make the pace down the back stretch. But they began to cheer when Evergold moved up on the last turn and headed Springsteel.

They were ready to run for the payoff windows. "What a grand horse is Evergold," they began to chant.

Then came Dark Hope with Jockey Remillard riding like a wild man. Evergold answered the challenge once. Still Dark Hope kept coming. An instant later he leaped to the lead. That finished Evergold, for Woolf, who had ridden a waiting race early, did not have enough left to make Evergold rally again. Springsteel finished four lengths back of the two leaders, and bringing up the rear was Rehoboth, which also was last in the Classic.

Dark Hope ran a fast mile and a furlong in 1:50 1-5 to conquer Evergold. In the mutuels betting he was a long shot, paying $20.98 to win. Evergold must win a little more consistently to be rated with the top notch 3 year olds.

Screech Wins Bob o'Link.

There were two other fine races on the program. The Bob o'Link purse at 5 furlongs engaged some of the fleetest 2 year old fillies in training.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney's pair of Screech and Wary took no chances of the big end of the purse going elsewhere. They finished first and third, with Timorous, another eastern colt, splitting them to gather in second money.

George D. Widener's Vespa showed her usual early speed and held the lead until the run down the stretch started. Then she shortened her strides and in the last furlong Screech, Timorous, and Wary ran past her.

Screech was ridden by Coucci. The entry paid $8.10 to win, $3.20 to place, and $4.42 to show. Timorous was at $3.44 to place and $3.12 to show.

Bradley Discard Is Victor.

Screech had frequently been regarded as a good thing at Arlington, but she did not get into a running mood until they sent her after the Bob o'Link. She ran the five furlongs in :59 2-5, which was less than a second slower than the track record.

A band of second flight 3 year olds fought it out in the fourth race at a mile. Bonnie Maureen, just recently discarded by the Edward R. Bradley stable, won it by a length from On Sir. Watch Him, slow to get into stride, and away rather badly, wound up in third place. It was Bonnie Maureen's second victory in three starts, and she led all the way. After she ran the first six furlongs in 1:09 3-5 all she had to do was coast on home.

A plunge on Watch Him made him the favorite, and Bonny Maureen, which is a daughter of North Star III.-Batter Cake, paid off at better than 3 to 1. She was ridden by T. P. Martin, who is becoming one of the idols of the crowds at Arlington.

Purple Martin Enjoys Life in Upper Michigan

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Blaney, Mich., July 26.—Some of the purple martins in Chicagoland are known to leave their free apartments and start for the south early in the season, but the martins in the upper peninsula of Michigan apparently like this summer vacationland so much that they stay until the last migration call is made. Dr. Karl C. Christopherson, formerly of Sault Ste. Marie, Michi, and now the resident naturalist here has given us martin records which show that these interesting birds stay quite late in the north country as compared to the records of Chicagoland bird fans who have reported how early their martin colonies leave for parts unknown.

Here we have seen a large martin colony engaged in feeding young birds and getting them into the air. The other morning we found a martin chick that had fallen from the nesting box. When we went over to see if the little fellow was hurt the entire colony of 30 or 35 birds took to the air, swept around in a low circle and chattered and scolded us in great style. We left the martin chick on the ground.

As soon as we had seen this colony we wondered when martins leave this part of the upper peninsula for the south. Dr. Christopherson, an amateur ornithologist who has devoted many years to the study of bird life around the great lakes region, immediately dug into his records to show that these birds sometimes delay their departure for South America until Sept. 1. Chicagoland bird fans who keep a record of their martin arrivals and departures will be interested in this list of dates on birds nearly 400 miles north of Chicago.

Ten Named for Matron Stake at Arlington

Ten fillies and mares were named overnight for the renewal of the Matron stakes at a mile and a furlong, which is the big mid-week stake offering at Arlington Park this afternoon.

Should all ten go to the post the Matron will have a gross value of $11,750. Mrs. John Hertz has won the two previous runnings of the Matron with Valenciennes and Risque. She is represented in today's race by Risque, French Duchess, and Seven Veils.

Despite Risque's victory last year she did not rule as the favorite for the Matron last night. Tred Avon and Evening were first choices at 5 to 2.

The field for the Matron in the order of post positions:

Horse.	Weight.	Jockey.	Prob. odds.
Tred Avon	122	J. Burke	5 to 2

Clyde Phillips, trainer of William Zeigler's stable, arrived yesterday from New York with Puchero, an intended starter in the Arlington Futurity Saturday. The juvenile arrived in splendid condition and Trainer Phillips is certain he will give a good account of himself against Crowning Glory, Ladysman, and the other good 2 year olds.

That William R. Coe will not depend entirely upon Ladysman for capable representation in the Futurity was indicated yesterday when his Orphean and Pompoleon, working together, went three-quarters of a mile over a good track in 1:13 4-5. The colts had good speed from the start, going the quarter in :23 4-5, the half in :45 4-5, and the five-eighths in :59 4-5, being well in hand during the final quarter of the performance.

Crowning Glory, likely favorite for the Futurity, due to his victory in the Hyde Park stakes, was asked for an easy trial at six furlongs by Trainer James W. Healy. The son of Black Tony and Frizour went along under stout restraint, going the quarter in :24 1-5, the half in :49 3-5, and the three-quarters in 1:18 3-5. He was never allowed to have his head.

COAST COLLEGES VOTE TO PERMIT GRID BROADCASTS

Pasadena, Cal., July 26.—(AP)—The athletic heads of the colleges of the Pacific Coast conference voted today to continue the permission of radio broadcasting of football games through 1932.

The decision was made at a meeting here in which representatives from the Radio Corporation of America offered to devote a portion of the broadcasting period to advertising of conference gridiron games prior to the dates they are played.

Pay Boxers, but Suspend Ruggirello in New Jersey

Trenton, N. J., July 26.—[Special.]—Mickey Walker and Salvatore Ruggirello, principals in last night's fight which ended in Ruggirello being counted out in the first round, will receive their purses which were held up following the engagement. The New Jersey state athletic commission, however, suspended Ruggirello for 30 days for "unsatisfactory performance."

Pacer Breaks Canada Mark for 2 Year Olds

Buffalo, N. Y., July 26.—(AP)—Rain halted Grand Circuit racing at Fort Erie today after the first heat in the fifth event. The 2:13 trot and a trotting event for 3 year olds were unfinished and were added to the closing day's card tomorrow.

Four close finishes and fast time marked the events run off today. Calumet Dubuque, a 2 year old pacer, making a first appearance in competition, stepped the fastest mile ever paced by a 2 year old in Canada. Driven by C. E. Pitman, the colt turned the first heat in 2:05 1-5. Summaries:

GOLDEN GLOVES FIGHTS TONIGHT; DEFERRED BY RAIN

great rapidity in a dash to place their stylish blues under shelter. There were about a thousand head of various callings essential to the production of a large fight show congregated under the concrete structure for the next hour waiting for transportation across Grant park.

Deluge of Calls.

The switchboards of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, under whose auspices the International Golden Gloves fights have become an annual event, were swamped with calls from customers wishing to know whether the fights were on or off, and Arch Ward, the sports editor, who is on the way to become the Tex Rickard of the amateurs, was snapped off three times as he tried to phone the office to announce the postponement.

Aside from the fact that the original weighing-in will carry over until the fights are held, the program will be carried out according to the original plan. This calls for a picturesque march of the German squad down the aisle to the ring attended by six German war veterans in uniform, to the strains of a popular German air played by Maxham's band. They will stand at attention in the ring while the Americans execute a similar entrance, attired in their bright Golden Gloves bath robes, escorted by six veterans from the Medill post of the American Legion, with the band playing Sousa's "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Flyweights First in Ring.

The searchlight then will play on the northerly side of the field while details of German and American veterans run their respective colors up the masts, in that order. The two teams, all but the flyweights, Werner Spannagel, the German, and Johnny Baltzer, the American, will then file out again, leaving their smallest men to fight it out in the opening three rounder of the international program.

There was an enthusiastic rush of customers at the two ticket offices, one in the Tribune public service bureau, 1 South Dearborn street, the other in the Tribune Tower, all yesterday. The advance sale of reserved seats was so brisk that a prediction of an attendance of between 40,000 and 50,000 seemed justifiable at that time. All tickets sold in advance, of course, will be honored this evening.

Yesterday's late rush for seats suggested that the postponement would increase the attendance. Tickets still are available and are priced at 55 cents, $1.10, $2.20 and $3.30. Inasmuch as the net profits will be given to the Olympic committee, the wind that blew the fights out of the amphitheater was not so ill but that it might have been iller.

Will Miss Olympic Parade.

The police are baffled and Leonhard Mandlar, the coach of the German fighters, finds himself in a grave predicament. Herr Mandlar is president or vice president of many European boxing associations, including the Irish, the Dutch and the Scandinavian, with an official badge for each of these offices. Herr Mandlar, with all his badges up, cannot find room for them all on the front of his coat and is compelled to pin them on his back and the legs of his pants. Compared to Herr Mandlar, the prince of Wales in full dress uniform, has practically no badges worth mentioning.

Now, owing to the postponement of the fights, those members of the German fighting team who are to box in the Olympic games, will arrive too late for the opening parade on Saturday and Herr Mandlar will miss the quadrennial opportunity to march in all his badges.

Boxers Weigh In.

The German fighters weighed in at 3 p. m. at the Germania club, where they had trained for more than a week as the guests of the members, but, of course, took no strenuous exercise yesterday. They were pronounced fit and eager for their fights by Leonhard Mandlar, their coach, and soon after the weighing they returned to the Ambassador hotel, their living quarters during the sojourn in Chicago.

The Chicagoland squad arrived from its camp at Wawasee in the afternoon and went to the Illinois Athletic club where they stepped on the scales before the official weighers. That ceremony over, they also relaxed.

The American fighters are the final winners in a field of more than 3,000 ambitious young punchers who began fighting toward this objective nearly six months ago. The Germans were selected from an original field estimated at 45,000 boxers of all degrees and classes who make up the membership of the numerous boxing clubs in all sections of Germany.

One of World's Best Teams.

Each club selected its champions in the first step of the tournament and down to a final round in Berlin and subsequent international fights to test the competition gradually narrowed the winners further. Thus the Germans are regarded as the most representative team that ever took the ring under national colors, and moreover they are generally acknowledged to be one of the best teams in the world.

The rewards for which both squads will fight are in dramatic contrast to the pay of about $1,500,000 which Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey received for their ten rounds of action in the same arena in the boom times of 1927. Of that amount, Tunney received about $1,000,000 and Dempsey about $500,000. Each winner in the International Golden Gloves bouts will receive a gold belt set with a diamond and with the colors of the two republics, the United States and Germany, arranged in a design surrounding the central figures. The losers receive belts of similar design, lacking the diamond.

No fighter on either team had caught so much as a glimpse of his opponent or any other member of the opposing team until last night. Although scouts had looked over both teams at their training, neither Mandlar, the German coach, nor Johnny Behr, the American team foreman, took a peek at the fighters his men were asked to beat.

Mandlar saw the Americans for the first time when he went to their weighing-in ceremonies. He merely stood at the scales, checking the weights against the names and looking the boys over, but was not introduced to them and did not address them. No representative of the American squad troubled to scrutinize the scales when the Germans weighed.

How They Weighed.

All the German fighters weighed light, well under the respective class limits. The weights for both squads were as follows:

CHICAGO.		GERMANY.
	FLYWEIGHT.
Johnny Baltzer	105½ lbs.	Werner Spannagel, 112.
	BANTAMWEIGHT.
George Goodman	115 lbs.	Hans Ziglarski, 117.
	FEATHERWEIGHT.
Leo Rodak	123 lbs.	Josef Schleinkofer, 125¼.
	LIGHTWEIGHT.
Henry Rothler	133 lbs.	Franz Kartz, 132½.
	WELTERWEIGHT.
Johnny Phagan	145 lbs.	Erie Kampe, 145½.
	MIDDLEWEIGHT.
Tony Sutton	159 lbs.	Hans Bernloehr, 157¼.
	LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT.
Adolph Winter	171½ lbs.	Hans Berger, 169½.
	HEAVYWEIGHT.
Duffy Dvonch	185 lbs.	Heinrich Kohlhaas, 204.

Dvonch a Gallery of Art.

Mandlar seemed charmed by the angels, cornucopias, comic strips, tombstones and oriental dancers with which the tattoo artists of the Asiatic station of the United States navy had transformed Dvonch, the American heavyweight, into a living gallery of art.

The only discordant note in the proceedings was squawked by Herr Mandlar when he balked at his previous agreement to bring his fighters into the ring in their gay but rather too stuffy flannel uniforms of blue with the German Black Eagle on a gold shield on the breast pocket. It might spoil the picture to eliminate the uniforms, he said, but he was more interested in fighting than in theatricals. He finally decided that as a concession to the spectacular he would permit his men to wear new white training uniforms, consisting of white "heater" pants and white jacket, unrelieved by any piping, epaulets or colored monograms.

Mike Kamis, who was to have met Laddie Tonelli in the lightweight preliminary fight, turned up with a broken bone in his left hand and was withdrawn although he said he had fought twice this week with the injury and wished to go on. Bill Miller of Milwaukee, was named in his place.

The preliminaries will begin at 8 p. m. with a three rounder between two American junior varsity flyweights, Lennie Cohen and Oscar O'Hanion. The flag raising and other ceremonies will precede the first of the international fights about 9:30 p. m.

way with a double to right. He held on while Stevie was being thrown out, went to third while the same thing happened to Demaree, and scored on Hemsley's fourth hit, a double to left.

Shires made the fifth hit off Malone to start the ninth, took second and third without a play, while two batsmen were being retired, and scored when Cuyler muffed Hargrave's fly. Akers batted for Cunningham and flied to Cuyler.

ROOT AND BUSH TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 26.—The Cubs and Braves tomorrow afternoon will play the only double header scheduled for the Cubs' current eastern trip. Bush and Root will oppose Brown and Betts.

The 1932 Cubs-Braves series now stands seven wins for the Cubs to three for the Braves. The Braves won their three at Wrigley field.

Cuyler, who was a complete bust in the first three games of the recent Pittsburgh series and during his first three times at bat, finished up handsomely today, making a double in the eighth and a triple in the ninth.

In recent games the Boston crowd, or parts of it, have been giving the Great Shires the needles. Which isn't nice, for Art has been trying hard here and doing none of his old time popping off.

Burleigh Grimes has advised the Cubs by wire that he is not suffering from appendicitis as per the announcement of Manager Hornsby. Just old fashioned misery in the stomach, Burleigh says. Hornsby's pitching plans for the current trip do not anticipate Burleigh's joining up, however.

Fans here abouts are interested in Warneke. They have been calling up to inquire when Lon is to go after number 16. The answer is Thursday.

Germans Beat Chicago—at Banquet Table

BY HEINZ REICHMANN.

[German Sports Writer in Chicago to Cover International Golden Gloves Bouts.]

The Germans amateur boxers beat the Chicagoans 8 to 2 last night but not at Soldiers' field. It was at the Germania club where the visitors met their opponents at a friendly dinner and out ate them.

They ate eight chickens while the Golden Glovers ate only two. Considering the popular songs both teams were singing it was an even score. The rain could not spoil this party which lasted only half an hour, but showed that all those sixteen boys are every inch sportsmen. They know that today they will be engaged in one of the hardest and most furious battles boxing history has ever seen, but still they did not act like opponents but like friends.

The postponement of the fights did not affect the German boys a bit. They were just trying out their fighting trunks in Coach Mandlar's room, and the coach had just told them to be ready at 7:30 for the bus which would take them down to Solders' field, when the rain started pouring down.

"O. K. with us," said the German boys. "We are used to postponements. We had to postpone our last event, the final Olympic tryouts in Germany, too."

The only boy who was disappointed was Heinrich Kohlhaas.

"At home a whole town is waiting for news about my fight. My parents will be up all night waiting for a cable, and all they will get is 'Postponed.'"

The German boys will leave for Los Angeles immediately after the bouts tonight.

CHICAGO WOMAN IN 3RD ROUND OF CANADIAN TENNIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, July 28.—[Special.]—Helen Fulton, Chicago's lone entry in the Canadian tennis championship tournament, fought her way into the third round as a result of decisive victories in the first and second rounds today. Miss Fulton holds the Chicago city title and is co-holder of the western doubles championship.

Her first victim was Miss E. Templeton of Ottawa, who was set aside, 6-1, 6-1. In the second round the Chicago girl met Miss Paradi, also of Ottawa, who lost, 6-1, 6-2.

Lefty Gomez Goes to Court—He's Studying Law

Cleveland, O., July 26.—(AP)—Vernon [Lefty] Gomez, New York Yankee pitching star, sat beside Chief Justice Griffin of the Municipal court today and listened to several cases being tried. Gomez spends part of the time he isn't baffling opposing American league batters reading law.

Pirates Divide with Giants; Slip Half Game

New York, July 26.—(AP)—The sixth place Giants won the first game of today's double header from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 3, and carried the National league leaders to 10 innings in the second before losing, 7 to 5. The Pirates lost half a game in the National league race by dividing the bill.

Excellent relief pitching by Leon Chagnon, Adam Comorosky's batting and Earl Grace's pinch single with the bases loaded and two out in the tenth decided the second encounter. Comorosky made five straight hits in the second game after hitting a homer and two singles in the first. The first of Bill Terry's two homers was the deciding hit in the opening game. It brought in three tallies. Scores:

Daglia Assigned Job of Defeating Red Sox Today

Pete Daglia will be summoned for pitching services in the second of the series between the White Sox and Red Sox today. The Boston picks rests between Bob Kline or Larry Boerner.

Marty McManus yesterday discovered the value of being a manager. A gang of his friends drifted over from the west side and presented their fellow townsman with a token in the shape of box of silver.

Fonseca gave his batting arrangement another shake. He made Blue and Appling change places.

Welch caromed a single off Appling's glove in the sixth for his third hit and this brought on another two run rally. Olson contributed a single to center. Oliver slammed a hard drive past Blue for two bases and this gave both Welch and Olson time to get around to the plate. Gregory then waded through the heavy part of the Red Hose batting order without a slip. Johnson was seated on a fly to Funk. Jolley was cheated out of something when Blue snared a whistling grounder and stepped on the bag. Alexander tapped in front of the plate and was so long getting his large self under way that Grube had time to pick up the ball and tag him.

Sox Finally Score in Seventh.

After getting nowhere on seven hits in six innings, the domestic Sox finally managed to harvest a run on one hit in the seventh. Kress led off with a two bagger to the left field corner. He worked his way over to third on English's infield out. Grube bounced to Pickering and Kress could have been tossed out at the plate but the enemy third sacker preferred to get the runner going to first. There was only one safe hit off Welch in the two remaining innings. Kress produced it after two were gone in the ninth and the ex-Cub promptly subdued Charley English who, in his first three major league games, had ripped off eight hits in sixteen attempts.

Jim Elliott went the distance for the Phils, and although yielding ten hits, was never in danger. Chuck Klein hit his 29th home run of the season off Hilcher in the eighth inning.

Jane Weiller Beaten, 2 Up, in First Round

Mrs. J. W. Taylor, six times club champion at Evanston, defeated Miss Jane Weiller, the champion, 2 up, yesterday in the first round of match play in the Chicago Women's district golf tournament at Riverside.

Miss Weiller shot a medal of 43—40—83, one less than Mrs. Taylor, but the Evanston champion won holes where they did the most good. Miss Weiller was wild at the start and never was in the lead. Other favorites advanced into the second round.

Mrs. Melvin Jones of Lincolnshire won her match with Miss Virginia Ingram of Sunset Ridge, 2 and 1; June Beebe, Olympia Fields, defeated Mrs. Jules Legrand, Mission Hills, 7 and 6; Roberta Mackay, Glen Oak, won 4 and 3, from Jane Gage, La Grange; Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt, Northmoor, defeated Miss Marge Roesslein, Cog Hill, 3 and 2; Miss Rena Nelson, Exmoor, defeated Mrs. A. R. Sheill, Gen Oak, 2 and 1; Miss Jean Armstrong, Indian Hill, won, 2 and 1, from Miss Helen Mac Morran, Indian Hill, and Mrs. H. W. Tupper, Olympia Fields defeated Mrs. Perry Fiske, DeKalb, 3 and 2.

Gallery Follows Champion.

The battle between Mrs. Taylor and Miss Weiller drew most of the interest of the gallery. Miss Weiller was unsteady at the start, getting into the woods on the 2d and 3d. At the 4th she dropped a four foot putt for a birdie, but trapped herself at the 5th and lost it. A ten foot putt went in for a birdie at the 6th and she won the 7th with a par 3 while Mrs. Taylor was overshooting the green. This squared the match but from there on Mrs. Taylor had no trouble. A trap lost the 8th for Jane and she shot into the river at the 9th. The Evanston champion turned 2 up.

Jane overshot the 10th into a trap and then three putted. Mrs. Taylor made it 4 up at the 11th by sinking a short one for a birdie. Jane braced here and won the 12th and 13th, while her opponent was getting the range with her irons.

Mrs. Taylor Falters.

Both shot birdies at the 14th, and Mrs. Taylor nearly missed her tee shot at the 15th, cutting her lead to 1 up. She took the 16th when Jane overshot and lost the 17th by shooting into the creek. At the 18th both were on in 1, but Mrs. Taylor ran in a 15 footer for a birdie and all chance for the champion faded. The cards:

Mrs. Taylor—Out	455	545	555	—43
Miss Weiller—Out	466	453	366	—43
Mrs. Taylor—In	644	546	462	—41—84
Miss Weiller—In	753	445	543	—40—83

Today's pairings for the second round:
Mrs. Taylor and Miss Beebe.
Mrs. Jones and Miss Armstrong.
Miss Nelson and Mrs. Reinhardt.
Miss Mackay and Mrs. Tupper.

Results in the first flight:
Mrs. S. L. Schwarz, Northmoor, defeated Mrs. Lillian M. Zoch, Tam o' Shanter, by default.

FASHION TRADES BUILDING GOES TO BONDHOLDERS

Title Is Taken by a New Corporation.

BY AL CHASE.

Adoption of a plan of reorganization of the nineteen story Fashion Trades building first mortgage leasehold bond issue was announced yesterday by S. W. Straus & Co. A step in this refinancing of the building, which is at 318 West Adams street, was taken when title to the leasehold estate and building was conveyed by the Fashion Trades Building corporation to the recently formed Style Center Building corporation. The latter has been organized and authorized to issue to the depositing bondholders new 5 per cent cumulative income first mortgage sinking fund bonds for 100 per cent of the indebtedness, plus 5 per cent past due interest.

N. H. OGLESBEE. [Moffett-Russell Photo.]

The bonds will pay 5 per cent interest if it's earned. After May 1, 1934, failure to pay interest of at least 3 per cent for two consecutive years will constitute a default, subject to application of specified previous excess payments of interest. Provision is made to retire the bonds by a sinking fund, which will consist of 50 per cent of the earnings of the property after payment of ground rent, taxes, interest, and other prior charges.

The depositing first mortgage bondholders also will receive 25 per cent of the equity in the property in the form of trust certificates for common stock of the new company, distributed at the rate of one share of stock for each $1,000 of bonds deposited.

Recognize Equity Owners.

Recognition also is given to the equity interests by issuing to them 75 per cent of the remaining common stock, subject to recapture for the first mortgage bondholders should the issue be unable to earn its new requirements.

In this event the depositing bondholders would own 100 per cent of the common stock without the necessity of further proceedings. A major portion of the expenses of reorganization will be borne by the present equity owners, Mr. Oglesbee states.

In accordance with the reorganization plan, Robert E. Straus, nominee of the bondholders' committee, purchased the property on July 19, 1932, for the bondholders who deposited with the committee. The purchase price was $135,000.

Ninety-three per cent of the bondholders have deposited their securities. In order to give the balance a final opportunity to get the full benefits of the reorganization plan it was announced yesterday that the committee will accept bonds for deposit until Aug. 8.

Lists Advantages.

Mr. Oglesbee listed the advantage of the reorganization plan as follows: "1. The new bonds will constitute a first mortgage on the property; 2. The principal amount of the investment of the bondholders is not reduced; 3. The major portion of the expenses of reorganization is borne by outside interests; 4. Depositors will receive a portion of the equity; 5. No prior lien will be placed against the building; 6. The difficulties of reorganizing a leasehold project have been met and solved promptly, economically, and successfully."

One important reason for the successful outcome of reorganization negotiations was that the junior interests coöperated with the bondholders' committee, Mr. Oglesbee stated.

The Fashion Trades building occupies a 50x198 site, completed in 1928. The original bond issue, made in 1927, was $900,000, paid down to $882,000. The interest rate was 6¼ per cent. It is occupied chiefly by firms in the garment and related trades. The ninety-nine year lease dates from May 1, 1926.

U. S. STEEL O K'S ITS DIVIDEND ON PREFERRED

Directors Draw on the Surplus.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Directors of the United States Steel corporation yesterday declared the regular $1.75 per share dividend on that corporation's preferred stock. This dividend is payable on Aug. 30, to stockholders whose names are on the record books at the close of business on Aug. 1.

Yesterday's action by the directors preserves the unbroken record of payments on the senior issue dating from the second quarter of 1901 when the corporation was organized.

Prior to the meeting opinion was pretty evenly divided as to whether the directors would declare the dividend. In the first quarter of this year U. S. Steel had reported a final deficit of $19,523,468 after preferred payments. In the second quarter operations fell to new low levels, and to date there has been no improvement in the steel business, although prospects for fall are somewhat better.

Payment of the preferred dividend, therefore, is considered a gesture of confidence in the future on the part of steel directors.

Reports Net Loss.

The corporation reported for the June quarter a net loss of $20,452,173, before preferred dividends, compared with $13,218,549 in the preceding q rter, making net loss for the first half year, before preferred dividends, of $33,670,722. This compares with net profit, including $7,160,966 of special income, of $14,156,412 for the first half of last year. A statement issued after the meeting said:

"As shown by the quarterly statement the results from all operations, after allowance of $9,872,733 for depletion, depreciation, and obsolescence, fell short by $20,452,000 of earning anything for the preferred. The preferred dividend today declared was, therefore, drawn entirely from surplus.

"Nothing has been earned for the preferred stock since the third quarter of 1931. The preferred dividend has, however, been paid in full, resulting in a total draft on surplus during the year ending June 30, 1932, in order to cover both net losses from operations and the preferred dividends for the period of $60,008,670.

"For the same period common dividends were declared in the amount of $13,054,878. Surplus has thus been reduced since July 1, 1931, by $73,063,548.

"In view of this very large draft upon surplus and current available resources within the last year, it is apparent that improvement in the business and earnings must in the future determine dividend action on the preferred stock."

Millions Out of Surplus.

To pay quarterly dividend on the preferred necessitated a $6,304,919 dip into surplus. Final deficit for the June quarter, therefore, was $26,757,092, compared with a final loss of $19,523,468 in the first quarter and a deficit of $7,617,856, after dividends, in the June quarter last year, when total dividend payments, including $8,704,292 on the common stock, aggregated $15,009,211.

In deciding to maintain the corporation's unbroken preferred dividend records directors doubtless took into consideration recent economies and improved efficiency which have enabled the nation's greatest industrial concern to carry on despite a tremendous drop in the rate of operations.

In the first place, U. S. Steel eliminated fixed charges by retiring all of its bonds on the crest of the bull market, although there are some issues of subsidiaries outstanding.

Modernization of plants and increasing the efficiency of the corporation's personnel by replacing many veterans with younger and more vigorous men have been factors. Also, wages have been cut twice, the latest reduction of 15 per cent having been put into effect on May 16.

At the close of 1931 U. S. Steel had net working capital of $430,652,000, a reduction of nearly $39,000,000 from the preceding year end. Current assets of $494,522,808 included $75,239,562 cash and nearly $70,000,000 of marketable securities. Profit and loss surplus was $421,837,192.

Sees Signs of Upturn.

Another indication that optimism now may be more easily found among U. S. Steel directors was seen in a statement made yesterday by Sewell L. Avery, who in addition to being a member of the Steel board, is president of Montgomery Ward & Co. and the United States Gypsum company. At a meeting in Chicago of the regional managers of Montgomery Ward Mr. Avery said:

"Signs of an upturn for business generally are now apparent."

Denial was made yesterday in New York of rumors from the imperial economic conference at Ottawa that the United States Steel corporation was planning early completion of its plant at Ojibway near Windsor, Ont. At the same time, however, it was admitted that if the steel manufacturers of Great Britain and Canada reached an agreement on Canadian steel imports looking to a revival of prosperity for the British steel industry at the expense of the steel manufacturers of the United States, enlargement of the steel corporation's Ojibway plant to meet such competition and seek to save United States Steel's export trade to Canada undoubtedly would be considered. No attempt, however, to complete the Ojibway plant on its original plan calling for the expenditure of some $42,000,000 is in prospect.

Prices Higher in Chicago's Stock Mart

Shares were steady on the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday, with gains possibly outnumbering the losses in the more active issues listed. Trading livened up also, the number of shares changing hands being better than double the average of recent weeks. However, trading in Chicago Investors corporation acounted for 11,500 of the shares changing hands. The stock touched a high of 1¾, but closed unchanged at 1½.

In the general list Adams Manufacturing gained 2 points to close at 7. E. L. Bruce picked up ½ to close at 4½. Crane was higher by ¾ of a point and Hall Printing was a minor fraction to the good.

Among Advancing Stocks.

Marshall Field, closing at 3⅜, was ⅛ of a point higher. Northwest Bancorporation gained 1¼ to close at 12¾. Quaker Oats preferred continued its steady advance by advancing ½ point to close at 101½. U. S. Gypsum was a minor fraction higher at 15. Both the Swift issues were fractionally lower in slower trading.

Cities Service was one of the most active issues of the day, advancing ⅛ to close at 3 on 5,350 shares changing hands. Commonwealth Edison along with utilities on the New York board, suffered a relapse, dropping 1⅛ points to finish at 57½.

Fractional losses were noted in the automotive section. Borg-Warner preferred slipped 4 points from the last transaction to close at 56.

Grigsby-Grunow Report.

D. M. Compton, vice president and general manager of the Grigsby-Grunow company, manufacturer of radios and electrical refrigerators, yesterday issued a preliminary balance sheet as of June 30, 1932. Mr. Compton pointed out that although the company showed a net loss of $831,146 for the six months ending June 30, there was included over $900,000 worth of depreciation, saying, "despite our improvements to property and b nd retirements, we gained in working capital during this six months' period."

The balance sheet showed quick assets of $1,598,601 as of June 30, with total current assets of $4,044,272. Investments were put at $2,438,173, with fixed assets, $12,960,722. Patents, trade name, and good will were given at $3,125,000. Total assets were listed as $23,257,990.

Current liabilities were given as $890,031. Total liabilities, including a $2,766,081 deficit at the beginning of the period, were placed at $23,257,990.

PIPE LINE FIRM FILES ANSWER TO BANK'S SUIT

Wilmington, Del., July 26.—(AP)—The Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company and its receivers today filed an answer in Chancery court to the foreclosure suit begun recently by the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust company of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The trust company action was filed to foreclose and sell collateral deposited by the pipe line company to secure payment of $1,600,000 in two year notes issued by the company in March, 1931. The answer stated if the foreclosure sale is permitted at this time it would result in a total loss to unsecured creditors and the investment of the company's 22,000 stockholders.

The receivers stated the value of the collateral is greatly in excess of the indebtedness and that its fair value is about $10,000,000. If the sale is postponed a reasonable time, it was claimed, the receivers, who are also receivers for the Kentucky Natural Gas company, can negotiate for additional natural gas contracts and work out the financial difficulties of the company.

Cuba Repays $500,000 New York Bank Loan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 26.—The government today repaid $500,000 of the $2,278,125 short term loans advanced by an American bankers' syndicate last June to pay external obligations due June 30. The syndicate includes Chase National and National City of New York and Continental Illinois of Chicago. The treasury also paid $85,000 and $193,000 for payment of interest an amortization on Morgan & Spyer loans, respectively, due July 30.

BUSINESS STRESS MAY FORCE MERGER OF OCEAN SHIPPING

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, July 26.—The North Atlantic steamship conference met here today to tackle the problem of surplus tonnage and the resultant uneconomic competition among the leading passenger carrying lines.

Rumors emanating from reliable sources suggest the possibility of several big steamship company mergers in the near future. One of the likeliest mergers, it is said, would be a combination of the White Star and International Mercantile Marine and the Roosevelt Shipping company, the last named being the operators of the Leviathan and other United States lines.

The slump in Atlantic travel resulting from the depression will force either mergers or some sort of a pooling arrangement among the competing lines, according to an important steamship official attending the conference here.

"The North Atlantic conference met today," he said, "in a joint conference with the members of the Mediterranean shipping conference, under the chairmanship of De Maigiaive. The joint meeting decided to extend the appointment of Emile Lederer to cover the operations of both the conferences and the system of audit control in the United States and Canada will enter into a larger sphere of action forthwith."

P. A. S. Franklin of the International Mercantile Marine will arrive in Paris tomorrow and is expected to preside at a conference at which the results of the new low rates will be fully discussed.

Bright Spots in the Day's Business

Outside of the United States Steel and Studebaker dividend actions and reports of some automakers doing better business, as recounted in other columns of today's Tribune, the following cheerful factors were noted:

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Reports from Fitchburg, Mass., in the heart of the textile industries of New England, confirmed rumors that operations there were expanding. The Arden mills of the American Woolen company are working full time with 50 per cent of the normal help. The Star Worsted company is operating with two thirds of the usual crew. The Fitchburg Yarn company and the Fitchburg Duck mills are also going part time with prospects for business this fall good.

L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central Railroad company, said, "Crops are good in the Illinois Central's territory, and this and other factors have resulted in a distinct change toward better sentiment as to the business outlook."

From Hazelton, Penn., came word that McGowan Brothers, Inc., a silk mill, resumed operations after being suspended for a month. The plant will run with three eight hour shifts daily and employs 150 men.

Domestic sales of evaporated milk were 4.6 per cent greater in the last five months than during the similar period of 1931 with 591,551 more cases sold. The increase is said to result from expanded use by welfare agencies.

The Tulsa [Okla.] World said the Consolidated Oil company has made a profit the first six months of 1932, with economies assisting.

At Fort Worth, Tex., the Williamson-Dickie Manufacturing company, which makes clothing, is working a night shift for the first time in two years. Operators numbering 150 were added to the force.

At Superior, Wis., the grain committee of the northwest shippers advisory board forecast big crops in the near northwest would require greatly increased transportation facilities. For grain alone, the forecast said, nearly three times the facilities used in July, August and September last year will be required in the similiar period this year.

At St. Paul, Minn., Levine & Tanz, Inc., women's apparel manufacturers, announced doubling of its working force within the next week, due to increased business. The firm will be operating at capacity with from 100 to 125 employés.

Nation's Monetary Gold Stock Holds About Even

New York, July 26.—(AP)—The New York Federal Reserve bank's gold statement today showed little change in metal holdings. Imports of $83,700 from Mexico were reported, together with a net loss of $100,000 caused by an increase of that amount in stocks of gold held under earmark for foreign account. There were no exports.

I. C. R. R. REPORTS BETTER TRAFFIC FOR ITS LINES

Illinois Central system reports a material increase in freight traffic for the second successive week. The 22,364 cars handled last week were 1,095 ahead of the July 16 week, which showed a gain of 3,500.

This raises hopes for improved earnings for July. June net earnings of the Illinois Central were under 1931 for the second month in succession. There also was a 50 per cent decline from net in May this year.

Gross operating revenues of the line last month were $6,817,479, compared with $7,326,835 in May this year and $9,976,082 in June, 1931. Net operating income of $260,495 for June contracte with $547,915 in May this year and $721,806 in June of 1931.

Favorable earnings in the first four months of 1932 were sufficient to permit a good showing for the half year. Although gross operating revenues of $44,824,817 were $16,008,169 less than in the first six months of last year, net operating income of $4,839,826 was $1,447,057 larger than a year ago. This figure is after operating expenses, taxes and rents. After fixed charges there was a deficit, but it was smaller than in 1931.

CRUDE OIL DATA SHOWS INCREASE IN JULY 23D WEEK

New York, July 26.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 51,000 barrels in the week ended July 23, totaling 2,205,850 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California increased 51,600 barrels to 1,733,950 barrels.

Refineries representing 95.1 per cent of estimated total capacity, operated at 61.8 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average runs of crude oil to stills as 2,263,400 barrels. Daily average the previous week for refineries representing 95.1 per cent of total, operated at 62.5 per cent of capacity, was 2,288,000 barrels.

Daily average cracked gasoline by refineries representing 95.6 per cent of total charging capacity was 465,100 barrels. Daily average production the previous week by refineries representing 95.6 per cent of total was 456,100 barrels.

PACKING HOUSE OUTPUT RECEDES, REPORT SHOWS

Contrary to the seasonal trend, the volume of production in the nation's slaughter houses continued to decrease in June, the business survey of the Seventh federal reserve district showed yesterday. The June volume was 3½ per cent under a year ago and 10 per cent under May, 1932.

In the whole trade, June export shipments averaged slightly more in volume than for the previous month.

GRAIN BOARD ORDERS FIGHT IN U. S. COURTS

Carey Replies to Hyde Group.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The Chicago Board of Trade's directorate voted unanimously yesterday afternoon to appeal to the federal courts from the order of the grain futures commission. That order, issued by Secretaries Lamont and Hyde and Attorney General Mitchell, would close the board for 60 days if it continued its refusal to admit the Farmers National Grain corporation to clearing house privileges.

PETER B. CAREY.

The Board of Trade directors authorized a petition in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago, but the carrying of the appeal to the Supreme court if necessary.

Weymouth Kirkland, counsel for the exchange, who was in the directors' meeting, stated at its close that a brief petition would be filed in the federal court, probably early next week, but certainly before the expiration of the fifteen day grace period provided by the grain comission in its ruling announced last Saturday.

Carey Issues Reply.

Thoroughly aroused by what he termed "another political maneuver," President Peter B. Carey scored crisply the second statement of the three cabinet members composing the commission, issued in Washington late Monday evening. In this dispatch the commission was quoted as hoping that "efforts of the board's president to discredit the administration of the law or to satisfy some antagonism has not gone so far as to make unfounded predictions creating business uneasiness."

"Those charges are utterly false," Mr. Carey asserted. "It was necessary for us to act quickly to retain public confidence when the commission itself informed the public, through newspapers, that the Board of Trade was suspended for sixty days, when the board did not receive its notification until 10:30 Monday morning.

Refuses to Be Muzzled.

"We succeeded in doing this because we refuse to be muzzled by the political office holders who have taken action against us. We want the public to know that this situation was not initiated by the Board of Trade. The grain futures administration ordered us to close. Now, with every sign of panic, the commission, it appears, wants the public to believe it was only joking. We took the order seriously; we continue to do so, and will fight against it."

Mr. Carey pointed out that contrary to the federal commission's "attempt to create the impression that the exchange is opposed to coöperatives truly coöperative marketing organizations have held membership on the exchange for many years "without squabbles similar to those of the federally subsidized Farmers National Grain corporation."

The exchange, he said, never has been permitted to pass upon the fitness of this corporation for clearing house membership, since it fails to supply records requested by a special committee of the Board of Trade.

Mr. Carey pointed out that although the board knew "this outfit borrowed $16,000,000 from the farm board, we do not know if it is solvent. That, of course, is an important point to consider before grantling admittance to clearing house privileges."

Order Taken Lightly.

That world traders in grains viewed the federal order to close the world's largest hedging market lightly was indicated by the upward trend in prices in the pits yesterday. The rise in grain prices followed a drop Monday, which grain merchants credited to alarm over the commission's action, since world cable news and all other commodity markets were firm or bullish.

At the same time that the government body was acting to close the exchange, by coincidence the exchange itself was arranging for an extension of its daily trading period. By remaining open 45 minutes later in the day, it is expected that western grain operations will be aided materially.

Asks Bids on Coffee.

At the same time, the federally financed Grain Stabilization corporation opened its call for bids on the Brazilian coffee which it will start to market Aug. 15 as the result of a trade made last year for 25 million bushels of its wheat. Bids will be received on 8,250,000 pounds of coffee per month.

The Farmers National Grain corporation, whose refusal to disclose its financial records to the Board of Trade resulted in the grain futures ruling, announced yesterday its annual stockholders' meeting in Chicago on Aug. 16.

The Rev. Clarence E. Huff, president of the corporation, as well as other officers, will be up for reelection by the new board of directors the stockholders will select to meet on Aug. 17.

SIDELIGHTS ON U. S. FIGHT INVOLVING THE BOARD OF TRADE

[BY THE ASSO' ATED PRESS.]

E. E. Smith, operator of the Farmers' elevator at Coldwater, Kas., said yesterday the name "farmers' " caused the elevator to lose business. About 98 per cent of the farmers in his community, he said, were "dead set against government interference."

Benjamin L. Hargis, former president of the Kansas City board of trade, said the government "has put the United States in the same position occupied by Great Britain after attempting to control rubber prices. Before the farm board set out to control wheat prices, most of the world was admitting American wheat free. Today the only countries without tariffs are Denmark and Belgium."

Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.], after a call on President Hoover, said to newspaper men in Washington:

"I told the President that such a move will be met with hearty approval in our country. We are strong for the coöperative movement there."

The senator referred to the order to suspend the Board of Trade for 60 days from the privileges of a contract grain market unless it would admit the Farmers' National Grain corporation to membership in its clearing house.

The Farmers National Grain corporation reported "substantial increase" in its grain trade during the year ending July 1, 1932. Of the twenty-eight member coöperatives, nineteen marketed their grain direct from country elevators through the Farmers National. The report will be presented to the stockholders at the annual meeting Aug. 16.

A résumé of the report showed that:

"Merchandising operations have been extended, through the opening of branch offices, into every important grain producing and consuming area.

"Grain was reported last year to Belgium, Holland, England, France, Germany, Finland, Italy and Greece.

"Of the total wheat exports from Galveston from July 1, 1931, to July 1, 1932, the Farmers National handled in excess of 60 per cent."

George S. Milnor, general manager of the coöperative, said "We also handled large exports from other gulf and ocean ports."

In the terminal markets, the coöperatives has storage capacity of 53,373,637 bushels, and 20,093,628 in the country.

During the year, a seed division was established at Ogden, Utah, and, under present plans, this will be extended to other sections.

PACKARD MOTOR REPORTS LOSS FOR 6 MONTHS

Packard Motor Car company and subsidiaries report a net loss of $2,513,127 for the first six months of 1932 after all charges. This compares with net loss of $90,120 for the same 1931 period.

June quarter loss for $949,144, compared with loss of $1,563,983 in the preceding quarter and loss of $203,124 in June quarter of 1931.

Current assets on June 30, 1932, were $23,076,964, including $13,463,846 of cash and government and market able securities. Current liabilities were only $2,892,352.

Autos' Output Larger; Three Makers Lead

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 26.—Automobile production for the week ended July 23, on the basis of reliable but unofficial figures, aggregated 46,375 units, a slight increase over the preceding week when output total 45,760 units.

The principal gains were accounted for by the Ford and Hudson plants, output in most instances ruling about unchanged or slightly lower than in the preceding week. The outstanding decline in rate of production was registered by the Plymouth division of the Chrysler corporation, output of those plants being calculated at 1,950 units against 3,000 the week before.

Watch Ford Activity.

The main point of discussion along automobile row in Detroit is the out look for activities at the Ford plants over the next little while. Consensus is that the big independent is slated to slow up markedly through August with the likelihood of complete but temporary suspension of production activities not entirely beyond the realm of possibility.

Retail demand for motor cars continues slow, it is said, with the prospect that consumer apathy is destined to hold sway over the balance of the summer.

Ford output last week is estimated to have reached 24,000 units, against 22,500 units the week before. Chevrolet remained unchanged at 8,000. Hudson, presumably reflecting the introduction of its new Essex product more than doubled the 1,400 rate of the preceding week, producing at the rate of 3,000 units.

Studebaker Output Raised.

Plants of several units, including Cadillac, Graham-Paige, and Hupp were closed during the interval. Studebaker's output was stepped up about 200 units to a total of 789, while De Soto and Dodge cut production measurably by comparison with the rate of the previous week.

EXPECT TRADE BOOST DURING MARKET WEEK

Sales by Chicago wholesalers and manufacturers are expected to show a sharp rise during fall market week, Aug. 8-13, when more than 6,000 out of town merchants and buyers will come to Chicago to purchase their fall stocks.

This event, according to its sponsors, the Chicago Association of Commerce, marks one of the highlights of the fall selling season and buyers from every section of the country are expected to be here. It will be staged coincident with the semi-annual meeting of the Interstate Merchants' council.

Advance registrations indicate an attendance from 30 or more states and Canada.

Market Given First Setback in Days.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 26.—Heavy headwinds of profit taking swept the share market today. The leaders attracted formidable support, but the anxiety of those who had been following the advance for five days proved too strong in the end and the final gong found prices driven back from a fraction to a point or so below the closing levels of the previous session.

The street has been expecting some sort of technical reaction for days, the expectations depending for their caliber largely on the strain of pessimism in the subject's makeup. Even the best of bull markets have their bad days, and the way the present one has pushed ahead day after day in spite of its impoverished condition has been the wonder of all beholders.

Customers Are Warned.

As early as last Friday the brokerage house letter writers began to warn customers that the thing was too good to last and to suggest caution in commitments pending further light on the road. The warnings were repeated Saturday, and Sunday's mail fairly groaned with them. In spite of the concern in its behalf, however, the market went on and up, yesterday's affair capping an unbelievable climax.

The thing continued for a few minutes in today's session, thanks to a rather hefty accumulation of overnight buying orders attracted by yesterday's exhibition. But, as a grizzled broker of long experience remarked, it couldn't last always. There must be two sides even to a stock market.

Situation in Hand.

The resistance offered by the list showed that constructive forces had the situation pretty well in hand, and the fact that the reaction made so little headway was highly encouraging to those working for the rise.

Neither of the United States Steel issues, the common or preferred, seemed to be greatly affected over the dividend uncertainties. The common lost a point and the preferred 2, but these losses were duplicated by other leaders in groups entirely independent of the steel industry.

Railroad shares made about the worst showing of the day. The rise in this section has been an outstanding feature of the rally, due, of course, to advance talk of interstate commerce commission approval of the eastern four party merger plan and subsequently to the official announcement of the decision, and it was natural that those who had bid themselves in the picture early in its making should be anxious to skim off their profits before it was too late. Atchison, Union Pacific, Delaware and Hudson, and others prominent on the advance dropped back from 1 to about 2 points.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 15,000; sheep, 10,000.

Receipts of live stock overran all advance estimates yesterday and Monday's price gains in cattle and hogs were erased. Fair action characterized trading in all divisions, however, and the selling side was well satisfied with the way markets performed under the strain of the unexpected increase.

It was a local increase. Trucks kept coming in all forenoon from nearby points. Evidently Monday's lively demand and higher prices were responsible for the marketward movement from smaller farms located within a few miles of Chicago.

The movement from points farther west showed no change and the aggregate total of all kinds of live stock at the 20 leading markets is still small. The total at all points at 169,000 was 15,000 less than last Tuesday and compared with 184,000 a year ago yesterday.

Buyers Aggressive.

Chicago handled a larger share of the aggregate total than usual. Receipts of hogs at 25,000 were second largest for Tuesday since May 10, barring two holiday periods. Hog prices broke 10@20c, but all buyers were aggressive on the decline and the finish was active and the highest point of the day. A cheering feature is the broader eastern outlet. During Monday and Tuesday shippers bought 16 per cent of Chicago receipts, against 7 per cent the first two days of last week. Choice light and lightweight butchers are scarce.

More than half of yesterday's offerings were packing sows. These showed most decline, the bulk of 300@500 lb "packers" selling at $3.30@4.20, while most of the 250@300 lb butchers brought $4.50@4.85. Top light at $5.00 showed 15c loss for the day. The general average also came down 15c to $4.50.

Prime Steers Steady.

Prime weighty beef steers showed the least weakness in yesterday's break and the top price for load lots went down only 15c to $9.60, which was paid by Swift for 20 averaging 1,315 lbs. Six long yearlings of exceptional finish averaged 1,162 lbs and sold at $9.65. A range of $9.00@9.50 bought a big share of the best grades of 1,000@1,500 lb averages, while only poorer grades of cattle had to go at $6.00 and under. A long string of plain southwestern cattle sold at $5.50 and below, odd lots of ill-bred stock going at $5.00 and under.

Losses for the day ranged mostly from 10c to 25c, although the medium grades that advanced sharply on Monday showed more decline in comparing extremes of the two days. Butcher stock ruled weak to 25c lower, with top for load lots of heifers at $7.85 and small bunches at $8.00@8.50. Calves advanced 25@50c, despite the decline in other live stock.

Lamb Trade Erratic.

In contrast to cattle and hogs the lamb market soared 25@50c at the opening, but this advance was rubbed out and at the close buyers managed to cheapen up on their earlier purchases. The finish was barely steady and in some instances slight losses from Monday's basis were revealed. Nine carloads of western range lambs sold at $6.85, or 50c above Monday's top for rangers, but on later rounds the tops from 18 carloads were hard to dispose of at $6.25. City butchers paid up to $6.60 for a scattering of hand picked natives, with the bulk of best sorts going to packers at $6.00@6.25. Matured stock scored a 25c advance, with top western range ewes at $2.50. Yearlings were firm.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 8,000 cattle, 15,000 hogs, and 10,000 sheep, against 6,050 cattle, 15,283 hogs, and 12,140 sheep the previous Wednesday and 10,218 cattle, 11,708 hogs, and 13,855 sheep a year ago.

WHEAT PRICES ADVANCE; TRADE IS MORE ACTIVE

Reports of Crop Damage Come from Canada.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat prices were on the upgrade yesterday and there was a more confident feeling regarding the future than for some time past. Strength in Liverpool and Winnipeg, with reports of crop damage in the Canadian northwest, brought in local and commission house buying which found offerings light. Early dullness gave place to fair activity after the market started upward, and the close was within a fraction of the top, with net gains of 1⅜@1½c on the active futures, while the July was 2¼c higher. The latter finished at 47⅞c, with September, 49⅝@49½c, and December, 52½@52⅝c. Prices were the highest since July 14.

Improved eastern and foreign buying was in evidence in the local wheat market, and there was buying at Winnipeg which was attributed to continental account. The latter closed 1¾@1⅞c higher, with October at 60c in Canadian funds, the best figure since June 6.

Bullish crop reports were received from the prairie provinces, with estimates in circulation indicating around 400,000,000 bu wheat would be harvested this year. This compared with recent figures of around 450,000,000 bu. H. C. Donovan, the Logan & Bryan crop expert, suggested a yield of 430,000,000 bu, against 284,000,000 bu last year when there was a near crop failure.

Confirm Canadian Damage.

That reports of damage to the Canadian wheat crop have not been exaggerated was indicated by the dominion government weekly telegraphic summary which said hot and dry weather had caused deterioration in the areas where moisture was lacking, especially in south central and central Saskatchewan, southeastern Alberta and in the Peace river district. Rain is needed over a wide area in southern Saskatchewan to prevent further damage.

A Canadian crop expert in a summary of the situation in the prairie provinces estimated that around 10,000,000 acres had been affected by heat and drought, and claimed farmers were surprised at the rapidity with which the wheat crop had gone to pieces. The unfavorable comment from the three provinces has been having some effect on Liverpool of late. The latter closed equal to ⅝c per bu higher, with October at 53⅞c despite liberal offers from Russia. Sales of around 1,200,000 bu were said to have been made by the latter counter than last year.

Alberta Condition Spotted.

Condition of the wheat crop in Alberta is spotted. R. O. Cromwell in a report from Edmonton estimated the average of districts 9 to 14, inclusive, with about 1,500,000 acres, at around 75 to 80 per cent, as compared with last year. In 1931 this section averaged 30 bu wheat per acre. As a whole the remainder of the province is as good to much better than last year.

Unfavorable crop comments continue to come from parts of the American northwest, where wheat has ripened prematurely. Harvesting is on in northeastern Montana and northwestern North Dakota, according to George M. Le Count, due to the rapid maturity of the grain, while to the east cutting will not start for some days. The Occident Elevator crop summary suggested as much as 50 per cent damage in some sections. Estimates on the Danubian wheat crop are being lowered, with an official report placing the Rumanian yield at 76,000,000 bu, against 135,000,000 bu last year.

Export demand for North American cash wheat was fairly active, with the seaboard estimating sales at 500,000 bu in all positions, and claimed the inquiry from abroad was the best in some time. Bids for important quantities were said to be in the market somewhat under sellers' views. The trade had rumors that the farm board was to issue a statement during the day, but the rumor was officially denied.

Rains Help Corn Crop.

Showers to good rains fell over parts of Illinois, Iowa, and Indiana and embraced some of the heaviest producing areas in the three states. This took the edge off the market, and with increased hedging pressure little attention was paid to the strength in wheat. Prices averaged lower, and the finish was at net losses of ⅝@½c, with July, 30½c; September, 31⅞@32c, and December, 32½c.

One effect of the better weather conditions was to cause country holders of old corn to loosen up and local handlers booked 175,000 bu to arrive. Buenos Aires was quoted ½c higher at midday, with the August delivery quoted at 32¾c, a substantial premium over the July future in Chicago, while July corn in Rotterdam was 38¾c. There were no intimations of export business in domestic grain, however.

Oats Sold for Export.

The first export business in domestic oats reported in some time was put through yesterday, local handlers selling 65,000 bu. Charters were made for that quantity to go to Montreal. Futures dropped early to a new low for the season, with July selling at 16¼c, but the loss was largely recovered later. Final trades were unchanged to ⅛c lower, with July, 16½c; September, 17⅝c, and December, 20½c. Rye gained 1@1¼c in sympathy with wheat. July was 29¼c; September, 31⅝, and December, 35c at the last.
